

202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street Scoping Meeting Summary General Services Administration

Introduction

The General Services Administration (GSA) is preparing an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to address the future of the four buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street adjacent to the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse in downtown Chicago, Illinois. All four properties, for which Congress has appropriated funds for demolition, reside in the Loop Retail Historic District listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Two of the four buildings, the Century Building (202 South State Street) and the Consumers Building (220 South State Street), are contributing elements to the historic district.

On November 10, 2022, GSA held a public scoping meeting to obtain input on impacts and alternatives that should be addressed in the EIS that GSA is preparing. The scoping meeting also served as an opportunity for public involvement and comment under the National Historic Preservation Act Section 106 process. Those interested in serving as a consulting party to the Section 106 process were invited to express their interest during the meeting and comment period. Consulting parties are parties that have consultative roles in the Section 106 process, including State Historic Preservation Officers; Tribal Historic Preservation Officers; Native nations; representatives of local governments; applicants for federal assistance, permits, licenses, and other approvals; the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation; and other individuals and organizations with a demonstrated interest in the undertaking or the affected historic properties (36 Code of Federal Regulations 800.2).

The public scoping meeting provided an opportunity for public engagement and feedback and was intended to solicit public comments to determine relevant issues to influence the scope of the EIS. Comments could be submitted in five different ways, as follows:

1. In writing via Eventbrite during meeting registration
2. Verbally (in-person and virtually) during the public comment period of the meeting
3. Verbally (in-person) to a stenographer at any time during the meeting
4. In writing on a comment form submitted via a submission box at the meeting
5. In writing via email or postal mail to GSA during the scoping comment period

All comments are treated with equal importance.

Scoping Meeting

A hybrid in-person and virtual public scoping meeting was held from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. CST on November 10, 2022, at the Metcalfe Federal Building's Morrison Conference Center (77 West Jackson Boulevard) with an option to attend virtually via Zoom. A total of 58 people attended the public scoping meeting (16 in person and 42 via Zoom). The scoping meeting was advertised by mailed invitation, in local newspapers, and on the GSA Great Lakes Region 5 website. A handout describing the project and how to comment was provided at the scoping meeting (Appendix F).

GSA welcomed and checked in attendees and invited them to sign in to confirm their meeting attendance. Attendees were also invited to view informational display boards that provided information on the meeting's purpose and agenda, the location of the buildings at issue, and instructions for meeting participation, including commenting guidelines (Figure 2). Attendees received written comment forms to provide comments on alternatives, potential impacts, or any other information they believed should be considered in the EIS (Figure 3).

Written comments were accepted at the meeting via a submission box or could be sent by email or postal mail to GSA during the scoping comment period (October 28, 2022, to December 12, 2022). The display boards and comment forms are shown in Appendix G and Appendix H, respectively.

The scoping meeting included a presentation by GSA representatives, remarks from GSA Region 5 Commissioner and Chief Judge for the federal District Court for Northern Illinois. A comment period was held during which virtual and in-person attendees were called forward individually by a moderator and given the opportunity to make verbal comments to a panel of three GSA Region 5 staff. A stenographer recorded the presentation and comment period, and the virtual meeting was recorded via Zoom. An additional stenographer was in a separate room for the duration of the meeting for attendees to make verbal comments at any time. A video of the virtual meeting with closed captioning will be provided on the project website, and a transcript of the meeting is provided in Appendix I.

Scoping Meeting Comments

A total of 178 comments were received during the scoping comment period. Eighteen people provided verbal comments during the formal comment period at the public scoping meeting. A total of 142 written comments were received via postal mail or email during the scoping comment period. GSA will consider all comments received during the scoping process while preparing the EIS. Questions asked within a comment will be addressed in the EIS.

All comments received are available as follows and will be included in the EIS:

- Appendix I – all verbal comments from the meeting; included in the meeting transcript
- Appendix J – written comments
- Appendix K – comments from government agencies

Summary of Comments and Issues

This section identifies the major concerns communicated to GSA as part of the scoping process.

1. Environmental Issues

- Demolition is carbon and resource intensive
- Demolition could decrease climate resiliency of Chicago
- Preserving urban density reduces reliance on cars in Chicago's loop and reduces transport emissions
- Demolition contradicts Chicago's newly released climate action plan which encourages prioritization of adaptive reuse

2. Historical, Cultural and Architectural Significance of Buildings

- Buildings are significant contributions to Chicago's history and culture of the Loop
- Demolition could jeopardize pending UNESCO World Heritage Site designation
- Two of the structures are contributing buildings to the Loop Retail Historic District, listed in the National Register of Historic Places
- Demolishing the buildings incentivizes urban sprawl, which would change the culture of the loop
- Effects on local character and safety of the area post-demolition
- Addition to the existing underused public plazas within the Chicago Loop
- Buildings were built at a time of high quality craftsmanship that cannot be replicated today

3. Security Concerns

- There are other buildings around the courthouse which could pose a security threat, why are the buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 specifically a concern?
- Find other ways to improve security, such as internal measures and slight alterations to the Century and Consumers Buildings
- Consider moving the Federal Courthouse to a more secure location

- Remove sightlines facing federal buildings to maintain security without need for demolition
4. Economic Loss from Demolition
 - Demolition would mean loss of tax revenue
 - Demolition would be a waste of public taxpayer funds
 - The historic buildings help secure needed investments in the South State Street corridor
 - Potential loss of tourism value from demolition of the buildings
 5. Alternatives to Demolition
 - Alternatives presented at the Scoping Meeting are limited
 - The fifteen conditions for Alternative B limit potential preservation and adaptive reuse of the buildings
 - Options for reusing the buildings while meeting security requirements
 - Renovate buildings into affordable housing
 - Restore the Century and Consumers Buildings and repurpose as the Chicago Collaborative Archives Center
 - Reconsider proposal from Antunovich Associates to restore the Consumers and Century buildings
 6. Demolition by Negligence
 - GSA used eminent domain to take control of buildings but allowed them to remain vacant and fall into disrepair

Next Steps

GSA's Draft EIS will consider the concerns identified during the scoping comment period. The EIS will be prepared in compliance with all applicable federal requirements and guidelines and a draft version of the EIS will be published and made available for public review. Following publication of the Draft EIS, a public and agency comment period will be provided, which will include a public meeting. At the public meeting, members of the public, interested groups, and agencies will be able to submit oral and written comments on the Draft EIS. The Draft EIS will be updated to address comments and incorporate any changes that may arise because of comments. The Final EIS will be available for public review. A Record of Decision (ROD) will be prepared after the Final EIS and it will identify the Preferred Alternative.

prioritize hiring a senior executive responsible for privacy and data security. Our complaint notes that he hired other members of the c-suite but not a Chief Technology Officer or Chief Information Security Officer. And for Rellas' failure to prioritize information security over other business obligations, the order imposes on Rellas significant compliance obligations even if he leaves Drizly.⁷

By naming Rellas, the Commission has not put the market on notice that the FTC will use its resources to target lax data security practices. Instead, it has signaled that the agency will substitute its own judgement about corporate priorities and governance decisions for those of companies.⁸ There is no doubt that robust data security is important. Having a federal data security law would signal to companies, executives, and boards of directors the importance of implementing and maintaining data security programs that address potential risks, taking into account the size of the business and the nature of the data at issue. But CEOs have hundreds of issues and numerous regulatory obligations to navigate. Companies, not federal regulators, are better positioned to evaluate what risks require the regular attention of a CEO. And when companies err in making those assessments, the government will hold them accountable.

Accordingly, I dissent from the inclusion of the individual defendant in the complaint and settlement in this matter.

⁷ The Order binds Rellas to implement an information security program at any future company in which he is a majority owner, CEO, or senior officer with information security responsibilities, where that company collects personal information from at least 25,000 individuals. The Order does not address scenarios in which Boards of Directors, other owners, or higher-ranking executives make it impossible for Rellas to fulfill his obligations.

⁸ Then-Commissioner Phillips and I raised similar concerns in our dissents to the FTC's regulatory reviews of the Safeguards Rule. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Scoping Process

The purpose of the public scoping process is to identify relevant issues that will influence the scope of analysis of the human and natural environment including cultural resources. The EIS will include public input on alternatives and impacts. This meeting will also initiate GSA's public consultation required by NHPA. GSA seeks input at this meeting that will assist the agency in planning for the Section 106 consultation process, identifying consulting parties, determining the area of the undertaking's potential effects on cultural resources (Area of Potential Effects), and envisioning alternatives to demolition that will avoid, minimize or mitigate adverse effects. Federal, state, and local agencies, along with affected members of the public, are invited to participate in the NEPA scoping and Section 106 process.

The National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) and the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) are two separate laws which require federal agencies to consider the impacts to historic properties and the human environment before making decisions. NHPA and NEPA are independent statutes, yet may be executed concurrently to optimize efficiencies, transparency, and accountability to better understand the effects to the human, natural, and cultural environment. The EIS will be prepared pursuant to the requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1969, the Council on Environmental Quality NEPA regulations, and the GSA Public Buildings Service NEPA Desk Guide. GSA will also consult with appropriate parties in accordance with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) of 1966.

Opportunities for affected members of the public to become a consulting party during the NHPA Section 106 process will be presented during the public scoping meeting. You may submit a comment to express your interest in being a consulting party if you cannot attend the meeting.

Purpose and Need for the Proposed Action and Undertaking

The purpose of the Proposed Action and Undertaking is to address the potential security vulnerabilities associated with buildings 202, 208–212,

214 and 220 South State Street, to respond to the passing of the 2022 Consolidated Appropriations Act, which calls for the demolition of these buildings and to effectively manage federal property. The Proposed Action and Undertaking is specifically needed for the following reasons:

Address Security

- The Dirksen Federal Courthouse and its occupants are at particular risk of harm by hostile acts.
- Physical security surrounding the courthouse needs to be maintained and enhanced.

Respond to Congressional Intent

- Congress passed the 2022 Consolidated Appropriations Act with the following expectations:
 - Defined scope to demolish the four properties.
 - Funding for demolition of the four properties.

Manage Assets

- There is no federal occupancy need for the buildings.

Proposed Action and Undertaking and Preliminary Alternatives

The proposed action and undertaking are to address the future of buildings 202, 208–212, 214 and 220 South State Street, Chicago, Illinois. GSA has identified the following preliminary alternatives for the proposed action. However, additional alternatives proposed by the public may be considered in the EIS.

Demolition (Alternative A): GSA is considering the demolition of four buildings at 202, 208–212, 214 and 220 South State Street, Chicago, Illinois, per the 2022 Consolidated Appropriations Act. The funds appropriated by Congress are available only for demolition, securing the site, and landscaping the vacant site following demolition. The proposed action includes protection of adjacent properties during demolition, securing the vacant site of the demolished buildings and landscaping of the vacant site following demolition.

Viable Adaptive Reuse (Alternative B): The following is a current listing of reuse criteria developed in collaboration with the United States District Court, Northern District of Illinois, and federal law enforcement agencies. References therein to “Developer” include lessees, tenants, or other occupants and users of the properties. There are no federal funds available for rehabilitation, preservation, or restoration of buildings at 202, 208–212, 214 and 220 South State Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Rehabilitation or modification of the properties in order to meet the following criteria will not be performed at the Government’s expense. These restrictions are necessary to meet the security needs of the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse and would be applicable to any uses of the property.

1. The Federal government must retain ownership interests to achieve its security objectives, as determined by the government in its discretion.

2. Occupancy/Use: Properties shall not be used for short-term or long-term residential or lodging, places of worship, or medical treatment, services, or research. No use that requires access to outdoor areas is permitted.

3. Access to the roof is restricted to maintenance and repair activities. Personnel and materials that will be present in this area shall be subject to clearance and controls necessary to meet court security objectives.

4. Developer would have no access or use rights to Quincy Court.

5. Loading is prohibited in Quincy Court and otherwise restricted in a manner to achieve court security. Loading on State or Adams Streets would be subject to local ordinance requirements.

6. Occupants and users of the buildings shall have no sight lines into the Dirksen Courthouse, the Dirksen Courthouse ramp, or the Quincy Court properties owned by GSA.

7. No parking or vehicle access is permitted on or within the properties.

8. Developer is responsible for staffing, at their expense, security 24 hours with personnel approved by the Federal Protective Service or an entity to whom security services are delegated by Federal Protective Service.

9. Developer must obtain and maintain access control systems to prevent unauthorized access to any location within the structures. Each exterior entrance point must have an intrusion detection system and access control system installed, and Developer must provide federal law enforcement access to each system.

10. Developer must install and maintain interior and exterior security cameras and provide federal law enforcement officials with access and the ability to monitor the feeds in real time.

11. Developer must install exterior lighting necessary to achieve courthouse security objectives.

12. Perimeter Security: Developer must prevent unauthorized access to the properties that would result in an unapproved sight line.

13. Fire escapes, and any other structures that would allow access from the street, must be removed.

14. All construction documents and specifications for any renovation, rehabilitation, modification, or construction of any portion of the building (interior or exterior) will be subject to review and approval by federal law enforcement agencies.

15. No project may start without the advance approval of GSA.

No Action Alternative: GSA would continue with the status quo; the buildings would remain in place, vacant with significant repairs needed, and with limited federal funds available for maintenance.

Summary of Potential Impacts

The EIS will identify, describe, and analyze the potential effects of the Action and No Action alternatives. This will include direct, indirect, and cumulative effects resulting from the implementation of the Action and No Action Alternatives. At present, GSA has identified the following resources for analysis of both beneficial and adverse potential impacts: cultural resources; aesthetic and visual quality; land use and zoning; community cohesion; socioeconomic; hazardous materials; air quality; noise; transportation and traffic; human health and safety; coastal zones; and geology, soils, and topography. The EIS will consider measures that would avoid, minimize, or mitigate identified adverse impacts. GSA welcomes public input on these potential impacts and other resources that should be considered.

Anticipated Permits and Authorizations

In addition to NEPA, federal permits and other federal authorizations may be required for execution of the proposed action and undertaking or its alternatives. GSA’s activities to meet its obligations under NEPA and Section 106 are not intended or presumed to effect compliance with all environmental regulation that may apply to the proposed action and undertaking, which involve separate regulatory permitting procedures. Examples include those required by the Clean Water Act, Clean Air Act, and applicable non-federal permitting laws.

Schedule for Decision-Making Process

The following is a list of estimated milestones and timeframes for the EIS process:

- EIS Notice of Intent (NOI) in Federal Register: November 2022
- NEPA Scoping Meeting Conducted with Initiation of Section 106: November 2022

- End of NEPA Scoping Period: December 2022
- Publication of the Draft EIS: April 2023
- Draft EIS Public Comment Period: April-June 2023
- Completion of Section 106 Process: January 2024
- Final EIS: January 2024
- Record of Decision: February 2024

Background

The Patient Safety Act, 42 U.S.C. 299b-21 to 299b-26, and the related Patient Safety Rule, 42 CFR part 3, published in the Federal Register on November 21, 2008 (73 FR 70732-70814), establish a framework by which individuals and entities that meet the definition of provider in the Patient Safety Rule may voluntarily report information to PSOs listed by AHRQ, on a privileged and confidential basis, for the aggregation and analysis of patient safety work product.

The Patient Safety Act authorizes the listing of PSOs, which are entities or component organizations whose mission and primary activity are to conduct activities to improve patient safety and the quality of health care delivery.

HHS issued the Patient Safety Rule to implement the Patient Safety Act. AHRQ administers the provisions of the Patient Safety Act and Patient Safety Rule relating to the listing and operation of PSOs. The Patient Safety Rule authorizes AHRQ to list as a PSO an entity that attests that it meets the statutory and regulatory requirements for listing. A PSO can be “delisted” if it is found to no longer meet the requirements of the Patient Safety Act and Patient Safety Rule, when a PSO chooses to voluntarily relinquish its status as a PSO for any reason, or when a PSO’s listing expires. Section 3.108(d) of the Patient Safety Rule requires AHRQ to provide public notice when it removes an organization from the list of PSOs.

AHRQ has accepted a notification of proposed voluntary relinquishment from the SimCore PSO, LLC to voluntarily relinquish its status as a PSO. Accordingly, the SimCore PSO, LLC, PSO number P0189, was delisted effective at 12:00 Midnight ET (2400) on October 14, 2022.

SimCore PSO, LLC has patient safety work product (PSWP) in its possession. The PSO will meet the requirements of section 3.108(c)(2)(i) of the Patient Safety Rule regarding notification to providers that have reported to the PSO and of section 3.108(c)(2)(ii) regarding disposition of PSWP consistent with section 3.108(b)(3). According to section 3.108(b)(3) of the Patient Safety Rule, the PSO has 90 days from the effective date of delisting and revocation to complete the disposition of PSWP that is currently in the PSO’s possession.

More information on PSOs can be obtained through AHRQ’s PSO website at <http://www.pso.ahrq.gov>.

Medicaid and Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP) Generic Information Collection Activities: Proposed Collection; Comment Request

AGENCY: Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, Health and Human Services (HHS).

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: On May 28, 2010, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) issued Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA) guidance related to the “generic” clearance process. Generally, this is an expedited process by which agencies may obtain OMB’s approval of collection of information requests that are “usually voluntary, low-burden, and uncontroversial collections,” do not raise any substantive or policy issues, and do not require policy or methodological review. The process requires the submission of an overarching plan that defines the scope of the individual collections that would fall under its umbrella. On October 23, 2011, OMB approved our initial request to use the generic clearance process under control number 0938-1148 (CMS-10398). It was last approved on April 26, 2021, via the standard PRA process which included the publication of 60- and 30-day Federal Register notices. The scope of the April 2021 umbrella accounts for Medicaid and CHIP State plan amendments, waivers, demonstrations, and reporting. This Federal Register notice seeks public comment on one or more of our collection of information requests that we believe are generic and fall within the scope of the umbrella. Interested persons are invited to submit comments regarding our burden estimates or any other aspect of this collection of information, including: the necessity and utility of the proposed information collection for the proper performance of the agency’s functions, the accuracy of Putin sees 'no need' to use nuclear weapons in Ukraine

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — Russian President Vladimir Putin on Thursday denied having any intentions of using nuclear weapons in Ukraine but described the conflict there as part of alleged efforts by the West to secure its global domination, which he insisted are doomed to fail.

Speaking at a conference of international foreign policy experts, Putin said it's pointless for Russia to strike Ukraine with nuclear weapons.

"We see no need for that," Putin said. "There is no point in that, neither political, nor military."

Putin said an earlier warning of his readiness to use "all means available to protect Russia" didn't amount to nuclear saber-rattling but was merely a response to Western statements about their possible use of nuclear weapons.

He particularly mentioned Liz Truss saying in August that she would be ready to use nuclear weapons if she became Britain's prime minister, a remark which he said worried the Kremlin.

"What were we supposed to think?" Putin said. "We saw that as a coordinated position, an attempt to blackmail us."

In a long speech full of diatribes against the United States and its allies, Putin accused them of trying to dictate their terms to other nations in a "dangerous, bloody and dirty" domination game.

Putin claimed that "humankind now faces a choice: accumulate a load of problems that will inevitably crush us all or try to find solutions that may not be ideal but could work and could make the world more stable and secure."

Putin also expressed bewilderment about Washington's policy on China, noting that tensions sparked by a recent visit to Taiwan by U.S. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi come amid the U.S.-Russian showdown over Ukraine.

"Why spoil relations with China at the same time?" Putin said. "It seems to defy logic and common sense. It looks like ravings."

Putin said he thinks "all the time" about the casualties that Russia has suffered in Ukraine, but insisted that NATO's refusal to rule out Ukraine's prospective membership and Kyiv's refusal to adhere to a peace deal for its separatist conflict in the country's east has left Moscow no other choice.

On the battlefield, Ukrainian forces attacked Russia's hold on the southern city of Kherson on Thursday while fighting intensified in the country's east. The battles came amid reports that Moscow-appointed authorities have abandoned the city, joining tens of thousands of residents who fled to other Russia-held areas.

Five people, including a 15-year-old boy, were killed and 27 wounded in shootings in Chicago since Friday evening, according to Chicago police.

◆ The first fatal shooting happened Friday night in a Chicago Lawn alley on the Southwest Side. A 44-year-old man was outside about 10:25 p.m. in the 3000 block of West 63rd Street when he was shot multiple times, Chicago police said. He was taken to Christ Medical Center in Oak Lawn, where he was pronounced dead, police said.

◆ A man was seriously wounded in a shooting in Gresham. The man, 36, was walking along the sidewalk in the 7900 block of South Lafayette Avenue about 1:10 a.m. Saturday when he was shot in the left leg, police said. He was taken to University of Chicago Medical Center, where he was listed in serious condition, police said.

◆ Early Sunday, a 15-year-old boy was discovered by police with a gunshot wound to the head near the Little Village neighborhood on the West Side. Someone in a black SUV fired shots at the boy about 1:40 a.m. in the 3000 block of West 23rd Street before fleeing the scene, police said. The boy was pronounced dead at the scene.

◆ A man was killed and three people wounded when gunfire broke out during a fight outside a River North nightclub on the Near North Side. About 2:10 a.m., outside Hush Chicago, 311 W. Chicago Ave., security at the club had removed a group of people who then began fighting outside, police said.

Two people started shooting, and a security guard returned fire. A man, 30, was shot in the chest during the altercation and later died at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. Authorities had not released his name.

The guard, 30, was shot in his shoulder and in good condition at a hospital, police said. Hush Chicago is located between the Chicago Avenue Brown Line station and Orleans Street. The club stays open until 5 a.m. on Sunday mornings, according to its website.

A club representative did not immediately return a request for comment.

◆ Sunday afternoon, a man was shot in the chest just before 5 p.m. in the 500 block of West 99th Street. He was pronounced dead at a hospital, police said.

At least 27 other people were wounded in citywide shootings since 5 p.m. Friday, authorities say.

Suspicious envelope found at Arizona GOP gov candidate's Phoenix office

PHOENIX — Authorities on Sunday were investigating an envelope that reportedly contained suspicious white powder that was opened at the Phoenix campaign headquarters of Arizona Republican gubernatorial candidate Kari Lake.

Phoenix police and fire officials said they were called to the building around 2 a.m. and there were no reports of injuries or illness.

It's still unclear what was in the envelope.

Lake's campaign said the staff member who opened the envelope was under medical supervision.

"Just two days before Election Day, our campaign headquarters remains shut down.

Kari Lake

We look forward to law enforcement completing their investigation as quickly as possible," Lake campaign spokesman Ross Trumble said in a statement. "In the meantime, know that our resolve has never been higher and we cannot be intimidated."

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Katie Hobbs said in a statement that the incident "is incredibly concerning" and she was thankful Lake and her staff weren't harmed.

"Political violence, threats, or intimidation have no place in our democracy," Hobbs said. "I strongly condemn this threatening behavior directed at Lake and her staff."

Batavia school staffer allegedly assaults student

Police: Suspect under investigation after video reportedly shows him putting female in headlock

By Megan Jones
Beacon-News

A Batavia High School employee is under investigation after a video circulated on social media reportedly showing the worker putting a student in a headlock.

A Batavia School District 101 spokesperson said the employee, a campus monitor, was responding to an incident of "assault and battery involving students" on Friday in the Batavia High School cafeteria. Police officers could not provide more details on what the video showed, citing an active investigation.

"There are some videos being circulated showing a portion of the incident, and the videos have gained quite a bit of attention," Holly Deitchman, District 101's communications manager, said in a statement. "We can all agree that the video clip is a cause for concern."

Batavia police have not identified the man in the video, but said he works as a campus monitor. The female student is a sophomore. Police said they are actively investigating the incident, talking to witnesses and reviewing surveillance videos. Currently, no charges have been filed.

"The district cannot release any additional information publicly, including the full video, to maintain confidentiality," Deitchman said. "Right now, our priorities are supporting those impacted, completing a thorough investigation into the incident, and determining appropriate responses based on the investigation findings."

School officials said the district is working closely with all of the parties involved as part of its investigation.

Lawsuit filed to stop enforcement of youth curfew on Halloween

By Paige Fry
Chicago Tribune

Good Kids Mad City filed a lawsuit Wednesday against the city of Chicago to seek relief from the city's curfew on Halloween so young people with the organization can "cop watch and peacekeep" in Hyde Park on the holiday.

The city's curfew prohibits those under the age of 18 from being on the streets after 10 p.m. Every year on Halloween, Good Kids Mad City holds an event in Hyde Park where members cop watch — observe police activity with the goal of deescalating and discouraging police misconduct — and conduct outreach to young people. According to the lawsuit, members are concerned officers will arrest and harass them during their event.

Since City Council amended the curfew in May, the Chicago Police Department has increased enforcement by at least 57% compared with enforcement last year, according to the lawsuit. The lawsuit also argues that enforcement focuses on Black and brown neighborhoods, which is the base of Good Kids Mad City's operations.

The lawsuit said that it seeks a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction that would prevent police from enforcing the curfew against activists who engage in "nontraditional First Amendment activities."

The lawsuit also asks that the Chicago Police Department inform all officers during roll call that they are prohibited from enforcing the curfew against the youth participating in these actions.

Trick-or-treaters are dressed in costumes during a Halloween event at Armstrong (Lillian Hardin) Park on Oct. 31, 2021, in Bronzeville. CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Good Kids Mad City's peacekeeping and police watching activities often occur during curfew hours because that is when members believe it has the most impact, according to the lawsuit.

"This is particularly true on Halloween, when both young people and police are particularly active after the curfew hours. Because GKMC's cop watching and peacekeeping activities must occur during curfew hours, there are no alternative channels for this expression," according to the lawsuit.

Kristen Cabanban, a spokesperson for the city's Law Department, declined to comment.

"This matter is now pending litigation and the City has no comment," she said in an email.

Thank you for attending the General Services Administration's (GSA's) public scoping meeting in support of an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to address the future of the four buildings at 202, 208-212, 214 and 220 South State Street adjacent to the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse in downtown Chicago, Illinois. All four properties, for which Congress has appropriated funds for demolition, reside in the Loop Retail Historic District listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Two of the four buildings, the Century Building (202 South State Street) and the Consumers Building (220 South State Street) are contributing elements to the historic district. The purpose of the scoping meeting is to obtain input on impacts and alternatives that should be addressed in the Environmental Impact Statement that GSA is preparing.

This scoping meeting will also serve as an opportunity for public involvement and comment under the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) Section 106 process. Those interested in serving as a consulting party to the Section 106 process will be invited to do so during the meeting. Consulting parties are parties that have consultative roles in the Section 106 process, including State Historic Preservation Officers; Tribal Historic Preservation Officers; Indian tribes; representatives of local governments; applicants for federal assistance, permits, licenses, and other approvals; the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation; and other individuals and organizations with a demonstrated interest in the undertaking or the affected historic properties (36 CFR 800.2).

Please share your valuable input into the scope of the project.

This public scoping meeting provides an opportunity for public engagement and feedback and is intended to solicit public comments to determine relevant issues that will influence the scope of the environmental analysis. This meeting will not be your only opportunity to comment. GSA will establish a meeting schedule for Consulting Parties and a follow-on public hearing will be held in Spring 2023.

Submit Comments

You will have the opportunity to submit comments on the project via comment card or a stenographer during the meeting, or in writing until December 12, 2022. We need to save these buildings. Have we not learned from our past mistakes of tearing down our notable buildings. our WORLD RENOWNED architectural heritage is the jewel in our crown. This is crime and is also environmentally wasteful.

It is a cultural, political, monetary, and environmental catastrophe to tear down the Century and Consumers Buildings! I wholly disapprove of any efforts to demolish any of these buildings, along with the majority of Chicagoans. Turning these beautiful pieces of history in an empty lot harming the entire surrounding area will be looked upon by historians as one of Chicago's greatest mistakes.

The loss of these buildings would leave an awkward gap along a prominent corner of the State Street streetscape. A lack of imagination and creativity burdens taxpayers and results in irreversible loss of buildings that could easily pay their way and contribute to the public good rather than be a burden on it. Saving these buildings is in the tax payers best interest.

The demolition of these two historic buildings would be a crime, a crime purported by the federal government to be necessary. In the 58 years the Dirksen Federal Building has been in place, there have been zero attempts on public officials or anyone via gun fire for upper floors. The guise of "security concerns" is broadly overreaching and clueless as to the location of these buildings. If the Century and Consumers Buildings are demolished for "security" where does it end? Why not the buildings across State? Why not across Adams? Will the 1895 landmarked (Chicago, National Register landmark, National Register of Historic Places) Marquette Building kiddy-corner be demolished next? If the federal government didn't want the responsibility for building upkeep and maintenance, then they never should've eminent domaines these buildings to begin with, and they certainly shouldn't have become slumlords over said properties. The federal government is criminal in their behavior towards these two buildings and using taxpayer dollars for the senseless demolition of two extremely worthy buildings with plenty of reuse potential is completely antithetical to everything the current administration says it's for, especially their environmental policies. Dick Durbin should be ashamed for seeking this funding and he, his office, and the federal government needs to get their hands off real estate if they're going to treat historic buildings no better than a crack dealer would. For shame Dick Durbin, for shame.

AIA Chicago and AIA Illinois' mission is to build on our shared architectural legacy by advocating for the architecture profession and partnering with communities. We join our voices with many notable Architects and organizations, like Preservation Chicago and Landmarks Illinois, to advocate for the preservation of the Century Building, built in 1915 by Holabird and Roche at 202 S. State Street and the Consumers Building, built in 1913 by Jenney, Mundie & Jensen at 220 S. State Street. These buildings represent significant contributions to the Chicago School of Architecture by respected firms. We stand with the communities calling for adaptive reuse and revitalization of both high-rises in lieu of their demolition. While design concerns for the Federal Complex are valid, we strongly believe that a design team will be able to address them during the revitalization process, while respecting the existing urban fabric of the State Street corridor.

The preservation of our buildings is also vital to a sustainable future for all Chicagoans. This Fall, as we focus on Chicago's newly released Climate Action Plan, the Mayor's Decarbonization Task Force advised us to prioritize adaptive reuse. Buildings account for approximately 40% of global carbon emissions, and in some estimates as much as 50%, when we include upstream construction emissions.

In the critical years where we must limit global emissions the Embodied Carbon of building materials must be reduced – emphasizing again the undeniable value of preservation.

As Chicagoans, it is our strong belief we should not ignore our architectural legacy. Instead, we should harness the talents of our design community to resolve any concerns, while preserving the richness of our urban fabric.

AIA Chicago and AIA Illinois look forward to working with the city, Preservation Chicago, Landmarks Illinois, and the GSA on this important issue. Please reach out to us if we can assist you further in the coming months.

Chicago and the US generally have demolished a shocking amount of our own history and heritage just as we enter a period of low craftsmanship ability. These towers are early skyscrapers in the city that invented the skyscraper. We have erased enough of our own history, please do not continue down that road. If you do not value sentimental, architectural, quality, or historical reasons--then let us consider the environmental factors. Demolishing and rebuilding is always more resource intensive and wasteful than rehabilitating existing buildings. The location is in the loop which is the most transit oriented area in our region by a massive margin. Removing dense buildings in such a place is the opposite of transit oriented development.

The Federal Government reanimating the corpse of urban renewal to demolish two historically significant buildings in downtown Chicago over illusory security concerns is an embarrassment. If the Government is of the opinion that they are not safe in an area with tall buildings, than they should move to one of the many areas in the region which do not have tall buildings, rather than destroying American heritage and replacing it with blight.

These historic buildings should be saved and preserved and renovatioed into affordable housing. The government should not force a building into disrepair and dismemberment because of any design flaws in neighboring federal buildings. The Century and Consumers Buildings have been part of the fabric of Chicago's loop for generations, but their value goes far beyond nostalgia. We are in the midst of a climate crisis that calls us to reduce waste and reduce emissions in every way we can. My generation and the next care deeply about doing as much as we can for a liveable planet and saving these buildings will help to reduce energy waste and carbon emissions, while making our city more resilient for the future.

The two biggest sources of carbon emissions in the Midwest are energy and transportation. These buildings represent a massive investment in energy, materials, labor, shipping, and construction cost that was already spent years ago. While the financial cost to tear them down and build a plaza may seem small, the environmental cost is large. We would be throwing perfectly good masonry work, beams, hardware, and other materials in the dump, wasting the energy expended to create them in the first place while fueling massive cranes and dump trucks to burn more fuel today. The energy and materials needed to renovate these buildings would not come close to the amount wasted in demolition. Even worse, demolishing buildings shifts the future potential of new tenants to other buildings in the area, incentivizing more sprawl and more brand new construction that pulls new materials out of the ground, disrupting forests and other natural habitats.

While the energy concerns seem most directly connected to these buildings, transportation is actually more important here. Dense, walkable, bikeable, and transit-oriented communities are the most effective and equitable way to reduce transportation emissions. Chicago's loop is a rare example of density in the Midwest, and it is that density that frees people from having to drive everywhere for every little thing. I don't know what these buildings will hold someday, perhaps they will be residential, commercial, office, or storage. But any usage will draw people, who will have the option to walk, bike, or take the cta instead of driving. These buildings contribute to the surrounding streetscape as well, creating a complete street façade that feels inviting to visitors and residents alike. By tearing holes in the fabric of the loop, you reduce both the form and function of its architectural assets, hurting the surrounding businesses and the municipal tax base as well.

The two biggest impacts of climate change on the Midwest are likely to be flooding and heat. A new concrete plaza will exacerbate both, fueling stormwater runoff and cranking up the urban heat island effect. Eliminating the shade provided by these buildings will also make the summer heat worse for loop pedestrians and surrounding buildings.

If the premise here is that any tall building near the courthouse is a risk, then every tall building in the loop could be on the chopping block next. The climate impacts could be enormous. Improve the security of these buildings, find a better option for reuse, and don't waste our cultural heritage for a short-term lack of creativity. The next generations will thank you.

Two of Chicago's greatest strengths are the density of its urban core and its historic buildings. Demolishing these buildings weakens both of those strengths.

Mayor Emmanuel previously found private investors who were willing to rehabilitate these buildings. Instead of tearing down these buildings, the federal government should work with the city of Chicago to sell them to private developers who can rehabilitate them.

Rehabilitating these buildings would put them back on the tax rolls, and would ensure they are able to continue existing for future generations.

I am incredibly disappointed that the tearing down of these buildings is even being considered. Please do the right thing and protect and preserve these buildings.

Re: Public Scoping Meeting and Section 106 Testimony for the Century and Consumers Buildings, located at 202 and 220 S. State Street, and 208-212 and 214 S. State Street, Chicago

Dear Mr. Mulligan and participants in the Public Scoping Meeting and Section 106 Hearings,

I'm Ward Miller, Executive Director of the Chicago based non-profit organization, Preservation Chicago.

We at Preservation Chicago wish to express our great concern and fierce opposition to the proposed plan, along with a $52 million-dollar taxpayer expenditure, to demolish the historic buildings on the 200 block of South State Street. Located at the southwest corner of State and Adams Streets and extending to State Street and Quincy Court, in the heart of the Chicago Loop and the Loop Retail National Register District, two of these structures are contributing buildings, and extremely significant to the National Register District and the State Street Streetwall.

These two buildings are The Century Building at 202 S. State Street, by architects Holabird & Roche and The Consumers Building, by Jenney Mundie and Jensen, at 220 S. State Street.

Both buildings and the architects that designed them are highly significant, known on the world stage, for their work in the field of architecture and are part of the collection of structures that define the Chicago School of Architecture, and the development of the skyscraper building, conceived and perfected by these firms and others. Many of these technologies are still employed in tall buildings constructed around the world. This is extremely significant to which Chicago is known, and therefore derives much of its architectural and heritage tourism, representing and hosting tens of millions of visitors and their contributions to our local economy.

The loss of these two historic skyscrapers will disqualify our city from also receiving a UNESCO World Heritage Designation for its "Early Chicago Skyscrapers," as UNESCO would not want to associate this honor with the destruction of our heritage and built environment. So, an opportunity lost forever for Chicago, which could be a transformative with long-lasting positive impacts for our City.

It's also important to note that beyond these two buildings-representing works of art, that their potential destruction will forever impact Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's Federal Center, also recognized as a world landmark. You see, Mies designed this remarkable complex-The Chicago Federal Center, with many of the historic early Chicago skyscrapers in mind—honoring them, from the Marquette Building framed by the Federal Center Plaza, to the Monadnock Building, aligning with the eastern edge of the Kluzensky Building, and the Consumers Building, along with the former Benson-Rixon Store frames the principal entry to the Dirksen Federal Courthouse from State Street. The Dirksen's formal entrance and plaza was given the prominence of State Street, one of Chicago's most prominent commercial streets.

So, we want to encourage the GSA to consider that demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings will damage both historical and mid-century works of art and architecture. It will forever adversely alter the Chicago Federal Center's vision by one of the great masters of 20th Century architecture, as well as two buildings by the Chicago School and endanger a UNESCO World Heritage nomination. Therefore with 23,000 individuals on a Change.org petition to save these buildings and a B1M story with almost a million views, we suggest "avoidance" and preservation of the Century and Consumers Buildings.

We have some alternative uses proposed for the Century and Consumers Building with the GSA as our partner in this endeavor, as the Chicago Collaborative Archives Center. We also support a Chicago Landmark Designation of these historic structures.

Sincerely,

Ward Miller

Hello,

Please do not demolish the State Street buildings. Chicago's pre-war high rises are extremely valuable part of our cultural and architectural history, and a huge part of the draw of the city.

The Loop is full of skyscrapers, and if the federal building is so sensitive it can't be near tall buildings, it can't be in the Loop, or it can't have windows. We can't demolish our Central Business District for this false sense of security.

Thank you,

Steven Lucy

To Whom It May Concern,

I would like to express my concern about the future of the Century and Consumers Buildings and voice my support for the preservation and adaptive reuse of these important structures. As a relatively new resident of the city of Chicago, I have come to admire the unique architectural and cultural history of State Street and the surrounding area. Home to some of the earliest skyscrapers in the country, no other place in the city connects residents and visitors to the nation's industrial past in quite the same way.

The Century and Consumers Buildings, which represent an important architectural transition period in the nation's history, stand as major contributors to the unique sense of place that exists around State and Dearborn Streets. This historic district stands as a living museum in the heart of Chicago showcasing the city's cultural and economic role in the growth of America at the turn of the century. As such, this area also plays an important role in the restoration and growth of Chicago's tourism industry - a vital component to downtown Chicago's post-pandemic recovery.

In addition to their architectural, cultural, and economic importance, the impact of these buildings is felt in the surrounding community as they maintain a critical stretch of street wall in a district that already has several large areas void of active uses.

I strongly urge the General Services Administration to pursue every avenue possible to preserve these historic and architecturally significant buildings for future generations to appreciate and enjoy. Thank you for your service and consideration on this matter.

Dear GSA, I am pleading with you to find alternative, viable uses for the State Street buildings in Chicago. These buildings are structurally sound and were built in an era when buildings were meant to last for the ages. Demolishing these buildings would be bad for the environment, bad for safety (because you're creating another dead-zone in the streetscape), bad for the economy, and a waste of valuable resources. I can't imagine how other nearby buildings don't pose a similar threat. Is the long-term goal to demolish all buildings within a one block radius? We're all for the safety of the occupants in the federal building, but the buildings on State Street predate the federal building. Given the technology available today, let's stop being wasteful and short-sighted and find new uses for the wonderful buildings on State Street that great street. Regards, Gregory A. Moorehead, Ed.D. I am a Chicago resident and strongly oppose us losing any further historic buildings, especially for reasons as flimsy as their proximity to the dirksen. We are possibly getting UNESCO heritage approval for our contribution to architecture, if we do this we don't deserve it as a city.

This is totally short sighted and a disgrace that two historic buildings are lost in Chicago, we have lost enough and should know better at those point.

You must not destroy perfectly good buildings with historic significance. 202 and 220 S State are too important and irreplaceably beautiful to be treated like Federal Garbage.

If there's a problem with exposure from the backs of these buildings to the Federal Courthouse, block up the rear windows, don't wholesale destruct these early skyscrapers, it's just wrong.

Good day,

I am against the demolition of these two historic landmarks. The best course of action would be to move the federal courthouse to a new location. Either outside the loop to a vacant lot with a new building or to a repurposed building elsewhere. Creating vacant lots within the CBD is not progressive or productive. And would in fact be a blight in a dense environment. Please reconsider your proposal and consider the public stance. Thank you.

Hello,

I am writing as part of the public commentary due Dec 12, 2022 to advocate on behalf of the Century and Consumers buildings. My strong opposition to the demolition of these buildings is due to:

1. The current disrepair of the buildings is noted as a reason for demolition, despite the fact that the disrepair and abandonment is due to several decades of purposeful inaction following the Federal Government eminent domain takeover.
2. Instead of working to acquire real estate for unnecessary buffer zones, the Federal Government should increase efforts on renovating their buildings to help resolve security concerns through increased window opacity and glass strength if they wish to maintain a presence in dense downtown areas.
3. Both skyscrapers are architecturally significant to State Street and the Chicago Loop. As a society we should apply lessons learned from architectural and urban planning mistakes in the past half century instead of repeating them in the future.
4. As large cities like Chicago cement the future of their downtowns in a post-pandemic world, the Federal government needs to be a partner advocating for innovation and reuse instead of demolition that hurts overall density, street life, and economic recovery.
5. The city of Chicago and the Federal Government failed to be good partners during the CA Ventures residential proposal for the buildings several years ago, and the same mistakes should not be repeated with other reuse proposals such as the Chicago Collaborative Archive's Center.
6. There are already an abundant number of underutilized public plazas within walking distance of this site such as Pritzker Park, Federal Plaza, Chase Plaza, and Daley Plaza. There is no benefit to the Chicago Loop by having historically significant buildings destroyed to create yet another plaza.

I sincerely hope common sense prevails and all stakeholders can come to a consensus that avoids the unnecessary destruction of the Century and Consumers buildings.

Thank you.

Dear Mr. Mulligan of the GSA,

I hope this email finds you well. Unfortunately, at this time, the Century and Consumers buildings, two historic skyscrapers, are in a state of disrepair because of the prolonged inaction of the federal government. These beautiful buildings are part of the fabric of a pending UNESCO World Heritage site. If we demolish them, I'm certain that it will throw into question our ability to steward the vital responsibility of protecting and preserving these internationally renowned architectural heritage that was birthed here in Chicago. We've already needlessly demolished many buildings that we can never replace. For example, the original Chicago Mercantile Exchange building was demolished and the lot now sits empty. Let's not repeat this mistake again. We cannot rebuild these beautiful pieces of art and architecture once they are gone. The federal government has the responsibility to protect and pursue a fitting use for these buildings. The loop already is full of sterile government plazas that sit empty most of the year. We do not need another. Please do whatever you can to repair and put these buildings back into use.

Thank you for your time and effort in this matter.

Hello,

My name is Bobby Siemiaszko. I live in Chicago and recently completed my degree at UIC in Urban Planning (still looking to help the city somehow). I think it would be a travesty to knock down these beautiful buildings when most cities in the US would never see buildings like these in their lifetime. Chicago must preserve all architecture when possible and it's really sad that we have not turned these into apartments because of the judges' worries about safety. What does that say about the city and state we live in? What does that say about the judges letting murderers out of prison? Over the weekend we see a family man at work in a convenience store get killed in South Shore from a robber/murderer who should've already been in prison and then a tow truck driver in West town murdered by stray bullets with gang members shooting at each other.

I'm sorry for getting a little off point there, but I think it all relates to each other. Let's not let the judges and federal government take away something from the city. Turn these buildings into apartments and have the courthouse move wherever they feel safe. There are plenty of empty parcels of land in the south and west side they can move to as well.

Thank you for your time.

Hello! My name is Travis Root.

I'm a 27-year-old small business owner in Chicago, the greatest American city, which is slowly recovering from 50+ years of demolition-oriented "urban renewal". The scars of that era-- surface parking lots, lost architectural treasures, sparse and sterile streets-- linger on.

It was an era of mistakes. Mistakes that, until recently, I thought we'd learned from.

The Century & Consumers Buildings are architecturally and structurally unique, historically significant, and a boon to State Street. I should know-- I walk by them every few days on my way to the Harold Washington Library.

I was shocked and disgusted when I learned about the GSA's plans to demolish these towers. So were 23,175 others who signed a petition I helped kickstart.

Destroying beautiful old architecture is bad enough-- but to replace it with an empty patch of grass? And to do so in the name of "security," like so many other past Federal transgressions? It is beyond comprehension.

There are dozens of better solutions. Here's one: apply one-way mirrored coatings to the eastern windows of the Dirksen Federal Courthouse. Or close the blinds.

Here's another: support the Archives Center proposal and allow it to access the funding earmarked for demolition.

Finally, here's the easiest solution: do nothing. Continue to quietly maintain the Century & Consumers Buildings in their current state. Eventually, my generation will replace yours at the seat of power, and we'll have the courage to do what's right.

Sincerely,

The Century and Consumer buildings have a rich history that should continue to add value to the City in the future, and it is important for reasons economic, environmental, and aesthetic that they be preserved.

I'm emailing to voice my strong opposition to the demolition of these two build The Loop and especially State Street desperately needs these old and architecturally significant buildings to be saved, renovated and re-used rather leave an empty and massive scar to the Loop or leave as a blighted corner th government is allowing to decay on purpose with the hope they cause safety where demolition is forced.

There is no logical reason why these two buildings should be demolished whe dozens of other surrounding buildings have the same 'issue'. State and fede governments have caused incredible destruction to cities around the country demolishing buildings, destroying neighborhood character – have we learned nothing?

Bring additional residential units to the Loop. These buildings can easily be transitioned to this use with creative placement of windowless corridors, eleva banks, etc. where it would fit every need the government needs.

Lastly, a developer was willing to pay $10M for these buildings, the governme wants to waste $52M to demolish them and we're walking away/don't care ab tax revenue these two redeveloped buildings would create. Pure stupidity.

Reconsider the expensive, city damaging decision to tear down 202-220 South State Street in Chicago.

Ripping them out would leave a big hole in the Loop and create a threatening empty space in an otherwise bustling area.

Ripping them out would be needlessly expensive - the $52m appropriated would be close to enough to renovate the buildings and create something useful.

Ripping them out would not improve security at the Dirksen. I practiced law in the Dirksen building for 25 years without a thought of danger. Why isn't it possible to close off the parts of the State Street buildings that (im)plausibly threaten the courthouse? Perhaps spend a small fraction of the cost of demolition to compensate the developers who were ready to renovate the buildings for lost value?

Don't waste a huge amount of money to create an open space no one needs, rob the Loop of its beloved form, and deprive the city of two fine old buildings that private developers were ready to preserve and improve. There are better, more economical options than demolition.

Hello,

I am writing as part of the public commentary due Dec 12, 2022 to advocate against demolition of the Century and Consumers buildings. My strong opposition to the demolition of these buildings is due to:

1. Despite decades of purposeful neglect by the Federal Government, the buildings remain salvageable for reuse and are architecturally significant to State Street and the Chicago Loop. Our city and nation have already experienced enough loss of architectural treasures and executed on enough urban planning failures to know better in this situation.
2. Instead of working to acquire real estate and spending millions on unnecessary buffer zones, the Federal Government should increase efforts to renovate their own buildings to resolve their own security concerns if they wish to maintain a presence in dense downtown areas. The approach to these two buildings sets a troubling precedent for the neighborhoods surrounding Federal courthouses across the country.
3. The security concerns being leveled against these two buildings have been called perplexing by even highly experienced courthouse architects, and some of the 15 adaptive reuse requirements communicated by GSA are based on fallacious reasoning. For example, the Century building does not have a single window facing Dirksen on the South or West facades and is further away from it than buildings like Citadel Center across Adams.
4. As large cities like Chicago navigate the future of their downtowns in a post-pandemic world, we need a proactive partner in the Federal Government to advance innovative reuse that is best for the city economy. This mindset existed during the GSA's 2015 RFP for the buildings, and we need it to continue today for proposals such as the Chicago Collaborative Archive's Center.
5. Demolition would only further kill density and street life along an already struggling section of State Street. There are already an abundant number of underutilized public plazas within walking distance of this site such as Pritzker Park, Federal Plaza, Chase Plaza, and Daley Plaza. There is zero benefit to the city of Chicago by having historically significant buildings destroyed to create yet another plaza.

I am a Michigan registered architect who makes frequent visits to the Chicago area and to downtown Chicago in particular. Two of my grown children are current residents of the city. Last year, my wife and I were gifted by our children a weekend stay in the Loop at a hotel adjacent to the Rookery. We enjoyed a day at the Art institute and a celebratory meal at the Berghoff. We discovered the Chicago Temple for a Sunday morning worship service, and were amazed at its history.

My family also spent four years in China between 2001 and 2006. Two of those years I spent teaching architecture at Kunming University of Science and Technology. For my introductory lecture at the university, my subject matters was primarily on the pivotal place in modern architectural history held by downtown Chicago due to its central place in the growing USA and the transforming effects of the great fire and the 1893 exhibition.

As a comparison, our time in China was characterized by radical urban transformation that gave me a visceral sense of the effect of that transformation on ones experience of the urban environment. Just outside the gates of the university where I taught, three to fives story buildings were being demolished to build seven to ten story buildings. Those original buildings less than a decade old, having replaced village-scaled one to two story structures clustered in the seemingly haphazard street arrangement that was the original armature of a rural village.

The only places in China I was able to find an authentic sense of architectural history was in remote rural villages, or rarely, in some remote or neglected part of a city that for whatever reason had not yet caught up to the super-heated development elsewhere. While there were a lot efforts at nostalgic recreations of traditional national forms there was very little motivation for "preservation" of near modern urban history.

Chicago, however, is arguably the birthplace of modern urban architecture and it still is a delight to see and to actually feel that as you walk its streets.

In the same way as the density and urban character of Hong Kong differs from most other large modern Chinese cities, Chicago, due to its retention of so much historical fabric, retains a particular character that differentiates it qualitatively from all other large American cities.

The buildings along State Street under consideration are a significant part of that irreplaceable urban experience and their removal would be great loss not only to Chicago, but to the nation and the world.

Sincerely,

David Bouwsma - Registered Architect

To Whom It May Concern,

As a Chicagoan, it concerns me deeply when the economics of new development trump the irreplaceable craftsmanship of the past. We should do everything we can to preserve what we have and build new and bigger where the infrastructure supports it. The C&C buildings are prime for adaptive reuse. I understand the economics might be constrained, but there are levers to be pulled to help balance the equation. My preference is for a transfer of FAR to a nearby property or a mitigation of tax burden on the future adapted property. I'm sure there are other options as well, and trust you and your office can lead a way to both preserve and continue to build our great city. We cannot destroy our past when we have the ability to prevent it.

To Whom It May Concern:

As a historic preservation architect in Chicago and a resident thereof, I am writing to express my support for the preservation, restoration, and reuse of the Century Building located at 202 S. State Street in Chicago, Illinois (GSA Building Number IL0318ZZ).

There are a great many reasons to reuse existing buildings. In this case, the Century Building is part of Chicago's Loop Retail Historic District, and it is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. As a local and national landmark, this building contributes to a historic built environment in one of the country's largest cities.

Preserving this building can help to maintain and bolster the historic character of the district and rejuvenate a building on a prominent corner—providing a new sense of vitality on the streetscape. Preservation can also create a great deal of jobs in design, restoration, and construction trades—not to mention, planning and design for tenant fit-outs, and interior alterations. Preservation creates more jobs than new construction. This is also a way to engage with community groups and Chicagoans to contribute to the design and redevelopment process.

The exterior of the building can be repaired and restored as has been done on a multitude of historic buildings in the Loop. High-profile preservation and restoration projects are vastly appreciated by residents of Chicago, as demonstrated by repairs to buildings such as the Rookery, Carson, Pirie & Scott Department Store, and the Reliance Building. These notable structures help create a sense of place for Chicago and define its architectural character.

From an environmental perspective, reuse of existing buildings is one way to limit carbon emissions. The amount of embodied energy and embodied carbon equivalents in the existing building would be lost if demolished. New construction, even if highly efficient, can never be as efficient as a deep energy retrofit of an existing structure. The amount of material taken to landfill and the amount of carbon dioxide and equivalents released into the atmosphere would surpass the debris and emissions created from restoration work.

From an architectural perspective, architects have shown their willingness to tackle the design challenges of existing buildings. Recently, the American Institute of Architects noted that national billings for projects were over 50% due to work on existing buildings. This represents larger trends in a national attitude towards historic architecture, preservation, and adaptation.

It is my hope that this note and others in support of preserving the Century Building are acknowledged and that they sway the GSA to opt for preservation over demolition.

Best regards,

Greg Maxwell, AIA

I urge you to try to protect these buildings as soon as you can. They are crucial to the State Street streetscape of the early 20th century and important buildings by important architects. Having grown up in Chicago, I was always aware of the wonderful buildings along State St ("that great street") and I hope the city will designate them as historic buildings and then work out something with the federal government. They are in desperate need of TLC. Thank you1

To whom it may concern, I am deeply distressed to hear that this one of a kind pair of historic skyscrapers has still not received historic designation. As someone who has studied Chicago's architectural history extensively, I find this complete lack of foresight troubling. The city has already lost so many irreplaceable pieces of history, it's unfathomable to think you would allow this mistake to be repeated. This would not only be an unimaginable historic loss, but would have an incalculable impact on State Street itself. Already suffering before the Pandemic, to add a great hole at the southern end of the shopping district right across from the Palmer House would all but spell the end for "That Great Street." I am BEGGING you all to look past the end of your own cigars and not repeat the disgusting mistakes of the past. Best, Jacob Lewis-Hall

Public Scoping Comments re Buildings 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street

My name is Dirk Lohan, and I am submitting these comments to you today in my capacity as a long-time architect in Chicago who worked on the original design of the Dirksen Federal Building with the architect Mies van der Rohe from 1960 to 1964.

The current condition of the State Street buildings is of deep concern and the suggestion to tear them down is a disgrace and insult to the proud history of Chicago's architectural significance.

These buildings, especially the two high-rise landmarks, should not be torn down. Instead, a qualified and experienced architectural team should be commissioned to develop a viable urbanistic plan to improve the eastern properties behind the Dirksen building to become an integral and aesthetically attractive addition to the block.

It is interesting to note that the open space distances from the Dirksen building are no less than the common street corridors in the neighborhood of the Federal Center. Please see the attached drawing with the distances indicated in red.

There is no question that with an open mindset, a viable and effective solution can be found to eliminate the security concerns presently felt in the Quincy Court area of the Federal properties.

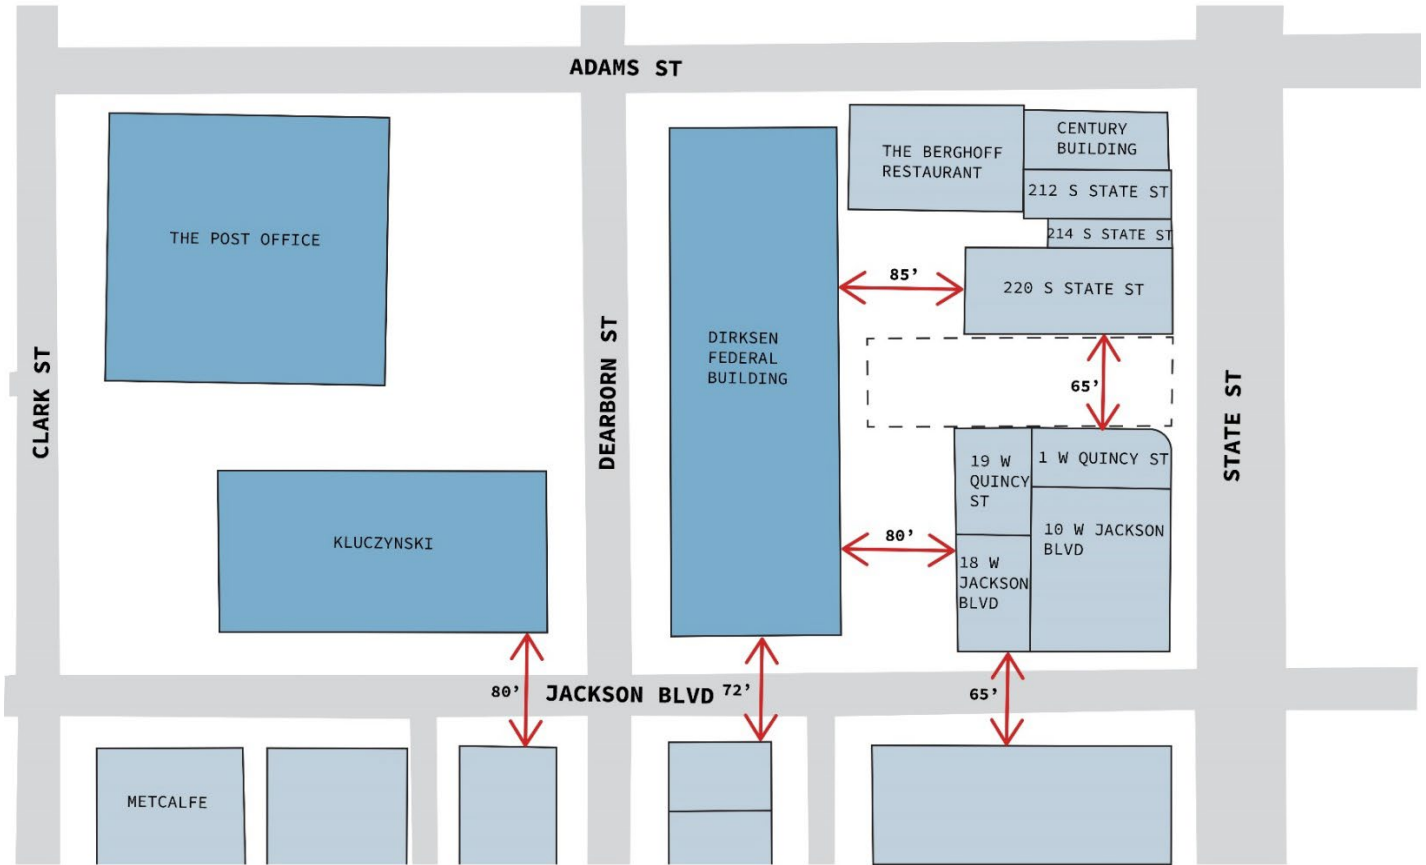

At this point I do not wish to make any specific recommendation as I am convinced that the most realistic and effective solution will only emerge from a thorough and careful study of all the practical possibilities.

With my best wishes for a meaningful and responsible decision to benefit our great city,
Dirk Lohan

Hi there, I am a Chicago native, and I believe it is a horrendous waste of resources to demolish these buildings. They are gorgeous and historical, and help shape Chicago's distinctive architecture acclaim. There's absolutely no reason to demolish them when we can renovate the interiors, and to demolish them would be a shame. Sent from my iPhone

I am writing to express my strong opposition to demolition of these buildings, and in favor of Alternative B, Viable Adaptive Reuse. I am a retired employee of the National Park Service, and served for 10 years as an appointed member of the Commission on Chicago Landmarks.

The demolition of contributing buildings to a National Register district would be an extraordinary step, requiring an extraordinary justification that I do not believe is present here. Moreover, the Century and Consumers Buildings are not merely contributing buildings: their large scale and high quality design and workmanship play an important role in defining the historic streetscape and exemplifying the history of Chicago architecture in this key period. Their removal would be a loss to the character of the street, which is a wall of buildings, not a parkscape. Pritzker Park already exists immediately to the south, and is a barren and little-used space, and the Federal Plaza provides more open space to the west. Adding more open space in this area would expand an anachronistic hole in the urban fabric. More important, demolition would be a significant loss to the heritage of Chicago, the nation, and indeed the world, which recognizes the architectural legacy of "the Chicago School" as uniquely influential.

The need for security at the federal courts is a serious issue that deserves serious consideration. Such consideration could well include adaptive requirements such as filling in windows on the side of the buildings facing the Federal Center that go beyond the usual expectations or standards for historic rehabilitations. But demolition would be a wholly unnecessary overreaction to the stated need.

Alternative C is also unacceptable, as it would essentially constitute eventual "demolition by neglect" of these buildings, if GSA is not prepared to maintain them.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Ellin

Sirs:

This letter supports preserving the GSA-owned buildings at 202-220 S. State Street, Chicago.

The 16- story tall terra cotta-clad Holabird & Roche designed Century Building from 1915, 202 S. State, and the similarly clad 21-story Consumers Building from 1913 designed by Jenny, Mundie & Jensen, 202 S. State, and the two smaller buildings between mark the original Quincy Street gateway to the Ludwig Mies van der Rohe designed Dirksen Building of the Federal Center complex. Both the Century and Consumers Building are important late examples of the Chicago skyscraper style that Ludwig Mies van Rohe much admired. He saw his Dirksen Building design as a direct continuation of the style and function represented by these two towers along State Street. Preserving them will allow future generations to study and understand the world-changing architectural revolution that started in Chicago.

When the GSA acquired the State Street buildings, it quickly denied any function by neglecting them to the point of being unfunctional. Their demolition, as the GSA has secured funds for, would deny their future reuse and the ability to see and understand the ongoing impact of Chicago on the world.

Societies worldwide have long known that the reuse of buildings is significantly more cost-effective than destruction and rebuilding. The GSA can follow this wisdom, too, if they decide to be creative and think outside a war-inspired destruction mentality and allow these buildings to adapt to new purposes.

A new purpose has been proposed by a consortium of archives that would repurpose the buildings into a national center of heritage religious and other archives in a dynamic central location.

Chicago's Loop is inhabited by some 50,000 students daily attending several higher learning centers and museums. These centers could be more effective if each of their parochial research centers were combined in a single, nationally significant location. This central location would attract researchers, scholars, and others from around the world, much as the National Archives in Washington D.C., does.

I strongly support the proposal for converting the Century Building and Consumers Buildings into an archive and related centralized heritage facility for the continuous use of the broad audience active and attracted to Chicago.

Sincerely,

Rolf Achilles,

Dear Sir or Madam,

I support preservation of the Chicago Consumers and Century Buildings. Chicago is known as the city of architecture and these buildings are an important part of Chicago's architectural history. If the concern is truly that the windows from these building create a security threat, I am certain that our federal government can find other ways to provide the needed alterations without demolishing a piece of Chicago's history. Too often we are quick to rid ourselves of our history without contemplating the important place it holds in our national psyche. Chicago, of all cities in this country, is a place where architectural history should be preserved. Please spare the Chicago Consumers and Century Buildings.

Hello,

I'm writing in support of preserving the architecturally important Century and Consumers Buildings on State Street in Chicago. These buildings are important examples of early Chicago skyscrapers and should be preserved, ideally in an adaptive reuse project. One such project has been proposed, the Chicago Collaborative Archives Center, which would not only preserve these buildings but also address the security concerns for the adjoining federal courthouse. This project and other compelling alternatives should be pursued as reasonable and financially viable alternatives to demolition.

Dear Mr. Mulligan,

Do not destroy the Century and Consumers buildings! These are quality historic buildings that the GSA should allow to be restored. The federal government has done enough damage to Chicago's urban fabric. This includes widespread destruction from urban renewal, the building of the interstate highways, and demolition for the current federal campus. The loss of the Century and Consumers buildings will leave a gaping hole that will damage the character of State Street—still one of the great commercial streets in the country. The Loop does not need another useless plaza.

I sent my representatives a polite letter trying to convince them that razing these buildings is a mistake, but after reading the GSA's arrogant and absurd list of demands for reuse, I am done being civil. No project could ever be viable under those requirements. This whole public input process is just a sham. You are going to do what you want.

We all take some risk every time we go out into the world. Walking or driving in this city is far more dangerous than working in a federal building. People who are paid to provide security are just paranoid jellyfish who have to sit facing the door every time they eat at a restaurant because there could be an active shooter at any moment! It must be hell to live like that.

One thing I find especially revolting about this is the claim that this should be done to showcase the Dirksen Courthouse. Fans of "Mies" already have three sides—plus the view from State down Quincy—to stand and salivate over his greatness. We really do not need to see more of it. And the building is hardly unique. This city has about fifteen other nearly-identical black boxes built by Mies and his acolytes. But I certainly understand why the GSA thinks so highly of him. Remember that time he tried to become head architect for the Nazis? Oh, Mies!

It's ridiculous to claim the Century and Consumers buildings are a security threat when the whole federal campus is surrounded by high-rises, but I'm sure the GSA will be back in another ten years to demolish another nearby "security risk." The Monadnock is great, but it's probably a liability. In time, the GSA could just clear out The Loop and leave only the federal buildings. I'm sure Mies and the other gods of Modernist architecture would approve.

Chicago doesn't need this courthouse. Go set up shop next to Chicago's embarrassing NFL franchise out in Arlington Heights. I hear they need tenants for their lifestyle district. Just think of the level of security that could be attained by designing a new campus from scratch, plus free parking! Think about it.

If these buildings were to be torn down, there will be direct access for any public person to look into a judge's window with very easy access, keeping these buildings, not only for historic reasons, but for security reasons as well. This will add as a buffer, as I did for the past 100 years. These buildings are significant to the worlds architecture due to them being first skyscrapers. Please take into consideration the repurposing blocking out windows on federal side and save these buildings for archives. Also, please don't let the city look like Detroit!

RE: Notice of Intent to Prepare an EIS and Initiate Section 106 Consultation for Four Buildings at 202, 208-212, 214 and 220 South State Street, Chicago, IL

Dear Mr. Mulligan:

In response to the Proposed Action and Undertaking and Preliminary Alternatives outlined for the buildings at 202 & 220 South State Street, Chicago, Illinois, Antunovich Associates writes to express strong opposition to the proposed demolition (Alternative A) of these buildings. Our firm has a long history of successfully rehabilitating historic buildings within the dense urban fabric and has direct experience with the referenced properties, which have been the subject of previous redevelopment Requests for Proposals (RFP). These buildings are listed on the National Register of Historic Places as contributors to the Loop Retail Historic District and have been considered by the City of Chicago Commission on Landmarks for preliminary landmark status.

In 2015 the General Services Administration (GSA) issued an RFP for the buildings at 202 – 220 South State Street (referred to as the “Exchange Parcel”). This RFP included the following development restrictions geared toward minimizing security risks and maintaining a security buffer around the neighboring Dirksen United States Courthouse. As stated in Section V of the 2105 GSA RFP:

- There may be no line-of-sight to the Everett McKinley Dirksen United States Courthouse from any level (including rooftops) of any structure(s) constructed or rehabilitated on the Exchange Parcel. This line-of-sight restriction will apply to all structure(s) intended for any private use.
- No structures intended for grade level or above grade parking of motor vehicles shall be constructed on the Exchange Parcel.
- The Government will retain the right to control vehicular access to the Exchange Parcel. Such vehicles and their contents will be subject to inspection by law enforcement at any time without notice.
- The Government shall have the right to access any security cameras installed in or on any structure rehabilitated or constructed on the Exchange Parcel. The Government shall also be permitted to install additional security devices in or on structures on the Exchange Parcel to aid in providing security for the Courthouse.
- To ensure compliance with these restrictions, the developer shall submit to the Government its architectural plans for any rehabilitation or construction of any structure or building on the Property, and may not proceed with construction unless the Government approves the plans for compliance with these restrictions.

Antunovich Associates teamed-up with a prominent Developer and General Contractor in response to this RFP, which the GSA ultimately did not move forward with, but carefully considered the buildings considering the above-mentioned development restrictions.

In 2017 the City of Chicago’s Department of Planning and Development issued a Request for Proposals for the sale and redevelopment of the subject parcels. While the City’s RFP included draft language for Historic Preservation Covenants, the RFP was silent regarding development restrictions to address security risks to the adjacent Dirksen U.S. Courthouse. As part of the selected CA Ventures/K Giles LLC development team, Antunovich Associates envisioned a redevelopment scheme for the 202, 214 and 220 South State Street buildings.

Our proposed mixed-use redevelopment scheme that addressed the development restrictions stated in the 2015 GSA RFP, and formally responded to security concerns during an October 2017 presentation to the Justices Wood, Castillo and Pallmeyer, as well as representatives from the GSA, Federal Marshal's Services, and the City of Chicago. Our presentation was formalized in a slide deck that was transmitted to Thomas Bruton, the Clerk of Court for the Northern District of Illinois on October 23, 2017.

- We proposed blocking off the west-facing windows of the 220 S. State building by creating a barrier on the interior of the windows.
- We restricted the view and "line of sight" corridors from the rooftop amenity space that we proposed for the infill building at 212 S State and the existing building at 214 S. State Street.
- We did not develop any rooftop amenities for the 202 & 220 S. State buildings.
- We refined the Ground Floor access considering the barricade provisions envisioned to harden Quincy court on the south side of 220 S. State.
 - Primary access was scheduled for West Adams Street
 - Secondary access was scheduled for Quincy Court, east of control gates at alley
 - Tertiary access for rear service loading controlled by gates within Quincy Court
- The building operations/management were also impacted in the following security protocols:
 - Exterior doors (non-retail) to be monitored/equipped with access card readers.
 - Placement of video cameras at strategic locations.
 - Management would provide to the Federal Marshal's office requested video streams.
 - Residents and employees would have credentialed access to buildings
 - 24-hour building staff
- No grade level or above grade parking was proposed for the project.

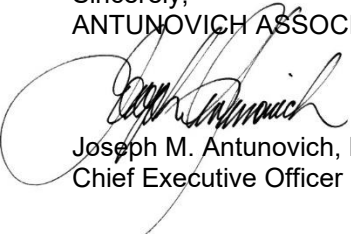

Our firm developed drawings for the rehabilitation scheme that would rehabilitate the 202, 214 & 220 S. State Street buildings and bring much need activity to this block of South State Street between West Adams Street and West Jackson Street. The level of documentation extended to:

- October 2017 issuance to support National Park Service Part 2 filing for Federal Rehabilitation Tax Credits.
- October 2017 issuance for a Planned Development filing with the City of Chicago.
- December 2017 Schematic Design issuance.
- February 2018 Exterior Rehabilitation issuance.

The City of Chicago ultimately suspended the redevelopment process in 2018.

Our firm's efforts toward these buildings have demonstrated the viability of addressing security concerns while delivering a rehabilitation project that enhances this block of South State Street. Antunovich Associates strongly encourages the General Services Administration to not follow the proposed Demolition (Alternate A) pathway for the buildings at 202 & 220 South State Street. Rather, we stridently encourage the GSA to follow the Viable Adaptive Reuse (Alternative B) course of action, which will retain and rehabilitate these outstanding examples of early 20th century commercial architecture. Our previous redevelopment proposal demonstrates the feasibility of meeting this challenge by engaging the wealth of talented and invested design and construction professionals in the Chicago real estate market.

Sincerely,
ANTUNOVICH ASSOCIATES, INC.

Demolishing a building because judges are concerned about privacy is the most asinine thing.

If judges are so concerned they can move to the suburbs. We live in a city. Building are tall.

As a resident and homeowner of Chicago (my family has lived in this city since at least the 1890s, pre-fire) - I vehemently protest the demolition of 202-220 South State Street. It is reprehensible to think that a government institution would be engaged in the destruction of our city's storied history - especially when alternatives exist and have been shared. Security concerns are understood, but demolition is ABSOLUTELY not the answer.

I'm writing to register my opposition to destruction of the Century and Consumers Buildings.

We, the taxpayers, do NOT need more plazas...we need to respect the historic nature of our city and find appropriate reuse for buildings like these...not tear them down.

To remove them is profound lack of vision and leadership. They can be repurposed for housing. Loop density is essential for businesses and for the cultural well being of our city. There are many commercial real estate advisors who would work with the City to find best reuse for these buildings (while addressing the security concerns that have been stated as a reason to demolish).

Frankly, we have seen enough poor leadership. This smacks of the heinous "urban renewal" of the last mid-century, which produced lack of character, too much underutilized land and loss of important urban history.

I worked in commercial real estate for 11 years, and would suggest you contact THE COUNSELORS OF REAL ESTATE (world-renowned association) Consulting Corps, where it would be potentially possible to receive the most highly respected "brains of the industry" to advise on the most appropriate reuse and of the most benefit to the city. <https://cre.org/initiatives/cre-consulting-corps/>. Members donate their time for the betterment of communities. (And it will provide this service at WELL BELOW the market rates consultants who are far less qualified would charge.). Good evening,

I write to you as a resident of the City of Chicago and a supporter of historic preservation. Both the Consumers and Century buildings are deserving of another chance at revitalization as pillars of the State Street corridor. And I believe the GSA has the expertise required to ensure these buildings are put to good use, particularly as State Street has seen its fortune gradually decline.

The GSA's current plan, to demolish both buildings and replace them with a low-slung welcome center, will deprive State Street of the existing building curtain and presence of pedestrians needed for a strong downtown core. I am opposed to this demolition and replacement plan.

I am grateful for the opportunity to share my opinion and I request that the GSA preserve both the Consumer and Century buildings.

Thank you.

Hello,

I'm a Chicago resident reaching out to express my dismay and opposition to the potential demolition of two important and valuable buildings in the heart of downtown. Demolishing these buildings would be a tremendous waste of funds, materials, carbon emissions, urban density, and Chicago's world renowned architecture.

Please consider the intangible value of these structures in the tapestry of downtown's urban core rather than deferring to the abstract security concerns about another building, which can be addressed without doing so much unnecessary damage to these structures which can provide use and value for at least another century. Adaptive re-use and updated security for the area are entirely compatible, and the area would benefit far more from almost any alternative to demolition.

Thank you,

A Letter to the GSA Opposing the Proposed Demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings

I am writing to strongly oppose the proposal to demolish two classic skyscrapers in downtown Chicago. This proposal is unacceptable on several levels.

1. The Consumers and Century buildings are indispensable landmark-quality structures that typify Chicago architecture. The Consumers is from the distinguished Chicago firm of Mundie and Jensen, and is an elegant terra-cotta clad tower that typifies the great Chicago architect Louis Sullivan 's definition of a skyscraper as "a proud and soaring thing". The Century Building is from another historic firm, Holabird & Roche, and marks the transition from the original Chicago School or architecture, to Art Deco. It's Neo-Manueline terra cotta ornament is unique. It holds down its corner with power and grace.

2. The Security justifications for demolition of these buildings are, to be frank, specious. While one never wants to minimize the concerns of members of our Judiciary, those concerns cannot be allowed to govern policy solely on the grounds, not of reality, but of power.

The Consumers and Century are claimed to be an existential threat to Federal employees, yet only yards from the Dirksen building stands the Berghoff restaurant building, whose roof would provide a dangerous staging area for those looking to inflict harm. More to the point, directly across the street is the Citadel Center, a glass-clad tower whose south facade opens vistas directly into the windows of the Dirksen Building. As Citadel is winding down its Chicago operations, the possibility of unoccupied floors grows.

Even more importantly, the range of a common hunting rifle extends up to 400 yards, a long-range rifle double that distance, which means the same threat claimed to be presented by the Consumers and Century is also presented from a large number of tall buildings, privately-controlled, on the periphery of the Dirksen

REPEAT Larger articles on Chicago architecture and culture.

Featured:

Building, including the glass-facaded former Home Federal Building on State (which ironically would have a clear view of the Dirksen Courthouse should the Consumers and Century be demolished), the Bankers Building (many floors of which are dedicated to transient hotel rooms), the Edison, Marquette and former Continental Bank buildings. This, of course, would also apply to a terrorist seeking to launch an incendiary device.

The Consumers and Century Buildings have lived in peaceful co-existence for over half a century, ever since the Dirksen building opened in 1964. There has never been, at least in Chicago, a single federal judge or employee killed or injured from a sniper shooting from outside their building. The sad reality is that in the one case where the family members of a judge were tragically murdered, it was not at a work site, but at their residence. In the case of incendiary devices, it should be remembered that Timothy McVeigh did not drive into the Alfred P. Murrah building to destroy it, but simply parked next to it on the street.

Benjamin Franklin famously wrote that a nation willing to trade away liberty for a little temporary safety deserves neither Liberty nor Safety. To apply this to the present case, what is being proposed is trading two essential pieces of Chicago's urban fabric for a "security" that is both illusory and dangerous.

3. Both structures are essential contributors to the State Street Streetwall. Although the promise is to replace them with a park, their demolition would be the equivalent to the wholesale damage done to the center cities of the United States by destroying historic structures for parking lots, like pulling front teeth and replacing them only with painted gums. More to the point, the proposal to change the Dirksen Building entrance to one off of that State Street park would destroy the entire concept another famed architect, Mies van der Rohe, developed for the Federal Center, in which all three buildings - the Dirksen Kluczynski and Post Office - revolve around the great plaza on Dearborn Street to create a sustaining civic space.

4. The GSA was already at the point of approving a developer's plan to restore the Consumers and Century buildings as residential structures, when, inexplicably, the rug was pulled out from under them at the last minute. Despite the GSA's long, often indefensible, laundry list of provisos in its request for comments, I still believe that was a viable plan, with security requiring approval - or even control - by the GSA.

However, local preservationists have presented proposals that meet all of those provisos, turning the buildings into document archives and other back-office operations, with the GSA in full control of security including removal of windows and other modifications where required that do not vandalize basic design integrity. The GSA should accept these proposals. The $52 million already earmarked for their destruction should more than cover the cost.

5. Conclusion.

Even a quick glance at the GSA's massive portfolio of properties demonstrates its proud history of enhancing America's cities with superior buildings, including both Mies's Federal Center, and, more recently the award-winning replacement for the Murrah Building designed by another great architect, Carol Ross Barney. The destruction of the Consumers and Century would stand in stark opposition to everything the GSA's historic legacy stands for.

We can do better. We must do better. Save, repurpose and restore the Consumers and Century buildings.

Sincerely,

Lynn Becker

115. Subject: Opposition to Needless Destruction of Century and Consumers Buildings

Date: December 10, 2022 at 2:07 PM EST

To: StateStreet@gsa.gov

Dear Mr. Joseph Mulligan,

I wish to register my opposition to the GSA's plan to destroy the Century and Consumers Buildings. I attach and adopt the letter submitted by noted architecture critic Lynn Becker. I would add that there appear to be US courthouses in Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cincinnati that have public buildings directly across the street which presumably pose a similar danger as the reason cited for the proposal to demolish these two important buildings, yet those buildings are allowed to stand as presumably appropriate alternative security measures have been taken. A similar approach should be taken here. A worthy proposal has been submitted for the re-use of these buildings which would balance the need for security with the preservation of these buildings. The GSA should be open to creative solutions rather than taking the drastic and irreversible step of demolishing these buildings.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

David J. Sullivan

Dear Mr. Mulligan:

I am a former General Member of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP), serving from 2011 to 2020. In addition, I am the former Chair of Preservation Action and Landmarks Illinois. My professional experience includes historic preservation, philanthropy, and real estate development. I am writing to strongly oppose the GSA's proposal to demolish two classic skyscrapers in downtown Chicago. This proposal is unacceptable on several levels.

The Consumers and Century buildings are indispensable landmark structures that typify Chicago architecture. The Consumers is from the well-known Chicago firm of Mundie and Jensen and is an elegant terra-cotta clad tower that typifies the great Chicago architect Louis Sullivan's definition of a skyscraper. The Century Building is from another historic firm, Holabird & Roche, and marks the transition from the original Chicago School of Architecture to Art Deco. The Consumers and Century are claimed to be a threat to Federal employees, yet only yards from the Dirksen building stands the Berghoff restaurant building, whose roof would provide a dangerous staging area for those looking to inflict harm. More to the point, directly across the street is the Citadel Center, a glass-clad tower whose south facade opens vistas directly into the windows of the Dirksen Building. windows) the Edison, Marquette and former Continental Bank buildings. This, of course, would also apply to a terrorist seeking to launch an incendiary device.

The Consumers and Century buildings are essential contributors to the State Street streetwall. Although the promise is to replace them with a park, their demolition would be the equivalent to the wholesale damage done to cities across the United States by destroying historic structures for parking lots. The proposal to change the Dirksen Building entrance to one off of that State Street park would destroy the entire concept Mies van der Rohe developed for the Federal Center, in which all three federal buildings revolve around the great plaza on Dearborn Street to create a sustaining civic space.

The GSA was at the point of approving a developer's plan to restore the Consumers and Century buildings as residential structures, when negotiations were abruptly and inexplicably ended. I believe this is still a viable plan, and the best plan for State Street, the Loop, and the city. In addition, preservationists have presented proposals that meet all the security provisos promulgated by GSA by turning the buildings into document archives and other back-office operations. This would leave GSA in full control of security including removal of windows and other modifications where required that do not vandalize basic design integrity. Either way, viable alternative proposals exist for GSA to accept. The $52 million already earmarked for the buildings' destruction should more than cover the cost of rehabilitation.

The demolition of the Consumers and Century would stand in stark opposition to everything the GSA's historic legacy stands for and in contrast to everything past and present GSA representatives to the ACHP have promoted. Please save, repurpose, and restore the Consumers and Century buildings.

Bradford J. White

Dear GSA, Having been in the business of preserving and restoring important historic structures for over 35 years I know with certainty that there is a much better possible path forward for the buildings at 202, 208-212, 213 and 220 South State Street in Chicago than demolition. That would be a total waste in every sense of the word. It would mean the loss of some culturally significant local architectural heritage and a very poor use of tax payers' money. To whom it may concern:

As a teenager who cares about Chicago's architectural heritage, I am writing to express my full opposition to the demolition of the Century and Consumers skyscrapers as proposed by the GSA. Though I live in Indiana, I have family roots in the Chicago area and I have gotten to know the city over countless visits throughout my life. If there is anything that has stood out to me, it is how Chicago's built environment is intrinsic to the city's identity. Chicago is built on architecture in a way that few cities are, yet this heritage is very fragile. It must be respected and protected, and I find it disturbing that some who hold great power have not learned this lesson.

There is no question that these two skyscrapers hold great architectural and historical significance. The GSA's own Historic Buildings database extolls the "elegant space" that is the Consumers Building's lobby, and describes how the "[Century Building's] facade ornament appears to be based on a design of unique origin [and contributes] to the diversity of the architectural environment within the Chicago Loop".

Others have explored many times over the countless reasons for why the proposed demolition is ill-conceived. I do not think it is necessary to simply repeat what has already been eloquently said. I simply want to add my name to the list of people who find it shameful that this is the course taken by our federal government in the 21st century. It recalls the decades of the 1960s and '70s when beautiful Chicago buildings were destroyed without a second thought. We look back on these losses with regret, while also using them as evidence that we have grown as a society, that we no longer make those same mistakes. As a result, the demolition of the Century & Consumers Buildings would stand as a huge step backward. I hope that those behind this troubling decision will recognize its faults and work to achieve a solution that retains these invaluable landmarks.

Nathan Hawkins

As a long-time resident of downtown Chicago, I strongly object to the government's proposal to demolish the 202 and 220 S. State Street buildings. My husband and I live on State Street. We reside only a block away from these buildings and have been here for 24 years. State Street is our neighborhood. The vibrancy of State Street and the density of this historic retail district brought us to this location. State Street in the loop is undoubtedly one of the most storied streets in America, attracting visitors worldwide. Such an act would be irreparable. Architects designed this historic street for retail on the street level, and this plan destroys that continuity.

Historic Recognition:
Decisionmakers must consider the effects of their actions on historic properties. Preservation activists favor landmarking the buildings and restoring and finding suitable re-use for them. However, demolition leaves a permanent hole in State Street's distinctive "street wall. Moreover, it hinders attempts to have the State Street district declared a UNESCO World Heritage site and destroys some of the finest remaining examples of the famed Chicago School style of architecture.

Security:
The argument that demolishing these buildings will enhance security for the Federal Courthouse is flawed.

Although I respect the importance of safety, eliminating these buildings and creating a sizable empty plaza is an irreparable mistake. Instead, the best protection approach is using these buildings as a buffer, which is far more sensible than further exposing the Courthouse. In addition, the government can use its 52 Million dollars planned for demolition to rehabilitate the buildings.

Carbon Footprint:

I also object as a citizen concerned about the carbon footprint. The most environmentally sensible approach when developing any site is to rehabilitate its existing stock. The planet is desperate for a steadfast commitment to reducing greenhouse gases, and the government's proposal to demolish these buildings has the opposite impact.

Conclusion:

The Federal Government needs to support its surrounding communities, not gut them. This narrow proposal to demolish the buildings comes at an enormous cost to the City, its visitors, and those of us who live nearby, especially when its reasoning is flawed from the outset.

Senator Durbin has been listening to the wrong voices. Tearing down a pair of early 20th-century towers and their neighbors on State Street would be a waste of money, natural resources and the City's architectural heritage.

Very Concerned State Street Neighbor,

Madelon Kuchera

Dear Mr. Mulligan,

Attached please find our Preservation Chicago letter in response to the first Public Scoping Meeting Federal Section 106 Hearing for the Century and Consumers Buildings, located at 202 and 220 S. Street in Chicago.

As you know, we find these structures critically important to Chicago's architectural legacy, "The Loop National Register Historic District" and the State Street Streetwall, and both located on one of Chicago's most famous and important thoroughfares, in the heart of the City's Loop and Central Business District.

We therefore, highly encourage the preservation, restoration and reuse of these two seminal buildings and two legacy architectural firms, recognized on the world stage for their buildings and contributions to architecture.

Please confirm receipt of our letter and we look forward to assisting the GSA and other parties toward a good preservation solution for the Century and Consumers Buildings. Thank You!

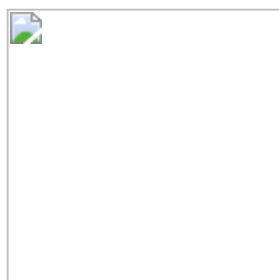

Sincerely,
Ward Miller

Re: Public Scoping Meeting/Section 106 Hearings for the Century and Consumers Buildings and the 200 Block of South State Street, Chicago, along with the formal request to be a Consulting Party on behalf of Preservation Chicago, to the Federal Section 106 process.

Dear Mr. Mulligan, Members of the GSA, Judiciary Committee, Officials and General Public,

We at Preservation Chicago unequivocally support the preservation of two highly historic and seminal early Chicago skyscraper structures of four buildings, located on the 200 block of South State Street in Downtown Chicago.

These two structures are known as the Century and Consumers Buildings and are located at 202 and 220 S. State Street, in the heart of the Chicago Loop. Both buildings are “Contributing Structures,” and a vital part of the “Loop Retail National Register District,” in addition to their significance to the State Street Streetwall and Chicago’s architectural legacy. Both buildings anchor important corner intersections at State Street and Adams Street and Quincy Court and State Street—one of Chicago’s most prominent streets, in the heart of one of America’s most important, vital and architecturally significant cities. The impact and potential loss of these buildings and this historic block, would be tremendous.

In 2011, 2013 and 2022, the Century and Consumers Buildings were both nominated as one of our “Chicago 7 Most Endangered” buildings and sites, by our organization, Preservation Chicago. The nomination received tremendous public interest and media coverage, each time it was chosen as a Chicago 7. Limited discussions with the GSA’s Chicago office followed in each instance prior to 2022, but with little resolution towards addressing repairs and entertaining reuse suggestions and solutions.

At the July 7, 2022 and September 8, 2022, hearings of Commission on Chicago Landmarks, a public presentation was made by the City of Chicago’s, Department of Planning and Development, on both the Century and Consumers Buildings. These public hearing were held to determine if the two structures would fit the strict criterion for consideration of a Chicago Landmark Designation. It was determined that both buildings could indeed be considered for a Landmark Designation, by the City of Chicago, which could also potentially honor and protect these structures from disfigurement and destruction. This, while also providing a great history in context to the work of some of the greatest architectural firms of the late 19th and early 20th century. These hearings and presentation of research and findings, before the Commission on Chicago Landmarks, further established the importance of the Century and Consumers Buildings, and also their critical relationship to Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's design of the Chicago Federal Center.

The proposed demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings with a $52 million dollar earmark to destroy them, will have a profound and a detrimental adverse impact on State Street, and the Loop Retail National Register District.

Avoidance, repair and a restoration program should be instituted with minimal impact. This proposed demolition will also adversely impact and potentially undermine the 1872-Post Chicago Fire-era Berghoff Restaurant buildings—a Chicago institution, one of the Loop's oldest structures and remaining restaurant institutions. This proposed demolition action will also severely impact Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's vision of the Chicago Federal Center, one of the most recognized of his projects in our City and nation—a masterpiece recognized in the world of architecture and design, and one of his largest commissions.

Such action would result in numerous adverse impacts and repercussions, undermine and perhaps even clouding Chicago's great architectural legacy, while also perhaps acknowledging in perpetuity, the poor stewardship of the GSA of their properties. Such action as a demolition of these historic buildings would appear short-sided to many and be a potential huge public embarrassment, extending from Washington, DC to Chicago and across the nation. We need to find better and positive alternatives to demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings, and this will require every agency and the collective assistance and help of all parties in this effort.

History of the Century and Consumers Buildings and their importance on the world stage:

The 16-story Century Building of 1913, was designed by John Root Jr. of the architectural firm of Holabird & Roche and the 20-story Consumers Building, by the firm of Jenney, Mundie & Jensen in 1915. Both represent Chicago's important role in the development of "skeleton construction," conceived by Jenney's firm, as architect William LeBaron Jenney, of the firm of Jenney, Mundie & Jensen, is considered the "Father of the Skyscraper." These two structures are considered the last of Chicago's early tall skyscrapers to be constructed, before the advent of World War I, and along with others of this significant period, represent the culmination of the Chicago School of Architecture.

The technologies employed in the Century and Consumers Buildings and those prior, including the introduction of metal/steel framed construction, placed Chicago on the world stage of architecture. And the buildings known as "The Chicago Commercial Style" and "The Chicago School of Architecture," are still employed in modern skyscrapers of the world's many tall buildings and superstructures. This legacy of the Chicago School of Architecture continues to this day, and the buildings of these early years also greatly influenced Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, architect of the Chicago Federal Center, and what is sometimes referred to a "The Second Chicago School" and the "International Style." Additional information on the importance of the Century and Consumers Buildings was shared with GSA officials in the past and can also be found on-line, along with historic images at www.PreservationChicago.org, under our "2022 Chicago 7 Most Endangered."

The potential threat of demolition of these two important structures would greatly undermine Chicago's architectural legacy, along with our City's and Nation's commitment to preservation and the appreciation of these building types. It would set Chicago's dedication to preservation and protection of its most important legacy structures, back more than 50 years—a half a century. It would be a repeat the painful loss of such buildings as the Garrick/Schiller Building, the Chicago Stock Exchange and the Republic Building, which once was located across State Street from the Century Building and by architects Holabird & Roche, as well as others, whose demolition in the 1960s and 1970s, are a continuing painful loss and embarrassment to our City-- even decades later. These historic legacy buildings should not be squandered.

Each of these two early Chicago skyscraper buildings has great potential to be shining examples of Chicago's architectural legacy on the world's stage. Jan C.K. Anderson of US/ICOMOS, has assured us that the demolition of these two legacy buildings would completely undermine Chicago's chance of becoming a UNESCO World Heritage Site for its "Early Chicago Skyscrapers," or early tall buildings. Many of these early Chicago School of Architecture structures employ a metal frame, in order to allow for taller, more streamlined buildings, free of immense and heavy masonry walls, while offering more opportunities for engaging additional sunlight and fresh air in the age before the adoption of electricity and modern HVAC systems. This was a highly revolutionary and innovative method of construction, occurring and attributed to Chicago's ingenuity, in the last half of the 19th century and the first decades of the 20th century. We need the GSA and Federal Government to help support the preservation and reuse of these two structures and "do the right thing".

The potential loss of these historic skyscrapers and the UNESCO World Heritage Nomination, would be a tremendous opportunity lost for Chicago, its architectural and heritage tourism. This could represent potentially ten-of-millions of tourists and their dollars spent on hotels, restaurants and the support of our City's institutions and businesses.

So, the potential impact is substantial, and now is the time to reengage these buildings, restore them to their full beauty, which is evident in so many historical images. We've done such magnificent restorations in Chicago in the past, which have been the source of so many visitors to our City from around the world, which continue the story of Chicago's role in world architecture. From the Reliance Building, to the Marquette Building, Monadnock Building, Rookery, Auditorium Building/Roosevelt University, Carson, Pirie, Scott, Manhattan Building, Old Colony, Fisher Building and the list goes on. The Century and Consumers Buildings can also enjoy a renaissance as part of this Chicago legacy, if only the GSA and associated agencies and parties can come together to help to fund, what has continued to languish and deteriorate under their ownership and care over the past 17 years.

Past Promises, Inaction and Neglect:

For far too long, the GSA over the past 17 years has let these important buildings languish, with their original promise to restore and reengage these structures for Federal offices and Federal agencies unfulfilled. Time and time again that promise has been broken and unfulfilled, without appearing to address many of the substantial recommendations of the building reports that their own hired consultants have recommended. This includes the recommendation of such basics as caulking the terra cotta and exterior walls and windows, which to our understanding has not been performed since the 2015 engineering reports were completed and issued. It appears that we have a case of potential "demolition by neglect," which is illegal by City ordinance in Chicago. It's a disappointment and embarrassment to our nation, that these important Chicago School buildings, have been allowed to languish. Certainly, we can do better.

The determination that these buildings are a threat to the Chicago Federal Center is perhaps misjudged and somewhat random or arbitrary, as this determination does not account for the close proximity of other many nearby structures of approximately the same distance. This perceived random perception of potential threat could also extend to other nearby structures in the future, including the Citadel Building, completed after September 11th, 2001 and in 2003, the Chicago Landmark Marquette Building (1895), the Chicago Landmark Monadnock Building (1891) and other iconic and historic structures along Jackson Boulevard, Adams Street, Dearborn Street and State Street.

Where does one hold the line and consider a safe distance in an age of new technologies, drones and other devices? It would appear that the historic Century and Consumers Buildings would actually be "a shield" toward any perceived threats to the Dirksen Courthouse, as with the buildings lost, it would perhaps open a new vista and unprotected flank from State Street and many other vantage points. The need to demolish the buildings appears flawed and short-sided in so many ways.

The Century and Consumers Buildings and the Chicago Federal Center; Works of Art and Architecture:

In addition to the Century and Consumers Buildings being considered part of the Chicago School of Architecture, also known as the Chicago Commercial Style, and great works of art and architecture in their own right, the potential impact of their loss is also potentially disastrous to the design of the Chicago Federal Center by architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe.

Mies van der Rohe placed his three-building complex of the Chicago Federal Center in context to the built environment of the Loop and the buildings near the site. Mies had great admiration for the buildings of the Chicago School of Architecture. To further acknowledge this, his Federal Center Plaza opens to Holabird & Roche's Marquette Building on the north, the east façade of Kluczynski Federal Building, aligns with the eastern façade of the Monadnock Building by both Burnham & Root, and its southern addition by Holabird & Roche, along Dearborn Street. Of course, the same firm, Holabird & Roche, also designed the Century Building, which is under threat by the GSA's proposal to demolish structures near the Chicago Federal Center.

The principal and main entry to the Dirksen Courthouse Building of the Chicago Federal Center, by architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, was designed to be from State Street, via Quincy Court and into a small courtyard, and then into the courthouse building. Framing this main entry on State Street and Quincy was the Consumers Building by Jenney, Mundie & Jensen, currently under threat of demolition of the north side of Quincy Court. Also, the Art Deco/Art Moderne, Benson & Rixon Store, on the south side of Quincy Court, by noted architect, Alfred Alschuler, whose exterior principal façade should be restored, from a prior remodeling for a McDonald's fast-food restaurant.

Unfortunately, the once grand principal entry to the Dirksen Federal Center, marked by a freestanding monumental and monolithic granite stone plaque has been mostly obscured from the public, along with the beautifully-proportioned Mies van der Rohe east entry plaza to the Dirksen Courthouse. Both have been made inaccessible to most of the general public, serving as an alley, security buffer and parking lot, (when there's also a secured underground parking lot under the Chicago Federal Center) and this is a tremendously insensitive.

Quincy Court has essentially become a back alley for a security checkpoint, deliveries, and a surface parking lot, where once there was an inviting open public plaza. While security is recognized as a priority, the conversion of a main pedestrian entry and tree-lined plaza, by one of the greatest recognized architects of the 20th Century, to a surface parking lot and an overly secured zone is almost unfathomable. This insensitivity to the design of the Chicago Federal Center and the treatment of the important buildings that frame this grand entry has been severely compromised and represents an undermining of a great portion of the Chicago Federal Center.

Precedent and Impacts for the Century and Consumers Buildings in both Chicago and Across the Nation :

The ill-advised plan to simply eliminate and demolish what is perceived as the problem Century and Consumers Buildings is not a sensible, prudent or an acceptable idea to many members of the public or the taxpayers. The general public and members of the architecture and preservation communities were promised two restored Chicago School Buildings, cojoined by a new building that was to span between them. Such a plan would have given the GSA and Federal agencies the larger floor areas needed to compare with larger and newer structures.

The buildings were highlighted in the media at the time of their purchase by the GSA, as much needed office space, but that was and remains an unfulfilled promise. Over the past 17 years of GSA ownership, many other historic structures in the area have been revisioned, restored and reused. We are of the opinion that the GSA needs to reexamine its demolition plans, and fulfill its promise to the citizens of Chicago and the nation.

Demolition is not the answer, nor is a park or tiny plaza to fill the proposed vacant site, if the historic structures are demolished. That idea has failed in numerous instances on State Street and in the Loop with nearby Pritzker Park at State Street and Van Buren, just a few short blocks south of the Century and Consumers Buildings. Of course another prominent examples is the notorious Block 37, which was a 20-year eyesore on State Street, Washington, Randolph and Dearborn Streets.

Many successful projects along State Street, have embraced restoration of Chicago's legacy architecture, from Sullivan Center in the former Carson, Pirie, Scott Store, to the DePaul University Center, formerly the Goldblatt's/Davis/Rothschild Store, located nearby and the many former office and retail buildings repurposed.

The decision to potentially "sweep away" any problem buildings or structures that are not liked or appreciated by the GSA, may also set a dangerous precedent. This would be the case in not only in Downtown Chicago and for other landmark-quality buildings and our designated Chicago Landmarks, but perhaps across the nation. Such action would potentially be considered an act of unimageable consequences for our cities, our historic structures and our built environment. It has the potential to bring about enormous consequences and create a further divide among some of our nation's institutions.

Publicity and Impact of the Potential Demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings:

The recent Congressional earmark of $52 million dollars to destroy and demolish two historic Chicago School skyscraper buildings has generated much adverse publicity for the GSA and the associated agencies. Clearly, the GSA underestimated the general public's concern for these structures and the significance of this action, with the tremendous public and media response.

A Change.org petition started by Preservation Chicago to measure and estimate the public's concern, when the media reports of the $52 million dollar earmark to demolish the Century and Consumers Buildings was started. This was in response to so many individuals and citizens wanting to express their opinions on the proposed demolition of these wonderful buildings and at taxpayer expense. The Change.org petition resulted in over 32,000 signatures in support of preservation and a Chicago Landmark designation of the two structures—the Century and Consumers Buildings, from the Chicagoland area and extending across the nation.

A separate media story from London on "The B1M" on the story and potential demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings has generated over a million views worldwide, since its initial debut in summer of 2023, capturing close to half-a-million in its first few weeks. We at Preservation Chicago are of the opinion that this indicates incredible support for the preservation and restoration of these buildings, extending from across the nation and world. The impact of the potential demolition and loss of the Century and Consumers Buildings, would adversely and perhaps profoundly impact the GSA and Chicago, and every effort should be made to consider alternative options for avoidance and minimalization through a restoration and reuse program.

Security:

Security is a very understandable priority and many of us realize the challenges. However, these formerly occupied structures—four in total, which have been mostly mothballed, in which the GSA purchased, took off the tax rolls and left vacant, appears more of a potential threat, than what was lost by the acquisition of the structures.

Deliveries to the Berghoff Restaurant, which is perhaps also undermined by this proposal, is a much-loved institution continues through Quincy Court and an agreement, but those delivery and refuse trucks may be more impactful and perhaps more of a potential security breach than a solid reuse plan for the Century and Consumers Buildings.

We are of the opinion that with a correct reuse of the Consumers Building—the closest of the two historic structures, along with the Century Building, that all sorts of good synergies and outcomes can occur. A plan to embrace, restore and reuse these two historic early skyscrapers, and engage some recognized portions and storefront of the 212 S. State/"Robertos" Building, could be beneficial and being about a more highly secured area and zone around the Chicago Federal Center.

Potential Alternatives and Solutions:

Among potential solutions is for the GSA to restore and reuse these buildings for Federal agencies. Ironically, the FBI's headquarters on Roosevelt Road was constructed at about the same time the GSA was acquiring the Century and Consumers Building. This appeared to be a major expansion of Federal agencies in Chicago. However, the FBI could have easily moved into the Century and Consumers Buildings, especially with a "bridge building" to connect them. The decision was made to move elsewhere.

In the past there have been Requests for Proposals (RFPs) and equal, for a trade of services for these buildings, as well as plans developed and presented for a residential reuse. One of those residential reuse projects involved efforts by Preservation Chicago, after assurances were made that such plans could proceed. Much planning went into those proposals and then at what appeared to be the last minute, they were rejected for security reasons. So, there's been a sort of a "goal post," or threshold, which appears to keep moving. This has a tendency to relay mixed messages, which can appear to undermine these historic structures, by the GSA and related agencies, toward a demolition outcome.

There's a plan which has been underway to consider the Century and Consumers Buildings as a Collaborative Archives Center-CCAC. This new innovative concept and idea could bring about reuses to these buildings and resolve many issues and security concerns. The vision is that any windows or openings of concern could be blocked or sealed from the inside on the principal elevations, or from the outside on non-principal elevations—or the backside of the buildings. Further documents and studies need to be conducted, along with evaluations, but security would be of the highest priority. Such an archive could house collections from across the county, including Federal and municipal documents and to date, we have a variety of Religious Orders that are interested in bringing their collections to Chicago and making it a national center. However, we want this to be a collaborative archive, research center and with vetted and secured access, with reservations for visitors and scholars. Our university base of institutions in Chicago could be a magnet for such a reuse vision.

In closing, we at Preservation Chicago appreciate the opportunity to continue to share our candid and straight-forward views on the potential action and $52 million dollar taxpayer expenditure to propose the demolition of two amazing historic early Chicago School Buildings. We are of the opinion that the $52 million dollar expenditure could be wisely spent to restore and revision these buildings, rather than both harm two works of art and architecture, in addition to harming Mies van der Rohe's legacy Chicago Federal Center. We have the support of many people that wish these buildings to remain and be restored, given Chicago Landmark Status and repurposed, by the GSA or others. We at Preservation Chicago are here to help and assist, as needed and want to be your partners in envisioning better options than demolition.

Let's encourage a partnership with the GSA, to continue ownership of the exterior terra cotta structures, while engaging in a revisioning of these important and historic Chicago School structures, with the larger community and arrive at a preservation-sensitive outcome.

We at Preservation Chicago would also request to be part of the upcoming Public Scoping meetings and discussions, as well as a "Consulting Party in the Federal Section 106 Hearings.

Thank you for your consideration of these ideas and suggestions and we continue to be available to discuss preservation options and visions for the 200 block of South State Street in Downtown Chicago.

Don't tear these down. Please. Use the money to support an archive center or other high-security use in the buildings you let rot under your ownership. Don't make a crater in my city for security theater. This would be a devastating blow to a part of State Street that needs help.

Have some imagination. Don't squander my hometown's architectural heritage because the Federal government can't think of a better use for $52 million. This teardown mentality is 70+ years old and was wrong ever since. The fact this is such an uphill battle to save the City's architectural heritage is a shame, and the fact that there are reasonable proposals that the Federal government won't consider is an outrage.

Do better, let these buildings be converted.

General Services Administration

Suite 3600

Chicago, Illinois 60604

Dear Joseph Mulligan,

We encourage the invaluable reuse of two historic buildings of the overall urban design of the Federal Center in Chicago, created by the great architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, (1886-1969). His work there began in 1959, with the Dirksen Court House completed in 1964, Post Office in 1973 and Kluczynski Building in 1974. Alexander Calder's sculpture, Flamingo, was also installed in 1974.

Chicago's gridded plan is a rich fabric, woven so that all the threads reinforce and enhance one another. The fabric of the surrounding city is a major element in Mies's design. The Federal Center occupies the symbolic heart of a great American city, where the presence of the Post Office, Customs House and Courts have fostered communications, development and justice. In urban design terms, the Federal Center links the wide variety of activities and interests that define Chicago along the thread of Quincy Street. The Concourse of Chicago's Union Station, opened in 1925, provided a vista over the Chicago River, along this thread of Quincy Street terminating at the Dome of the former Federal Building, completed in 1905 by Henry Ives Cobb. Narrow Quincy Street then continued to serve as this link, connecting Chicago's importance along its axis from the center of transcontinental transportation at the Concourse, to LaSalle Street, the center of banking and commodities trading, to the presence of the federal government under the dome of the courthouse, to State Street on the east, the center of the retail life of the city. Importantly, the Century and Consumers buildings, 1913 and 1916, have remained key elements of the retail and commercial importance of State Street.

Mies understood the symbolic power of this physical connection of so many of the most important components of the city's importance in the life of the nation. In his plan a shopper on State Street could see along Quincy Street, through the transparent ground floor entrance of the Dirksen Court House, past the dome-like form of Calder's Flamingo sculpture, along Quincy street to the façade of the Concourse of Union Station. This reciprocity of view, linking the city together, ended when the Concourse was demolished, and the Sears (now Willis) Tower was completed. From an urban design point of view this has only served to make the connection between State Street and the Federal Center more important and confirms the need to preserve the Century and Consumers buildings.

Many are working to maintain these handsome buildings – Preservation Chicago, Landmarks Illinois, National Trust for Historic Preservation, Chicago Collaborative Archives Center. The CCAC are holders of archives from across the US, wishing to reuse these buildings, the Century and the Consumers, for professional archival storage and functional records usage.

Please join us in giving these important Chicago School buildings the start of their new life as they continue to make both their older traditional and newly envisioned contributions to the Federal

Center and the life of Chicago's Loop. Your interest would greatly enhance the success of this positive undertaking.

Hello-

Besides the idea of desecrating a piece of Chicago architectural history, I find the proposed demolition of Century and Consumers Building to be a complete waste of taxpayer money. $52 million!?! The Dirksen Courthouse and Century and Consumers Buildings have co-existed without incident for five decades. Why all of sudden this fear for no reason? You'd tear down a nearly 300-ft, 21-story building because of supposed security concerns when the Loop is full of other taller skyscrapers? I don't understand the logic behind this decision. Century and Consumers is a classically beautiful Chicago School building with so much potential for future use. If Chicago and the federal government demolishes this structure, it will be one of the city's most foolhardy architectural losses, up there with the Chicago Stock Exchange. Once the building is torn down, it is gone forever. Please preserve it for the future.

Thank you.

i think that 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 S. State St, the century and consumers buildings, should be restored and reused. i believe you referred to this as "alternate b", but whatever it is, please save those buildings

To whom it may concern,

I'm emailing concerning the demolition of the Century and Consumers buildings here in Chicago.

The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center plan meets or exceeds all 15 security requirements.

The GSA should move forward immediately with renovation and adaptive reuse.

The idea that instead of working with the CCAC, the GSA wants to demolish the buildings for $52mil is baffling.

I truly hope the GSA reconsiders this position.

Have a nice day!

To whom it may concern:

I am writing to oppose the GSA's proposed demolition of two historic buildings at 220 and 202 S. State Street. As a registered architect designing new traditional commercial projects, I recognize Chicago's Century and Consumer buildings as excellent examples of pre-International Style commercial architecture. These buildings fit into a uniquely American history of architecture, adapting historic precedents for contemporary commercial use and emerging methods of construction. Demolishing these buildings would degrade the importance and continuity of the Loop Retail Historic District and be a loss for the architectural community in Chicago and the United States.

I support adapting the existing buildings for new purposes.

Good evening, I'm writing to express my opinion that the federal government should preserve these buildings. Chicago, and many, many other cities across our great nation have spent decades tearing down its historic urban landscape and its time for government at all levels to take a step back and reconsider further destruction of our historical urban center. Please save these buildings. Thank you, From a Chicago resident and passionate historian. Glenn Brammeier Sent from my iPhone

Good Afternoon!

Writing as a native Chicagoan who prizes both the architectural history and the continued vibrancy of his hometown, I strongly urge you to reject this truly ill-conceived piece of national security “theater” (e.g., “The Wall”). Should these historic and irreplaceable structures be destroyed, we will all end up poorer - in every sense of the word - and no safer. Rather, I would counsel the parties responsible to use the earmarked 52 million dollars to begin the restoration and adaptive reuse (i.e., the creation of a Chicago Collaborative Archive Center) of the Century and Consumers Buildings, a path forward that clearly represents a win-win solution.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment. I sincerely hope that you take the best interests of the citizens of Chicago - past, present, and future - to heart as you make your decision.

Dear GSA,

Speaking as a long time Chicago resident, the plan to demolish the current historical building due to a few easily addressed privacy concerns is faulty and a disservice to the city of Chicago. We're it to be demolished the blight that would likely occupy the space would be a much bigger detriment both to the city of Chicago and to the federal government.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

These buildings make up the historic State Street District in Chicago. As a long-time Chicagoan and American, these buildings make up our collective history of the built environment. Their caliber will never be replaced with new buildings. Also, demolishing them goes against the administration's policies around climate change, and I strongly implore the federal government to get around their own policy imposition which is causing the proposed demolition of these buildings. We are in a housing crisis - these could be used for housing. Also, it could additionally be used for other federal offices.

Like in D.C., historic buildings have been used to house federal offices, or coexist with other historic buildings. Please do not demolish these buildings - there is already a legacy of incredible buildings we have already lost, please to not add to the collective sighs of generations to come seeing what misguided federal policy has resulted in - bland, insipid cities in the name of "homeland security."

Thank you,

Daniel

The GSA has done tremendous harm to the core of the City of Chicago in creating blighted conditions by preventing investment and redevelopment of 202-220 S. State Street. There is no excuse for the past policy failures of the GSA, but there is still time for the GSA to do the right thing for our community: DO NOT demolish these buildings, and stand aside so that they may be productively preserved and redeveloped. To Whom It May Concern,

Please, do not waste resources tearing down 2 perfectly good historic buildings that can be reused.

There are many uses that can occupy these buildings that would not have windows facing the Dirksen Federal Building. It is a supreme waste of government dollars, embodied energy, economic opportunity, built materials, etc. etc. etc.

Get your head out of the 1960s & into the 21st century. Restore the Century & Consumers buildings while addressing whatever overblown security concerns have been imagined after 60 years of the Dirksen standing in close proximity to these pre-existing buildings.

Creating another blank space on State that people can't use would be a tragic waste. These 2 buildings should be re-used - archive center or some other purpose. It could be residential if rear windows were closed off to alleviate security concerns regarding the adjacent courthouse.

My office is down the street and I pass these buildings every day. Years ago, before they were bought by the federal government, I was inside one of them for an event. There was so much original architectural character still intact.

Don't destroy more of the Loop's historic character. We've already lost too much.

I can't believe that has to be said. If you are too lazy to even consider reuse, then sell the buildings.

The claim is that the demolition is required because there is no plan for reuse and that the rear windows endanger the adjacent courthouse security. That shows an utter lack of thought and creativity. Shame on all involved in this project.

Those buildings are worth far more than whatever perceived benefit you've come up with by demolishing them. Save the buildings. Save your $52 million in demo costs. Sell them if you must. There are developers out there who will be more than willing to find a creative reuse.

Please add us to the email distribution for the EIS.

General Services Administration (GSA), Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) - Purpose: To address the future of the four buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street adjacent to the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse in downtown Chicago, Illinois. These four buildings are in the Loop Retail Historic District listing in the National Register of Historic Places. Two of the buildings, the Century Building at 202 South State Street and the Consumers building at 220 South State Street are contributing elements to the historic district.

*This statement and supporting documents are also to be part of these buildings review in accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) Section 106 process and (36 CFR 800.2).

IMPACTS to be noted and addressed in the EIS:

Members of Board of Directors for the CCAC spoke at the public hearing on November 10, 2022, to include Malachy McCarthy, Holly Fiedler, and Ward Miller. The CCAC would note that additional impact considerations relevant to Chicago Architectural History were emailed by Preservation Chicago as well as historians Rolf Achilles and Kevin Harrington.

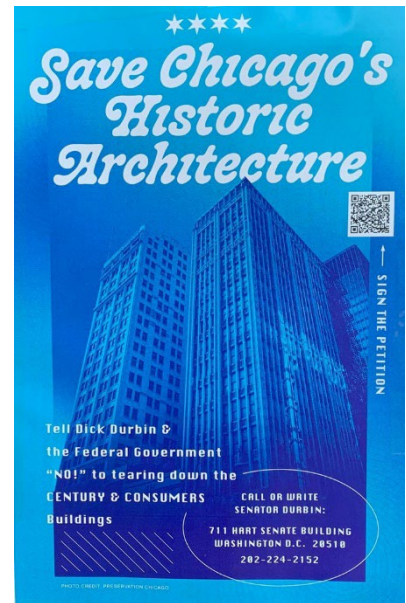

The Century and Consumers buildings are part of Chicago's architectural legacy. Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, designed the Chicago Federal Center, including the Dirksen Courthouse with the built environment in mind, this included the Century and Consumers built by his predecessors. In relation to these buildings are two features which contribute to the original and ongoing importance of the State Street and Quincy Court original entrance area. First is the Sol LeWitt public art wall piece facing the Dirksen entrance on Quincy that the GSA commissioned. The blank wall facing the Dirksen Building was thought a suitable place for a large art piece, and Sol LeWitt was the chosen artist. Officially located at 10 W. Jackson, the work is titled Lines in Four Directions and dates from 1976. It is hardly ever noticed now because of the re-configuration of the State Street and Quincy Court entrance. Secondly, at ground level between the Dirksen Building and Century Building stand a couple of tan brick and steel I-beam walls hiding utility equipment. These walls are superbly proportioned to the perfectly spaced mortar and bricks in the Mies style of the 1960s to 1990s. These are the only such walls in the Loop and are totally unknown because of the security complexities that protect them.

In 2017, leading members of Chicago's architecture and preservation community united to nominate nine "Early Chicago Skyscrapers," in downtown Chicago to become a UNESCO World Heritage site. The list originally included additional important buildings for this esteemed honor, but lacking owner consent, were passed over for inclusion in this initial grouping. It noted at the time of the nomination that additional buildings would likely be added in the future, including a number of Chicago School of Architecture/Chicago Commercial Style buildings. The Century and Consumers Buildings are strong candidates to include in the "Early Chicago Skyscrapers" UNESCO World Heritage site in the future. Jan C.K. Anderson of US/ICOMOS informed Preservation Chicago that the potential demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings would almost certainly disqualify Chicago from achieving the distinguished honor, joining historic structures on the world stage. The potential loss of the "Early Chicago Skyscrapers" as a UNESCO World Heritage site would result in the loss of tens-of-thousands of heritage tourists and millions of dollars to the Chicago and region's economy each year. This would be a tremendous and unfortunate loss on so many levels to include future economic potential for the city through tourism and potential revitalization projects through historic and cultural avenues.

Demolition of these buildings would be a dis-service to the history of Chicago Architecture, loss to the downtown economy, and future positive endeavors. Other public impacts statements offered November 10th included environmental impacts and landfill issues related to the potential demolition of these buildings.

The community has expressed concern which is evidenced in extensive media coverage. There have been at least twenty-five articles published concerning these buildings within this year alone. A Change.org petition which has garnered over 23,250 signatures and a ten-minute B1M video produced in London, England by B1M, released July 13th which has been viewed by over 1,112,030 individuals. (See the below list of Attachments for accumulated media links.) Locally, an independent group interested in Chicago architecture has also been posting notices throughout the city encouraging the public to write letters to Senator Dick Durbin and sign the Change.org petitions. (See image on the right.)

ALTERNATIVE to be noted in the EIS: Chicago Collaborative Archive Center - CCAC

The CCAC is offering a vision for a positive alternative that would restore the existing buildings and meet the federal security needs.

Collaborative archives are a way to efficiently combine historical collections. Several groups and individuals have been discussing the development of an innovative multi-faceted archival center in downtown Chicago since the summer of 2020. These Include: Preservation Chicago, Archival Resources for Catholic Collections, Dominican University's Mary Nona McGreal Center, and religious archivists from several congregations. The Century and Consumers Buildings have been vacant for about two decades due to their proximity to the Dirksen Federal Court building. Proposals for residential use or commercial development of this site has been prohibited due to the need of maintaining a secure perimeter for the federal complex. The four buildings (202-220 S. State St.) would serve the purpose of an archival center very well and meet the security needs for the courthouse. Ward Miller, Director of Preservation Chicago has discussed the matter with the City of Chicago, and they appear to be receptive to developing these buildings into an archives center. The Franciscan Central Archive and Order of Franciscan Minor – 6 USA Provinces are two archival groups interested in being part members of this collaborative archive. The CCAC vision is to develop this property into an archive center open to all. December 10, 2021 was the initial discussion with presentations for interested parties.

The CCAC Board of Directors consists of Ward Miller, Director of Preservation Chicago; Malachy McCarthy, past Province Archivist of the Claretian Missionaries Archives United States-Canada, and Coordinator of the Archival Resources for Catholic Collections (ARCC); Christopher Allison, Director of the Mary Nona McGreal Center for Dominican Studies at Dominican University; Sister Mary Navarre OP, Director of Archives of the Dominican Sisters of Grand Rapids; and Holly Fiedler, Archivist for the Sisters of St. Francis of Penance and Christian Charity Sacred Heart

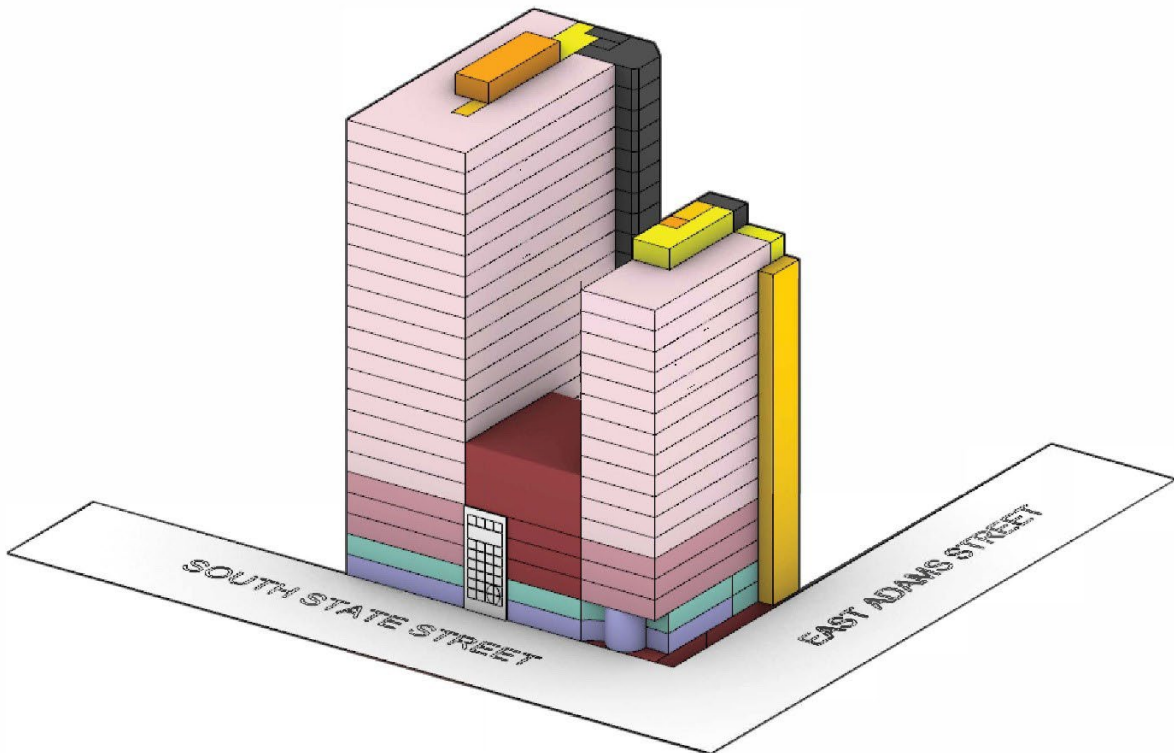

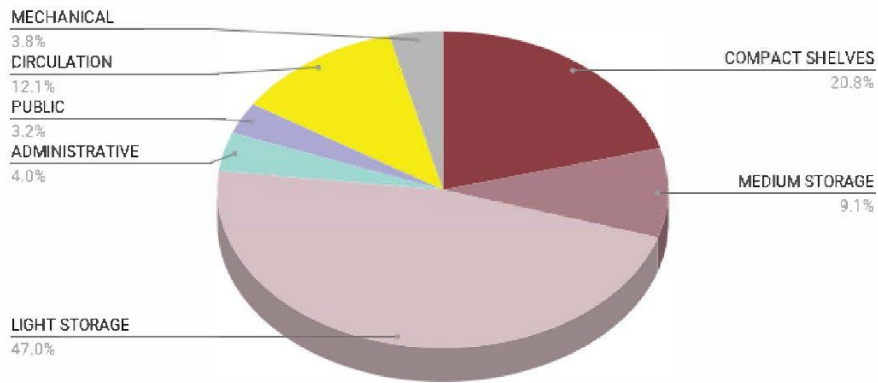

Community and member of the Franciscan Central Archive (FCA) Working Group. The CCAC is incorporated as a nonprofit through the State of Illinois and in the process of filing the 501(c)3, drafting bylaws, as well business and strategic plans.

The CCAC mission statement: The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC) is an organization committed to identify and purchase building(s) to create a collaborative archive in the Chicago area. The CACC Board would be responsible for managing, ensuring integrity, and safeguarding the operation in perpetuity. This shared archival facility creates an economy of scale, professional interaction, and central repository for scholars. The urgency of this critical need is underscored by the closure and/or merger of many religious communities and other associations.

The CCAC is proposing a national archive center that would employ archival standards to preserve unique and irreplaceable collections. Structurally, archival storage would be assigned the largest area of the buildings. Requiring limited light and 24-hour climate-control, it is desired for storage to have a closed environment. This allows for the west walls facing the Federal Center to be sealed as necessary. Any windows of concern from the Quincy Court elevation façade could be sealed from the interior. This would retain the look and appearance of the buildings, especially the Consumers Building, from the street. In addition to the religious archives being proposed, the CCAC is reaching out to civic archive centers who may have a need for space in these remarkable buildings.

Similar to the GSA, security is of the highest concerns to the members of the CCAC partnership whose collections contain unique and irreplaceable documents. We believe that a limited vetted staff, perhaps 20 to 30 people would be at the site and coordinate a central reading room for the structure. Each visitor would make a reservation, pass security checks, and be escorted up to individually locked floors and collections, via elevator. The CCAC buildings would require multi-layer access control, security personnel, surveillance security systems, scaled zones of security throughout the buildings, security policies, incident response plan, as well as limited staff with board approval and security clearances. The CCAC is committed to work with the GSA to find the best possible security for the site. We would also welcome the GSA as a partner and, if desired, the GSA could have a security center located in the base of the Consumers Building, perhaps occupying much of the first floor fronting Quincy Court. This would help to ensure that both the collections as well as the nearby Chicago Federal Center are secure at all times.

The CCAC has been taking steps to understand what would be necessary to preserve and transform these buildings into an archive center. Over the winter and spring, the CCAC has held meetings with architects, engineers, and interested parties. Meg Kindelin, President of Johnson Lasky Kindelin, JKL Architects has been an active participant and cheerleader of this vision. Her company has the most current and accurate plans of the Century and Consumers' Building (202 and 220 S. State Street) and have been working with the GSA, over the past several years. Of note, one of their more recent clients has been the University of Illinois for their rare book collections and archives. She introduced the CCAC to engineers that have expertise with historic buildings within Chicago and have spoken to the CCAC of possible factors and concerns.

With a project such as this, it is important to mention some of the advocacy efforts of the CCAC that have occurred over this year. Ward Miller has had multiple conversations and emails with state and city officials. Mary Navarre, OP spoke at her Leadership Conference of Women Religious (LCWR) Region VII meeting of the CCAC developments. Malachy McCarthy and Chris Allison held conversations with interested parties at the 12th Triennial Conference on the History of Women Religious at the end of June. July 20th, Malachy McCarthy spoke to Dominican communities. He also has had discussions with Sister Sue Durkin, OSU, of the WRAC (Women Religious Archive

Collaborative, Cleveland, Ohio) and Hilton Foundation as well as with Sister Ginger Downey, OLVM, of the HARC (Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's College, Indiana). This has led to shared presentations, and publication of an article for the Society of American Archivists (SAA) Outlook concerning collaborative archives. All members of the CCAC have given various presentations and held meetings over the year. (See the below list of Attachments for SAA Outlook article and related press materials.)

The members of the CCAC would solicit initial funds towards the endeavor as well as partners and investors. CCAC will also be securing funds from foundations through grants, this will include the Hilton and Lily Foundations. In 2023, the CCAC intends to apply for a planning grant which could include business and strategic planning, assessment of how to assist moving collections to the center, assisting communities and collaboratives in jeopardy, and creation of a website. A second grant for implementation would help facilitate the creation of an endowment, hiring a firm to create a communications plan and initiate a capital campaign. Shortly following this the CCAC will initiate a development department that can continue programming, fundraising, etc.

It is also worth noting that the CCAC has made contact with a foundation which has an associated archive needing a new home with local roots to Chicago and would also be a future investor. This is very exciting and the CCAC would be fortunate to have this archive be part of its collaborative repository.

The CCAC has met with a tax attorney to discuss the Century and Consumers buildings (202 and 220 S. State St.) and how historic tax credits work at both the federal and state as well as with 501(c)3 nonprofit. This attorney has experience with past projects, including with JLK Architects, the state historic preservation office, and GSA, etc. The Century and Consumers buildings would qualify for federal historic tax credits. It is believed that this attorney would be an asset in this endeavor and partner well with JLK Architects.

In the beginning of 2022, the CCAC became aware of a federal infrastructure bill, passed by Congress in March 2022, which include $52 million for the demolition of the Century and Consumers buildings.

March 9, 2022, Preservation Chicago announced the Century and Consumers buildings as their top candidate for the Chicago Seven Most Endangered Buildings. These buildings have been part of Preservation Chicago's most endangered list since 2011.

March 29, 2022, the City of Chicago, Department of Planning and Development, Program Committee of the Commission on Chicago Landmarks held a virtual meeting to receive requests for Chicago Landmark designations. Ward Miller, Director of Preservation Chicago and member of the CCAC Working Group, presented the Century and Consumers buildings (202 and 220 S. State St.) for consideration. Malachy McCarthy, Coordinator of the ARCC and member of the CCAC Working Group, as well as Holly Fiedler, member of the FCA and CCAC, spoke in support for the Chicago Landmark designation.

March 31, 2022, Landmarks Illinois, Preservation Chicago, and the National Trust for Historic Preservation sent a joint letter to federal administration calling on the agency to preserve the buildings. Communications have been sent back and forth with the inclusion of other constituents.

April 20, 2022, Landmarks Illinois announced the Century and Consumers building as their 2022 most endangered in Illinois.

May 4, 2022, the CCAC sent an email to Regina Nally and Robert Theel of the GSA, Subject: 202 and 220 S. State St. – Century and Consumers Buildings, concerning the proposed vision of the CCAC. This started correspondence between the GSA and CCAC.

May 18, 2022, the CCAC held a press conference in Chicago. Malachy McCarthy gave introductions and spoke on religious archives, as well as consolidated and collaborative archives. Ward Miller spoke on the history and importance of the buildings and steps being taken by Preservation Chicago and others to save the buildings. Meg Kindelin, President of Johnson Lasky Kindelin (JKL) Architects spoke of her review of the buildings and potential use plans. Holly Fiedler presented the Franciscan Central Archive (FCA) Initiative as example of a religious archive endeavor and benefits seen to be part of the CCAC. Chris Allison spoke of the urgency of religious communities to find an archival repository for their collections as they reach completion of their congregation within the next few years. All agree that this is most feasible through a collaborative archive center. (See the below list of Attachments for links related to the press conference.)

July 7, 2022, the Commission on Chicago Landmarks held a meeting. The above mentioned spoke in support of preliminary landmark status for the buildings. Evidence was submitted to Chicago Landmarks in support of the Century and Consumers buildings. It can be found by following this link for the Commission on Chicago Landmarks, July Comments:

https://www.chicago.gov/city/en/depts/dcd/supp_info/landmarks_commission.html

In ongoing correspondence with the GSA, the CCAC sent an email and mailed hardcopy to Regina Nally and Robert Theel of the GSA on July 18, 2022. In that letter the CCAC asked to be part of upcoming meetings concerning the buildings, our desire to participate for formal consideration, and reaffirmed our commitment to work with the GSA.

September 8, 2022, Chicago Landmarks recommended both buildings for preliminary landmark status. A presentation on the buildings was given and it was recommended that a report and/or statement be created.

The CCAC has had further communications with GSA, federal and local officials. The result of which have been two previous meetings at the Dirksen U. S. Courthouse with federal representatives, members of the CCAC, as well as Joe Mulligan on September 12 and October 25, 2022. These meetings discussed the security, integrity, and historic value of the buildings; perceived and preferred limitations on the buildings; viable options and partners; as well as the CCAC vision to use the buildings for an archival center. The need for updated structural engineering evaluation and reports of the buildings is needed. Access to the buildings for evaluations is necessary. Both these meetings have had related conversation and correspondence of value to this process.

The CCAC was able to review two reports of 202 and 220 S. State St. concerning the terracotta facades, dated February 23, 2022. Each report had a section dedicated to Temporary Stabilization Repairs, that primarily involved removal of some terracotta, installation of temporary mesh, use of joint sealant and/or mortar as well as plywood. Each report also included extensive Recommendations for repairs. However, there was no supporting evidence of making these repairs. Did any of these repairs occur? If so, what were they and are there reports of such?

The CCAC stresses that it is vital that access to the buildings be made possible and that updated structural evaluations be performed and reports be written. It was indicated in the September meeting with Joseph Mulligan that this should be possible and paid for by the GSA. The CCAC would ask to be kept apprised of this progress, be allowed to have access to the buildings, and informed when the structural evaluation will be performed and receive a copy of the reports upon completion.

It is recognized that Congress has appropriated funds for demolition * for all four buildings. According to the GSA [Notice-PBS2-22-06; Docket No. 2022-0002, Sequence No.26], “The funds appropriated by Congress are available only for demolition, securing the site, and landscaping the vacant site following demolition. The proposed action includes protection of adjacent properties during demolition, securing the vacant site of the demolished buildings and landscaping of the vacant site following demolition.” Joseph Mulligan had indicated to members of the CCAC that those funds could also be used in the alternative vision for the archives center as any exterior or interior demolition prior to restoration or construction.

*We ask that the language for the appropriated funds be altered to also include “and/or restoration” for all four buildings. It is indicated under National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) Procedures, Environmental Impact Statements (39 CFR 775.11) that “Proposals for Legislation” are possible.

The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC) thanks you and the GSA for their considerable review of these four buildings, 202-220 South State Street, and asks to be a consulting party in the process as an organization with demonstrated interest in the undertaking or the affected historic properties. We look forward to future discussions.

CCAC

Chicago Collaborative Archive Center

Preservation Chicago, Dominican University, and members of the Archival Resources for Religious Collections are exploring a sustainable multi-repository archive center in the downtown South Loop. The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC) would house collections from various groups providing preservation in perpetuity. The CCAC would have a Board of Directors and operate under a 501(c)(3). At the moment, the CCAC has interest from the following archival groups:

- Franciscan Central Archives
- Order of Franciscan Minor, 6 USA provinces
- McGreal Center for Dominican Historical Studies

These two remarkable buildings, the 16-story Century Building by Holabird & Roche (1915) and the 22-story Consumers Building by Jenney, Mundie & Jensen (1913), were once principally occupied by small businesses, attorney offices and showrooms. Due to their proximity to the courthouse and courtrooms in the adjacent federal courthouse, the General Services Administration (GSA) exercised its power of eminent domain in 2005 to take control of these State Street buildings based on increased security fears following the events of September 11, 2001. Since that acquisition by the GSA, the buildings have been stable but slowly deteriorating due to deferred maintenance and vacancy.

Both Preservation Chicago and Landmarks Illinois listed the buildings on their most endangered lists in 2022 and in previous years. The federal government has budgeted a $52 million expenditure in the Federal Infrastructure Bill, currently before Congress, specifically for the demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings. The decades-long advocacy efforts to save these significant buildings is therefore reaching a critical stage. “We are building great momentum on a plan for reuse for these extraordinary buildings,” said Ward Miller, Executive Director of Preservation Chicago. “Our challenge now is to stop the federal wheels of demolition motion and steer toward a viable reuse.”

The CCAC is proposing a national archive center that would employ archival standards to preserve unique and irreplaceable collections. Structurally, archival storage would be assigned the largest area of the buildings. Requiring limited light and a 24-hour climate-controlled environment, it is desired for storage to have a closed environment. This allows for the west walls facing the Federal Center to be sealed from the interior-side of the structures. This would retain the look and appearance of the buildings, especially the Consumers Building, from the street. The collaborative is also encouraging the GSA/Federal Government to partner on this effort, perhaps by continuing to own the exterior skin: walls, terra cotta, and windows of the buildings. Such a plan would allow the GSA to exercise total control of the perimeter and the windows, including those that need to be permanently blocked from the interior side on principal elevations. In addition to the religious archives being proposed, the collaborative is reaching out to civic archive centers who may have a need for space in these remarkable buildings.

This vision has been brought together by the CCAC as well as Ward Miller, Executive Director of Preservation Chicago; JLK Architects, a Chicago woman-owned architectural firm led by Meg Kindelin that has collaborated with the GSA; and Thornton Tomasetti, a structural engineering firm with extensive experience in adaptive reuse projects of historic skyscrapers with this type of age and construction. Together we have had multiple meetings to review and discuss architectural and structural possibilities.

The goal would be to have the archive center operational within 5 years. Costs are a challenge. The CCAC would apply for a planning grant which could include business and strategic planning, assessment of how to assist moving collections to the center, assisting communities and collaboratives in jeopardy, and creation of a website. Then CCAC would apply for an implementation grant to help facilitate the creation of an endowment, as well as hiring a firm to create a communications plan and capital campaign. The CCAC would be taking advantage of federal tax credits.

“There is strength in a collaborative archive. The value of the individual collections within such a repository are increased by the presence of the others,” said Holly Fiedler, Province Archivist, Sisters of St. Francis, Sacred Heart Province. “There are certainly many challenges in making this vision a reality, but we are taking actionable steps forward to achieve the ultimate goal.”

The various archives that would use this building would share staffing and leasing costs. Security would be paramount in this endeavor. The Center would have less than 30 employees and visitors would require reservations. The buildings would require multi-layer access control, surveillance security systems, and scaled zones of security throughout with each floor being locked and secured. There is proposed a central research room, perhaps on the first or second floor. The security team would be at the base entry to the building.

Classrooms, lecture hall, and exhibit space would be on the lower levels, face State and Adams Streets with fixed hours, and have appropriate security monitoring. Possible commercial space could be in the Century building, facing State and Adams Streets, and be on the ground floor with fixed hours of operation.

“A collaborative archive of this proposed size is rare in the country,” said Christopher Allison, a historian and Director of the McGreal Center at Dominican University. “It would become a major hub for archive-based research, and would consolidate precious sources in one space.” Allison also said that it would add to the rich educational resources of the Loop. “Our Graduate School of Information Studies could be a productive presence in the building, providing not only classes but also hands-on internships and employment for future professionals.” There are multiple other universities within the downtown area who would find value in the CCAC through research, program development, and other opportunities.

“As members of the collaborative keep exploring this archives option, we are even more convinced this is the best solution – both for the city and these buildings,” said Malachy McCarthy, Province Archivist for the Claretian Missionaries Archives USA-Canada. “It fulfills the security needs of the central government, and it could be a home for historic archive collections with no place to go.”

The creation of a collaborative archive in the heart of downtown enhances Chicago’s reputation as a learning and resource center. The Society of American Archivists and the American Library Association are headquartered in Chicago. The city’s academic institutions and the welcoming of outside scholars have made Chicago one of the most documented cities in the United States. The CCAC provides the city and region a unique opportunity to create a new research center model where scholars could find a multiplicity of collections in one block, with a short elevator ride the only barrier in the broadening of our understanding of the world.

THREE COLLABORATIONS IN CATHOLIC RELIGIOUS ARCHIVES

Sr. Ginger Downey, The Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's; Sr. Susan Durkin, Women Religious Archives Collaborative; and Malachy McCarthy, Claretian Missionaries USA Canada

Collaborative archives—the practice of several institutions working together to build a repository—provides a means to efficiently support several archival collections, foster professional interaction among archivists, develop a shared set of services, access climate-controlled storage areas, and numerous other benefits to which a solo archives might not have access.

The advantages are immense, and the practice is gaining momentum, perhaps nowhere more so than in the religious realm. Catholic communities and religious orders especially have experienced an increase in the creation of new community archives. Collaboration among repositories is an obvious choice as many of these collections have not been professionally managed. The stories in these archives—primary source documentation on immigrants in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries; rural, urban, and working-class experiences; and the development of educational, medical, and charitable institutions—represent “hidden” collections that can shed light on the varied service of these communities and provide scholars with valuable resources.

Here are three significant and exciting initiatives underway in the religious archives community.

The Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's

Catholic congregations face many difficult issues, a significant one being the decline and aging of their membership. This in turn raises the issue of the continued care of their congregational archives. In spring 2018, the Sisters of the Holy Cross in Notre Dame, Indiana, invited archivists and members of leadership from congregations in the Midwest to imagine possible ways that they could care for their archives into the future. The Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's (HARC) was the fruit of this dreaming.

HARC is a collaboration of nine congregations working to build one repository to house all their archives. This ensures that after a congregation is no longer able to provide for its archives, there will be archivists to care for it in perpetuity and provide access to those wishing to use the archives for research. In addition, HARC will create an exhibit space to share the history of each congregation. This space will be interactive, with transitional exhibits curated around themes and different aspects of the lives of women religious. The nine congregations are initially supporting this endeavor through endowments, grants, and other funding sources to ensure sustainability. This exciting project will preserve not only the stories of these congregations, but also the broader story of women religious in the United States and beyond.

Women Religious Archives Collaborative

The 2018 Boston Conference entitled “Envisioning the Future of Catholic Religious Archives” inspired twelve congregations of various charisms to form the Women Religious Archives Collaborative (WRAC) in Ohio. WRAC continues to seek out interested congregations to join the collaborative and plans to expand its space to accommodate additional congregations and current and future collection development.

WRAC is in the process of vetting a location for the facility in Northeast Ohio. As a tax-exempt corporation, WRAC has elected a board of directors and appointed an executive director. Several committees have also formed, comprised of religious and lay members with expertise in fund development, communications, design and construction planning, and programming, and each participating congregation has appointed a liaison to the project. WRAC's lead archivist is working with an archivists committee to assess collections and provide support and additional expertise to congregations.

WRAC seeks to provide space for congregational collections and to process and preserve these collections. The collaborative will employ professional archival staff and welcome interns to work with collections. WRAC is beginning work on the legal agreements with congregations and on the policies and procedures for its facility, which will include storage space and display areas for artifacts and a large, dynamic space for presentations and programs.

As congregations have limited resources, WRAC seeks to make the space affordable. Participating congregations have provided initial fundraising support and will include endowment support as a part of their congregational legacy planning. WRAC will utilize grant funding and initiate a capital campaign to construct and endow the space in perpetuity.

The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center

Once again building upon the influential 2018 “Envisioning the Future of Catholic Religious Archives” conference, a group of archivists established the Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC). Unlike HARC and WRAC, CCAC welcomes archives from male and female

Christian: How can archivists develop their visual literacy to better appraise, describe, and provide access to born-digital design records? What other skill sets do archivists need to successfully manage born-digital design records?

Leventhal: Our profession will need to develop digital visual literacy in addition to visual literacy. The former requires a more explicit acknowledgment of and familiarity with tools, the technical functionality of digital tools, and communication of design intent, as well as the expected visual experience. Digital visual literacy requires an awareness of the modern design process and changes in practice and, often, an understanding of the broader economic and technological conditions to contextualize the climate in which the work was being done. For example, a recession could decrease architectural projects, resulting in practitioners not updating their software suite for several years as a costs-saving measure. Or software developed in a related discipline like animation might be adopted by designers making simulated walkthroughs of a proposed design.

Christian: You've contributed both to an SAA book and American Archivist articles. What advice do you have for anyone wishing to write for SAA?

Leventhal: If you see a gap in the literature, do not wait for an invitation. Please write about that missing conversation. Don't be deterred by the timeline from initial draft to publication, which often helps to make the final product better. Ask all the questions you have. It can be an intimidating to get started, but not knowing part of the process shouldn't be the reason to stop helpful observations or innovations from being shared in these publications. ■ congregations, various denominations, and secular and nonreligious archives. Also different from other efforts, the CCAC merges urban historic preservation with archives. The CCAC Working Group envisions its physical center to be managed by a board. Besides offering a shared space in a secure site, CCAC hopes that its center can provide other dedicated services, such as a digitization facility, an oversize storage area for artwork and other archival materials, a conservation center, an exhibit space, an auditorium, and street-level businesses enhancing the CCAC's mission. It would be a one-stop shop where congregational members could have specialized tasks done at a reduced rate with the same services offered to the general public at a higher fee to generate revenue and help sustain CCAC.

Assisted by the executive director of Preservation Chicago, CCAC is searching for suitable properties and is considering a building in the downtown area adjacent to several university and college campuses, which would facilitate interaction with academic institutions, and near a variety of transportation hubs, which would provide easy staff and user access. The building would be renovated to comply with archival standards for climate-controlled storage.

CCAC is still very much in its formative stage. The Working Group is in the process of filing Articles of Incorporation as a nonprofit with the State of Illinois, then will file for 501(c)(3) status. Members are also in discussions to form a Board of Directors and draft bylaws. Implementation grants, capital campaign, and future endowments will be paramount to CCAC's success. Regardless

if this specific physical site proceeds, the CCAC Working Group is committed to establishing some type of collaborative archives within Chicago.

Starting with a Clear Plan

All three of these initiatives face the challenge of long-term sustainability, not just for the many collections they house but for the collaborative itself. It is imperative that a collaborative archives has a strong board to manage the facility and a clear development program to implement immediately. In addition to managing each collective's current collections, the board must be ready to grow to take on the completed collections from additional community archives.

Another initial challenge is for the collaborative archives to establish a minimum level of archival processing. This will allow the collaborative to understand incoming collections and to improve the collection's description and access. Each of these centers needs to develop clear policies outlining the responsibilities of all parties. For example, will a new collection be managed by its own archival staff, or will the center establish a team of professionals to manage the collection?

With these considerations in mind, collaborative archives offer an innovative approach for organizations and communities with uncertain futures. By merging archival collections, small- and medium-size archives can obtain services that might otherwise be out of reach. Combining the efforts of participating members and a board to oversee, fund, and protect the collaborative, professional archivists can manage collections, employ shared IT professionals, initiate archival cloud storage, and launch a communal content management system. A shared website with portals to digitized collections and finding aids encourages researchers to access these valuable collections more readily. Ultimately, the benefits of collaboration mean that the stories and service of these small religious orders and communities—much of which has shaped our broader national history—will be preserved for future generations. ■

Dear Mr. Mulligan,

RE: EIS Public Scoping Meeting, November 10, 2022, Concerning 202, 208-212, 214, South State Street, including Century and Consumers Buildings

I ask to be a consulting party in the process as an organization with demonstrated in the undertaking or the affected historic properties.

Please add me to the email distribution for the EIS.

General Services Administration (GSA), Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) - Pur address the future of the four buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street to the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse in downtown Chicago, Illinois. These four buildings are in Retail Historic District listing in the National Register of Historic Places. Two of the built Century Building at 202 South State Street and the Consumers building at 220 South State are contributing elements to the historic district.

*This statement is also to be part of these buildings review in accordance with the National Preservation Act (NHPA) Section 106 process and (36 CFR 800.2).

I am a member of the Franciscan Central Archive (FCA) – Initiative Working Group. Franciscan Federation President convened this project with an open letter to the Le Meetings started in the fall of that year. Many of our congregations have been facing pressures while also experiencing congregational diminishment. Among the issues we face to ensure the future care of the congregation's archival collections, and the legacy it do The influence of Franciscan religious and their ministries reaches across all aspects of , and international life. The archival collections of our members document the p marginalized, immigrants, orphans, and politically persecuted cultures in other cou guidance and support are not secured, not only will our Franciscan heritage be lost but s major portion of the mainstream historical narrative.

Within 2021, the group became the Franciscan Central Archive (FCA) Initiative to better the broader reality of who and what we are. We are lay staff and brothers and sisters of Franciscan congregations, professional archivists, and those who have learned on the job. Some community leaders. Combined, our collections document Franciscan congregations from the present. We welcome inquiries and participation from First, Second, and Third Order Franciscans, as well as Secular Franciscan groups. Our Vision Statement is a success charism-based collaborative repository for the combined archival collections of Franciscan congregations across the United States.

In our journey to find the site for the FCA, I was invited to learn of the Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC). We are now an interested member of the CCAC. The CCAC project means for the FCA to part of a larger collaborative of archives which in turn reduces or overhead costs. It also lifts the burden from the FCA to build an archive. This allows the focus on preparing our individual congregational archival collections to come together grateful that the CCAC will allow us to join other archives, to pool resources, and join services such as a digitization, content management system, cloud storage, digital repository possibly even a shared website. We look forward to the professional interactions, as shared programming and development. We are excited to be part of an archive center also include the Order of Franciscan Minor – 6 USA, Dominican University's Mary Nona

These buildings are in desperate need for repair. They have only had the bare r temporary, repairs over the past two decades. Recommendations have been given to water migration and perform long lasting repairs. These appear to have been ignoi stabilization should be a priority, especially to the exterior: roof, windows, and terracotta.

Demolition of these buildings would be a dis-service to the history of Chicago Arc loss to the downtown economy, and future positive endeavors. It will remove Chicago's n of "Early Chicago Skyscrapers" to become a UNESCO World Heritage Center. This significant loss to the city for tourism who bring money and interest to the city.

The CCAC has an option that would preserve the historic nature of these b stabilize them, bring them back into positive use, and meet the security needs for and Feds. The CCAC has had communications with both Federal representatives Dirksen courthouse and the GSA and asked to formally be part of this process. Security highest concern to the CCAC whose collections are irreplaceable. The FCA collec irreplaceable. The CCAC has informed the FCA that a limited staff with board appr security clearances would be in the buildings. Visitors would make a reservation, pass checks, and be escorted up to individually locked floors and collections. The buildin require multi-layer access control, security personnel, surveillance security systems, scal of security throughout the buildings, security policies, and an incident response plan. The committed to work with the GSA to find the best possible security for the site.

I do have questions concerning the Section 106 process as it relates to 202, 208-212, 214 220 S. State Street buildings and request that they be answered:

1. What are the required elements that need to be included in a "security plan" so that the as well as architectural and engineering consultants may review the buildings.
2. To confirm discussion from our meeting on October 25th, the GSA will be performing str evaluations and reports for the four buildings? Do you know when this will be schedule completed for review?
3. In reading text concerning the section 106 process and the National Register of Historic (NRHP) that historic properties are to be listed. It is my understanding that 202 and 220 and Consumers are part of the "Retail Loop" historic district and listed with an orange ra the Chicago Historic Resources Survey (CHRS) and were under review for landmarking at least two criteria and noted integrity but that process was put on hold. Given this, will Federal agency, the GSA, be in consultation with the State Historic Preservation Offices to evaluate if it meets the NRHP eligibility by seeking a formal Determination of Eligibi (DOE) from the Keeper of the Nation Register? [36 CFR Part 800, of note 800.4-7&10 so, when? Also, who is the Keeper of the National Register?
4. Has the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP) been notified and invited process? Section 106 process [36 CFR Part 800, 800.2&3 – Consulting Parties.] If not, w they be notified?
5. In reading the Notice of Intent (NOI) [Notice-PBS-2022-06; Docket No. 2022-0002; Seq No. 26] am I to infer the findings from the NHPA will be brought into the Environmental Statement (EIS) under the sections pertaining to the "potential impacts: cultural resourc aesthetic and visual quality;" etc ? If not then how will the EIS and NHPA Section 106 to

This would be a security risk for the CCAC which would be by default be a security risk feds. Never mind potential damage or injury (health and safety, liability, etc.) unloading i snow. Also, the issue of blocking pedestrians from crossing while unloading. Would ther flexibility in the language of this point to allow for a covered or preferably an interior gara unloading dock off Adam St. into 220 S. State. St.?

7. In review of the section 106 process [36 CFR Part 800] under 800.2, are you formally Agency Official? If not, who has been approved for this position? Also, under 800.2&3 Council Assistance, has a State Historic Preservation Officer(s) been defined? If so
8. In review of the 202 and 220 S. State St. reports concerning the terracotta facades performed by the engineering firm, dated February 23, 2022, I see in each report, se 3.05, Temporary Stabilization Repairs, that primarily involved removal of some terracott: installation of temporary mesh, use of joint sealant and/or mortar as well as plywood. Ea report also included extensive Recommendations in section 4 for repairs, but I see no e of making these repairs. Did any of these repairs occur? If so what and are there report: such? Also, in an email to Ward Miller, it was indicated that you were to send him Apper & C. When and how will these be sent?

Thank you for your time and attention to these matters. It is greatly appreciated. I look forv receiving your answers as soon as it is possible.

These buildings are worth saving and there are options.

Sincerely,
Holly Fiedler

I could write a meandering diatribe about the historic nature of these buildings, the ham-fisted demolition proposal, the countless reuse opportunities that can coexist with a federal courthouse (I support the conversion to an archive center).

But I won't waste the ink.

Tearing down these buildings is so patently, obviously ridiculous that it should be self-evident. Just don't do it.

To whom it may concern: One of the wonderful things about working downtown in the pre-pandemic days was the area's architecture. You didn't have to take a tour to appreciate the city's heritage; it was all around. Demolishing Chicago's old-timey skyscrapers makes the city a little worse for each one we lose. Please do not demolish the Century & Consumers buildings. Please renovate and find an adaptive reuse, such as an archive center. Thank you for your consideration.

To Whom It May Concern-

As someone who works in the tourism industry, I am dismayed at even the thought of demolishing this historic building, a contributing property to the Loop Retail Historic District located on what Chicago calls its "great street", the main shopping area of State Street.

Chicago likes to sell its history and architecture to tourists from around the world but at the same time demolishes countless important buildings. From lost Adler & Sullivan structures during the urban renewal period of the 1960s & 70s to the recent demolition of Bertrand Goldberg's Prentice Hospital in 2013-14, you would think by now the city would have learned from past mistakes. I have no answers to give when a tourist asks me again and again how a city like Chicago can destroy its beautiful architectural heritage. This is 2022 and we are still debating whether Chicago's historic buildings are worth saving? We are seriously going to spend $52 million of taxpayer money to tear down this great example of classic Chicago School architecture!?! All because of concerns over a proposed rooftop deck that would have direct sightlines into an adjacent courthouse? Forget about that! There are other proposals on the table to breathe new life into this old building. Why be wasteful and put tons of historic material into a landfill? Think of the potential, especially with inflation and a recession on the horizon.

Learn from the past and don't repeat the same mistakes. Save, restore, and reuse the Century and Consumers Building!

To Whom it May Concern:

I'm reaching out with a simple request: preserve Chicago's historic downtown skyscrapers including those in State Street opposite the Dirksen courthouse.

The GSA must pursue to only viable alternative for these buildings: adaptive reuse. Concepts including archives have already been proposed. The Federal government should not destroy an entire block of urban skyscrapers on an important commercial street.

Pursue adaptive reuse for this site.

Hello -

I'm writing in regards to the GSA's proposed demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings in Chicago. I strongly oppose the proposal to demolish these invaluable buildings and am aghast that the federal government would even consider it.

As a Chicagoan, I believe that two things that make our city great are (a) our dense, active downtown and (b) our architectural heritage. This demolition would strike at both, putting the security state (and vastly overblown security concerns) in front of the lives of everyday Chicagoans who will need to live with a dead space in the middle of a vibrant downtown.

There are plenty of other options here - including The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center - that would meet the security criteria while preserving these buildings, at the same or lower cost. Shame on the GSA for even considering this demolition.

I hope the legislators who purport to speak for the citizens of Chicago will step up here.

Please keep these beautiful buildings and reuse and renovate them. Not only will they help Chicago maintain its first class architecture status, but it is also good for the environment. To Whom it Concerns,

Urban Vitality:

As a long-time resident of downtown Chicago, I strongly object to the government's proposal to demolish the 202 and 220 S. State Street buildings. My husband and I live on State Street. We reside only a block away from these buildings and have been here for 24 years. State Street is our neighborhood. The vibrancy of State Street and the density of this historic retail district brought us to this location. State Street in the loop is undoubtedly one of the most storied streets in America, attracting visitors worldwide. Such an act would be irreparable. Architects designed this historic street for retail on the street level, and this plan destroys that continuity.

Historic Recognition:

Decisionmakers must consider the effects of their actions on historic properties. Preservation activists favor landmarking the buildings and restoring and finding suitable re-use for them. However, demolition leaves a permanent hole in State Street's distinctive "street wall. Moreover, it hinders attempts to have the State Street district declared a UNESCO World Heritage site and destroys some of the finest remaining examples of the famed Chicago School style of architecture.

Security:

The argument that demolishing these buildings will enhance security for the Federal Courthouse is flawed. Although I respect the importance of safety, eliminating these buildings and creating a sizable empty plaza is an irreparable mistake. Instead, the best protection approach is using these buildings as a buffer, which is far more sensible than further exposing the Courthouse. In addition, the government can use its 52 Million dollars planned for demolition to rehabilitate the buildings.

Carbon Footprint:

I also object as a citizen concerned about the carbon footprint. The most environmentally sensible approach when developing any site is to rehabilitate its existing stock. The planet is desperate for a steadfast commitment to reducing greenhouse gases, and the government's proposal to demolish these buildings has the opposite impact.

Conclusion:

The Federal Government needs to support its surrounding communities, not gut them. This narrow proposal to demolish the buildings comes at an enormous cost to the City, its visitors, and those of us who live nearby, especially when its reasoning is flawed from the outset.

Senator Durbin has been listening to the wrong voices. Tearing down a pair of early 20th-century towers and their neighbors on State Street would be a waste of money, natural resources and the City's architectural heritage.

RE: Notice of Intent To Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement and Initiate Section 106 Consultation for Four Buildings at 202, 208-212, 214 and 220 South State Street, Chicago, Illinois, and Notice of Public Scoping Meetings and Comment Period

Dear Mr. Mulligan:

Thank you for the opportunity to submit written comments regarding the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street. Founded in 1971, Landmarks Illinois is the state's leading voice for historic preservation. We promote preservation, restoration, and adaptive reuse of buildings and sites of many types in order to leverage our past to create a better future. In April 2022, we included the Century and Consumers Buildings at 202 and 220 South State Street in our list of the Most Endangered Historic Places in Illinois after learning of Senator Durbin's appropriation funding request for their demolition.

As outlined in the Federal Register, the three alternatives that GSA proposes to evaluate in the EIS consist of A) Demolition, B) Viable Adaptive Reuse, and C) No Action. We would like to take this opportunity to respond to each of these alternatives and to formally request consulting party status in the Section 106 process.

Alternative A: Demolition

Landmarks Illinois adamantly opposes the demolition of the historic Century and Consumers Buildings at 202 and 220 South State Street. These irreplaceable historic buildings, which are contributing resources to the National Register Loop Retail Historic District, reflect Chicago's outstanding architectural legacy. Their demolition would leave a void in one of Chicago's most iconic commercial corridors and eliminate the possibility of their renewed contribution to the city's economy. From an environmental perspective, demolition would also be a shameful waste of embodied energy and building materials.

Moreover, the demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings as a security measure for the nearby Dirksen Federal Courthouse would set an alarming precedent for the surrounding area and for other federal courthouses and high-security buildings located in dense, urban centers across the United States. The Century and Consumers Buildings are only two of many skyscrapers in close proximity to the Federal Courthouse, and their demolition would not erase potential threats that arise from the Courthouse's location.

For these reasons, we believe the dedication of $52 Million for their demolition is a misuse of public funds, especially when private funds could finance their rehabilitation and reuse while finding creative solutions to address the Court's security concerns. We encourage all parties to consultation to instead to focus their energies on developing strong, reuse-centered alternatives to demolition under Alternative B.

Alternative B: Viable Adaptive Reuse

We were pleased to read in the Federal Register and hear from representatives of the GSA and the Federal Court state at the November 10 meeting that your agencies are open to viable adaptive reuse as an alternative to demolition. The GSA stewards dozens of federal courthouses and other government buildings in similar urban centers across the United States and is a leader and innovator in meshing preservation and design with security. This is the moment for that leadership and innovation to take center stage. We are convinced that security concerns can be addressed and a solution for a viable adaptive reuse for these buildings found through cooperation between the Federal government and the private sector.

However, we find the conditions outlined in the Federal Register for that reuse to be overly restrictive. In particular, we would like to respond to the following conditions:

2. Occupancy/Use: Properties shall not be used for short-term or long-term residential or lodging, places of worship, or medical treatment, services, or research. No use that requires access to outdoor areas is permitted.

The explicit refusal to consider residential reuse is out of step with real estate trends and local planning efforts in the Loop. Office and retail vacancy rates in the Loop are high due to ongoing effects of the COVID-19 pandemic and a shift in new office investment to the West Loop. The City of Chicago is actively promoting the adaptive reuse of excess office space in the Loop into mixed-use residential through the LaSalle Street Reimagined program. Residential use is almost certainly the most economically viable possibility for these buildings, and to remove it from consideration without explanation is a serious obstruction to reuse. We request the GSA revisit this condition to permit residential reuse.

6. Occupants and users of the buildings shall have no sight lines into the Dirksen Courthouse, the Dirksen Courthouse ramp, or the Quincy Court properties owned by GSA.

Similar to demolition, this requirement sets an alarming precedent for GSA properties located in dense, urban areas. This restriction gravely disincentivizes reuse by requiring extensive alterations that are incompatible with the historic character of the buildings and that make occupancy wholly unattractive. It additionally does not solve security concerns for the Courthouse posed by existing sightlines from many other surrounding buildings. While we do not wish to minimize the security concerns of the Court, we strongly disagree that this restriction will achieve the desired security outcomes. Instead, we ask the GSA to consider more modest restrictions for the State Street buildings combined with investigation into strengthening the Courthouse's own ability to withstand security threats from its environs.

Alternative C: No Action

Since the GSA took possession of these buildings in 2005, they have sat vacant and deteriorating. The buildings cannot be allowed to decline further without causing life-safety concerns. In this instance, no action would be a choice to allow the buildings to deteriorate until demolition is inevitable. We find this alternative to be functionally the same as Alternative A.

Moreover, GSA representatives shared at the November 10 meeting that the agency may disassemble fire escapes and parapets and move these elements into storage, which would be conducted under a separate NEPA review. We do not support this action or its exclusion from the current EIS. Portions of the parapet walls of both 202 and 220 are original and include decorative elements that are critical to the historic integrity of the buildings. Rather than removal, new stabilization elements should be introduced to maintain these elements in place until an agreement is reached for the future of the buildings. The GSA's consideration of this action demonstrates that there is no possibility of a true no action alternative for the Century and Consumers Buildings.

Consulting Party Status Request

Finally, Landmarks Illinois would like to formally request consulting party status in the National Historic Preservation Act Section 106 process for 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street. Please include Landmarks Illinois in your distribution list for public notices of any meetings, and for the circulation of any documents for comment. Information can be sent to me at kparzen@landmarks.org. We look forward to continued consultation.

Dear Mr. Mulligan:

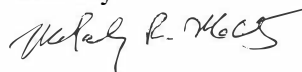

This letter is in support of the preservation of the historic properties located at 202 to 220 South State Street in Chicago's Loop. Identified as the Century and Consumers buildings, these structures provide an opportunity to combine architectural preservation with the proposed large archival repository known as Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC). The CACC is an innovative approach to house a variety of archival collections in a shared space. This collaborative facility would allow each archive to manage its own collection while profiting from the professional interaction and pooled resources gained from the size of the structure. Because archival collections are the building blocks to understand United States society, history, and culture, this marriage of two unique testaments would enhance understanding of our diverse nation. Centrally located among a variety of academic institutions and major scholarly institutions, the CCAC would serve as a capstone for this unique and vibrant neighborhood.

This innovative approach would create an opportunity for archival collections to obtain professional services and scholarly interest. In the past, archives were institutions that reflected the upper classes. Today with the advent of social history, scholars rely on collections found among the ethnic and working classes. However, these small collections are hampered limited resources and an engaged staff. The proposed association would invite these diverse collections to consider the CCAC as the permanent home for their lived organizational history. By pooling resources into one location, archival collections and professional interaction would be gained. Equally important is the idea that scholars can visit a variety of collections in one area, allowing for a more efficient use of time.

Currently with the diminishment or completion of many religious denominations and communities, this facility holds promise to administer these collections according to best practices. Likewise other small organizational collections are in desperate need to the same resources, It is hoped that the CCAC can evolve into an organization that would offer its tenants reasonably priced shared services. Technology has allowed information management to prosper and the use of content management systems, digitization, and cloud storage can make these archives accessible. Only with shared services is it possible for small archives to succeed.

The union of two historical important resources would further underscore Chicago's premier position as a place for scholarly research and reflection. It also provides overlooked collections the ability to share their story. In the end it is a win/win situation for all.

Sincerely,

Malachy R. McCarthy

Dear Mr. Mulligan,

This is to express strong support for the preservation of the Century and Consumers Buildings, and to underline their importance not only as historically significant buildings but as those contributing to the positive planning aspects of this city's environment.

These two seminal "Early Chicago Skyscraper" buildings, by Holabird & Roche--the Century Building (at 202 S. State Street - southwest corner of State and Adams Streets) and Jenney, Mundie & Jensen's Consumers Building (220 S. State Street - northwest corner of State Street and Quincy Court) frame the view to the Dirksen Federal Courthouse and Plaza.

Mies van der Rohe's plan for the Federal Center Buildings took into account the density of the existing surrounding buildings and his plan for the three buildings and iconic plaza space and demonstrates the value of working with the context of an historic city plan.

The adverse effects of the potential demotion of these two historically, architecturally significant buildings are monumental. We ask that you please consider important measures in achieving safety while still preserving the Century and Consumers Buildings as mentioned here.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Lynn Becker	Chicago	IL	60654	US	3/15/2022	"For decades, the Federal Government has been a slumlord in Chicago's South Loop, allowing these two classic era Chicago skyscrapers to sit empty and rot. Now, they are using specious security claims to justify spending $52 million in earmarks to create a huge hole of Chicago's State Street by demolishing the structures, only five years after their invitation for proposals received a very real, fully-funded plan to preserve them. We must not allow these important components of Chicago's world-renowned architectural heritage to be destroyed for a new Block 37, another heart-of-the-city block of historic buildings bulldozed to create an empty, dirt-filled lot for nearly two decades. Rescind the earmark. Stop the demolition. Save, restore, and reuse the Century and Consumers Buildings."

Steven Ramar	Hyannis	MA	2601	US	5/12/2022	"Think - Whom are we protecting by destroying these buildings...Worthless public servants, who are meant to be expendable anyway! Trust me - if someone's gonna kill these public servants, the public servants can just as easily be killed in a variety of other ways and places! And once they're dead - there's plenty more to replace them!"
Jason Tinkey	Chicago	IL	60647	US	5/12/2022	"this is just stupid"
Glen Weber	Chicago	IL	60605	US	5/12/2022	"It's incredibly stupid to tear these buildings down"
Wilson Work	Chicago	IL	60660	US	5/12/2022	"This demopition is completely asinine. Chicago's historic architecture should be preserved & renewed!"
Andrew Wallace	Dallas	TX	75208	US	5/12/2022	"I'm signing because tearing down and destroying an important piece of our architectural history is a form terrorism of it's own. The Taliban and ISIS are infamous for destroying important pieces of history. Should the federal government join their ranks?"

William Ste	Atlanta	GA	30309	US	5/12/2022	"This is ridiculous. By this standard we would have to level half of all the downtowns in major American cities. These buildings absolutely should not be turned down. They should be converted to residential use, which is needed. The single minded, inhuman logic being applied by the government here sounds a lot like how Robert Moses thought. His ideas are discredited today for good reason."
Paul Connolly	New York	NY	11243	US	5/13/2022	"Chicago has beautiful old buildings and enough surface parking lots."
Mark A. Miller	Chicago	IL	60626	US	5/13/2022	"It's part of Chicago's iconic architectural history. This is why so many people come to visit our city, our buildings and the history of the skyscraper that developed here. It's part of our "museum"."

Rich Hensel	Benton Harbor	MI	49022	US	5/15/2022	"The Federal building has stood next to these occupied buildings for decades without incident. This paranoia coupled with willful waste of cultural historic resources despite perfectly well-planned adaptive options is unsustainable. One solution is simply close all the Federal Building windows, or better yet, move the courtrooms to Schaumburg or the other rotting corporate campus towns. They can have plenty of sites with no neighbors out in suburban hinterlands."
Helene Berlin	Chicago	IL	60614	US	5/16/2022	"This site is pivotal to Chicago history, the city's standing as a global architectural and innovational center, but, most of all, its potential to secure the future economic and cultural life of the Loop."
COL(R) Shawn Welch		PA	18055	US	5/16/2022	"This is a travesty - these buildings must be reused...not demolished. Spending $52m in federal funds for demolition looks a lot like "graft" !!!"
Jo Ham	Bloomington	IN	47401	US	5/16/2022	"This building is irreplaceable!"

rachel perrine	Chicago	IL	60613	US	5/16/2022	"The Century & Consumers building is a beautiful and thoughtfully designed building and should not be taken down. Let's call for adaptive reuse of our historic buildings."

Eric Samuelson	Binghamton	NY	13903	US	5/21/2022	"They are very sacred landmarks and it's important to the history of Chicago"
Laurie Mills	Bristol	CT	6010	US	5/21/2022	"These buildings are already on the National Register of Historic Places! Does that not mean anything anymore? Why are things at risk even after designation? Save this architecture!"
Pamela Brey	Corpus Christi	TX	78404	US	5/21/2022	"Why isn't the $52M being used to renovate and update for reuse? It is inexplicable to destroy historical architecture that makes our cities fascinating; look at European cities, London, Paris, Amsterdam, Barcelona, Madrid, Prague, etc. etc. Get with it America! Understand history and prioritize!"
Chris Maddocks	Bangor	ME	4401	US	5/21/2022	"I'm signing because I want these type of places to be saved, please. Thanks. Chris Maddocks"
Leslie Warner	Evanston	IL	60202	US	5/21/2022	"These buildings are irreplaceable and contribute to our rich architectural heritage."
Angela McDonald	Chicago	IL	60632	US	5/21/2022	"Preserve!!"
Alissa Peck	Mount Prospect	IL	60056	US	5/21/2022	"Why 20 years to decide what happens to historical landmark buildings? That present safety issues?"
Salikoko Mufwene	Chicago	IL	60615	US	5/21/2022	"Please restore the buildings; don't destroy these historic monuments."
Margaret Westfield	Haddon Heights	NJ	8035	US	5/21/2022	"Adaptive reuse is the answer, not demolition!"
V Golden	Oceanside	CA	92057	US	5/21/2022	"Reuse/recycle--that's the mantra, right? Throwing debris in a landfill is bad--right? So let's "recycle" and reuse these buildings."
Barbara Kane	Brooklyn Center	MN	55430	US	5/21/2022	"Destroy two historic buildings for a "gravel lot"? I assume that means parking lot. There's got to be a better solution for these buildings. Use the $52 million (!) to restore not destroy it."

Christian Rocklein	BOISE		83716	US	5/21/2022	"Yes, save the buildings. Even if it wasn't a huge waste of funds they should be saved for their history and potential usefulness. "These proud and elegant Chicago School skyscrapers are located on State Street in the vibrant and thriving heart of Chicago's Loop. The 16-story Century Building was built in 1915 and designed by Holabird and Roche. The 22-story Consumers Building was built in 1913 and designed by Jenney, Mundie & Jensen. Both are on listed on the National Register for Historic Places.""
Debbie DiDominick	Peoria	AZ	85382	US	5/21/2022	"Chicago is not known for its gravel lots, it is known for its architecture, it's beautiful skyline, and rich history. These buildings are part of the historical society for a reason, and that means they should be protected. Please don't take away from what makes Chicago, well Chicago."
Charles Lentz	Grand Island	NE	68801	US	5/21/2022	"I'm just wondering why the city that built and PRESERVED the Water Tower, the Robie House and the Carson Pirie Scott store (now Sullivan Center) should even consider demolishing other landmarks??"
Alexandra Beltrand	Chicago	IL	60647	US	5/21/2022	"I'm signing because I studied to be a restoration designer because of the beautiful architecture in Chicago where I grew up. It's sad that dollars always try and destroy/ rewrite history."
W. White	Muscle Shoals	AL	35662	US	5/21/2022	"From my perspective, as both a historic preservationist and a fiscal conservative, this is a wasteful boondoggle of a project that should be stopped immediately. The Federal Government should not be in the business of demolishing perfectly sound historic buildings. If they have no use for these structures, they should be sold to private developers for them to restore, which would improve the community and add to the tax base, not subtract from it."

Travis Root	Chicago	IL	60657	US	5/21/2022	"I often walk by them on my way to library-- make no mistake, these are gorgeous architectural treasures, despite being mistreated for the past two decades. They're some of the last of Chicago's early skyscrapers with that thin, blade-like appearance, because they haven't been filled in on either side, a bold showcase of Chicago's structural engineering innovation. This city deserves to have its treasures preserved for future generations of Chicagoans."
Rhett Snyder	Boulder	CO	80303	US	5/21/2022	"Historic architecture, and especially historic buildings such as these are what makes Chicago the city it is. To tear these down would be a travesty for the history of Chicago architecture. If the government cannot find a use for them, then perhaps they shouldn't have obtained them through eminent domain in the first place. The "safety concern" aspect is simply absurd, as there are plenty of other tall buildings around, just a bit further away; anyone with knowledge of use of a rifle can target slight distances such as those from other buildings with ease."
Paul Montador	URBANA	IL	61801	US	5/21/2022	"So it is more important to build a Gravel Lot, for security than renovate two historic buildings that could be used for a variety of purposes? When in the name of all that is right, is destruction the answer? If there is a good plan to re-use and revitalize these buildings, surely that is better than creating a Gravel Lot that will be useless and a possible Eye-Sore!! As Prince Charles once said "A Monstrous Carbunkle""
Douglas May	Los Angeles	CA	90057	US	5/22/2022	"Great Architecture should not be destroyed."
Rachel Mercedes Verdugo	Costa mesa	CA	92627	US	5/22/2022	"THEY NEED """" SAVING, HISTORICAL, YOU CAN'T """" REPLACE"" THAT"" ,!!"
Rachel Mercedes Verdugo	Costa mesa	CA	92627	US	5/22/2022	"""" WE NEED TO STOP THIS, PLEASE TELL OTHER PEOPLE, THANK YOU, THIS HISTORICAL "" VALUE "" ,!!!!"
Melvin Knuth	Raleigh	NC	27612	US	5/22/2022	"It would be a great shame to lose two such historic structures if there is any reasonable way to put them back into service."

HOWARD STAFFORD	Ocala	FL	34482-6	US	5/22/2022	"THIS IS OUTRAGEOUS!!! DO THE RIGHT THING AND SAVE THE BUILDINGS!!!"
						"Scraping these Chicago School Skyscrapers with Chicago windows out of the Loop Retail Historic District? the heart of a city of Skyscrapers? would be like the whacking a couple old gentlemen in the park because you want their park bench! Once they're gone, this kind of design & craftsmanship will never be seen again -culturally & because we can't afford to replace it any more! The G.S.A.'s waste of material & waste of energy to wreck them is as unsustainable as it is inexcuseable! When I lived in Sacramento, the narrow end of a block-long Hyatt hotel went up on the north side of 12th street next to my favorite Prairie style highrise (~10 flr. apt). The Hyatt set back the width of this apartment house from the L street curb looking into the shady green of the east Capitol lawn... but it DID NOT match the architectural features & quality of the renderings in newspapers. After the uglified Hyatt went up, a garden was built along L street north up to the Hyatt & west up to the back of my favorite building. But"
John Ulloth	Van Nuys	CA	91409	US	5/22/2022
Joy Nacaytuna	Arlington Heights	IL	60005	US	5/23/2022	"I'm signing the petition."
						"I am so sick of the impulse to destroy things rather than restore them. That is nuts in our world where resources are limited. It seems to me that if there are groups who want to restore historic buildings, they should have first dibs no matter what anyone else says or wants. New is often not better, only new and it sounds as though there is not a positive plan for when the buildings are destroyed. The Chicago skyline is remarkable and needs to stay that way, Removing 2 buildings will not make it better. Just stop the destruction unless there is absolutely no other action that can be taken. These buildings are definitely not in that category. R.Sheets"
Ruth Sheets	Media	PA	19063	US	5/23/2022

Prospector P	Prospect	CT	6712	US	5/23/2022	"It's SH*THOLE Chicago so Why Should Anybody Care. Chicago Has Been One of the Most Corrupt Cities in the Country for Almost 100 Years. Keep Voting in the Corrupt Communists & You Get What You Deserve!"
James Lonergan	Chicago	IL	60602	US	5/24/2022	"The reasoning for demolishing these historic buildings does not make sense. This is an example of the Federal Government settling on an easy and dumb solution without any thought of the consequences. Save these buildings!"
logan laurie	Chicago	IL	60620	US	5/24/2022	"it's a heritage site. we should preserve chicago's historic architecture."

Tom Bakondi	Chicago		60641	US	5/25/2022	"I think we should be able to figure out a way to uphold safety at the federal center while preserving these irreplaceable buildings. These buildings have are an important part of the Loop!"
Khalila Fordham	Asheville	NC	28803	US	5/27/2022	"Affordable housing is much more valuable than a parking lot. Let's try that for once. Make proceeds of whatever changes are made go back to the city folk."
Debra Natenshon	Highland Park	IL	60035	US	6/9/2022	"There are smart, reasonable uses for the buildings and demolition is an environmental hazard as well as an insane waste of resources!"
Patrick O'Brien	Chicago	IL	60626	US	6/14/2022	"I believe in historical preservation of real estate!"
Sam Siegel	Los Angeles	CA		US	6/28/2022	"Chicago's historic high rise buildings are irreplaceable cultural, historical, and architectural treasures, they are what makes Chicago one of the world's great cities, and destroying them would be practically criminal."
Joel Preisler	Los Angeles	CA	90035	US	6/28/2022	"Adaptive reuse of these buildings can address effectively the security concerns which are reportedly the sole impetus behind their planned demolition."
George Ryan	Oshawa		L1G	Canada	7/4/2022	"We will lose a great example of our history and heritage."

Julie Hynes	Chicago	IL	60626	US	7/8/2022	"These buildings are irreplaceable! Tearing them down because of a vague security concern would be a historic mistake on par with tearing down the Old Mercantile Exchange so that it could sit as a surface parking lot for going on 20 years."
Catherine Miserendino	Chicago	IL	60604	US	7/13/2022	"Preservation of our iconic architecture is vital to the city's history and culture."
ERIC LEVINE	Highland Park	IL	60035	US	7/15/2022	"These are part of Chicago, America and the Worlds architectural heritage. The excuse they are a danger to federal courthouses is a hypothetical BS, which would require hundreds of such demolitions if you follow that absurd logic. Demolition is not the solution but a waste of $52 million and loss of history! They deserve UNESCO protection. (Sadly UNESCO turned racist, but still has its uses). Do something good for a change UNESCO!"

Mr. Joseph Mulligan
General Services Administration
230 S. Dearborn St, #3600
Chicago, IL 60604

Dear Mr. Mulligan:

I strongly oppose the demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings. I strongly encourage their protection, renovation and adaptive reuse.

These are great buildings, by great architects, on one of Chicago's greatest streets. This is more than just my opinion. Their Landmark eligible status has been definitively proven by the City of Chicago in their recent Chicago Landmark eligibility study.

Over the past 20 years, nearly every other Early Chicago Skyscraper in the Loop has been recognized for the irreplaceable treasures that they are, and have since been fully and lovingly restored. The Century Buildings and the Consumers Building are among the only notable exceptions.

Chicagoans love their city and they love these buildings. But the interest in seeing these buildings saved extends nationally and internationally.

Our Change.org petition to Restore the Century and Consumers Buildings has generated over 23,000 signatures. The B1M documentary video has been viewed over one million times. The unprecedented level of support is truly remarkable. Every one of these people is counting on us to make the right decision regarding these irreplaceable Chicago treasures.

But there is so much more at stake here than just these two terra cotta skyscrapers. Chicago's 'Early Chicago Skyscrapers' are currently under consideration for a UNESCO World Heritage Site designation. If Century and Consumers were to be demolished, it would jeopardize eligibility for this extraordinary designation and international recognition. This would be a tragic loss for Chicago and the United States. The UNESCO World Heritage Site designation value in heritage tourism is worth tens of millions of dollars and the cultural prestige for Chicago is priceless.

So, do these precious buildings need to be demolished? Fortunately, the answer is No.

These early Chicago skyscrapers are highly endangered today due to the faulty assumption that adaptive reuse and security are mutually exclusive. Perhaps back in 2018 when this process was started, this assumption was valid.

But today the Chicago Collaborative Archive Center plan proves this to be a faulty assumption. In fact, adaptive reuse and security are highly compatible.

This Archive Center plan is a brilliant and viable win-win alternative that would accommodate all stakeholder requirements.

The details of the Archive Center plan have been widely reported in the press. Additionally, they have been shared at length with representatives of the GSA at two prior meetings. It is a solid plan, its stakeholders have significant capacity, and they are highly motivated to proceed.

The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center plan was specifically designed to address security issues. Upon reviewing the security requirements detailed in the Section 106 Notice of Intent, it would appear that the Archive Center reuse plan meets or exceeds all 15 requirements.

This bears repeating. It appears that the Archive Center reuse plan meets or exceeds all 15 requirements.

As long as the Chicago Collaborative Archive Center plan is viable, the demolition of these buildings cannot be a legitimate option for consideration per this federally mandated Section 106 process.

The GSA is solely responsible for the buildings deteriorated condition. Prior to GSA taking ownership through eminent domain in 2005, both buildings were in reasonably good condition with many tenants. The GSA promised restoration and reuse but allowed significant deferred maintenance, vacancy, neglect and deterioration. The GSA should be required to immediately correct the documented deferred maintenance and to ensure that there is no further deterioration. Demolition by neglect is prohibited by law in Chicago.

There are ample funds available to restore these buildings. We've landed astronauts on the moon. We can add the two little words "or renovation" to the $52 million federal earmark.

It's true that Century and Consumers have suffered from deferred maintenance under the stewardship of the GSA, but the $52 Million federal demolition earmark for could be used instead to restore the buildings.

It's hard to know precisely what the restoration cost would be, but to offer some perspective, Lane Tech was comprehensively restored recently, inside and out. Lane Tech is the largest school in Chicago at over 600,000 square feet. This is more than double the combined square footage of Century and Consumers. They replaced 6,000 feet of masonry parapets, restored or replaces pieces of 15,000 terra cotta, installed 2,500 new windows and replaced the roof. Total cost...$52 million.

This is a city that innovated the skyscraper and that reversed the direction of the Chicago River. We can do this. I urge you to move embrace the Archive Center adaptive reuse plan and work together to resolve this issue in a way that allows all stakeholders to benefit.

Sincerely,

Adam Natenshon

Restoration or Wrecking Ball?

Chicago's Early Chicago Skyscrapers are currently being considered as a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

But the possible demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings would jeopardize this extraordinary designation and international recognition.

And just as the historic buildings were on the verge of being beautifully restored, the Feds earmarked $52 million taxpayers dollars to demolish these two outstanding Early Chicago Skyscrapers and replace them with...a permanent fenced security zone with perimeter landscaping, which will become a permanent void in State Street's historic streetwall.

Their claim is that the demolition is required because there is no plan for reuse and that the rear windows endanger the adjacent courthouse security.

But there IS an adaptive reuse plan that addresses the security concerns. It's brilliant, creative, and its stakeholders are highly motivated to move forward.

After two years of planning, the Chicago Collaborative Archives Center's adaptive reuse plan has motivated leadership, support from nearly 20 archives, and interest from financial strong institutions. Detailed plans and architectural drawings were presented at the widely covered press conference on May 18, 2022.

Most importantly, this creative and innovative adaptive reuse plan was specifically designed to meet known security related issues, including bricking up rear windows and limiting access to upper floors.

Landmark or Landfill?

So after being vacant and mothballed for nearly twenty years, the fate of the historic Century and Consumers Buildings is about to be determined.

These proud and elegant Chicago School skyscrapers are located on State Street in the vibrant and thriving heart of Chicago's Loop. The 16-story Century Building was built in 1915 and designed by Holabird and Roche. The 22-story Consumers Building was built in 1913 and designed by Jenney, Mundie & Jensen. Both are on listed on the National Register for Historic Places.

In 2005, the Federal Government took ownership of these buildings through its power of eminent domain with plans to renovate and reuse these buildings. But due to the lack of federal funding, the renovation never happened.

All will be lost if the $52 million dollars of federal funds are used to demolish the Century and Consumers Buildings.

Please sign the petition to Save the Century & Consumers Buildings.

1. We encourage the Illinois Delegation in Washington D.C. including Senator Dick Durbin (202-224-2152), Senator Tammy Duckworth (202-224-2854), and Congressman Danny Davis (202-225-5006) to take urgent action to support this effort.

2. We encourage the City of Chicago to take immediate steps to designate the Century and Consumers Buildings as Chicago Landmarks which would protect them from demolition.

For decades, the Federal Government has been a slumlord in Chicago's South Loop, allowing these two classic era Chicago skyscrapers to sit empty and rot. These buildings are irreplaceable! Tearing them down because of a vague security concern would be a historic mistake on par with tearing down the Old Mercantile Exchange so that it could sit as a surface parking lot for going on 20 years.

Re: Environmental Impact Statement for Buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street

Dear Mr. Mulligan,

The National Trust for Historic Preservation (“National Trust”) thanks you for the opportunity to submit written comments following the November 10, 2022 Public Scoping Meeting for the “Environmental Impact Statement for Buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street” (“EIS”). We request to be included as a consulting party for the Section 106 review of this project.

The National Trust was chartered by Congress in 1949 as a private charitable, educational, and nonprofit organization to “facilitate public participation” in historic preservation, and to further the purposes of federal historic preservation laws. See 54 U.S.C. § 312102(a). With over one million members and supporters, the National Trust works to protect significant historic places and to advocate for historic preservation as a fundamental value in programs and policies at all levels of government. In addition, the Chairman of the National Trust has been designated by Congress as a member of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (“ACHP”), which is responsible for overseeing federal agency compliance with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act, id. §§ 304101(8), 304108(a).

The National Trust is deeply concerned by the materials presented at the November 10, 2022 Public Scoping Meeting and the information contained within the Federal Register Notice for this project, 87 Fed. Reg. 65,771 (Nov. 1, 2022). Our concerns include the potential demolition of historically significant properties, the need for compliance with federal historic preservation laws, and other significant public policy concerns.

I. The National Trust is opposed to the demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings.

The National Trust strongly opposes the potential demolition of 220 State Street, known as the Consumers Building, and 202 State Street, known as the Century Building. The Consumers Building was completed in 1913, and the Century Building was completed in 1915, and both are contributing properties to Chicago’s iconic Loop Retail National Register Historic District. Both buildings are excellent examples of high-quality architecture from one of the most important periods in Chicago’s architectural history.

Given their historic and architectural significance, the demolition of both buildings should be avoided due to the cultural and aesthetic harm it would cause to the city of Chicago. As you know, Section 110(a) of the National Historic Preservation Act imposes strong historic stewardship requirements on the GSA, mandating that “historic property under the jurisdiction or control of the agency is managed and maintained in a way that considers the preservation of their historic, archeological, architectural, and cultural values in compliance with section [106],” 54 U.S.C. § 306102(b)(2). And of course, the Section 106 regulations require the development of alternatives or modifications to the proposed project that would avoid, minimize or mitigate its adverse effects, 36 C.F.R. § 800.6(a). In our view, the current proposal is not yet consistent with these important requirements.

Additionally, given the scale of both buildings, the resulting environmental impacts of their demolition would be significant. It takes between 10 and 80 years to overcome the carbon emissions debt that is incurred when an existing structure is replaced. Data from the Environmental Protection Agency shows that demolition and construction debris account for more than two times the amount generated by municipal solid waste. In addition, demolition may expose workers and neighbors to health risks from a range of hazardous materials, such as asbestos, lead paint, and crystalline silica.

Further, the potential demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings would cost the taxpayers $52 million of public funds, money that assuredly could be better spent on more necessary public needs. The negative repercussions of the demolition of these buildings would be extremely unfortunate, and the National Trust is strongly opposed to that possibility.

II. The three alternatives presented at the Public Scoping Meeting and in the Federal Register Notice are unreasonably limited and would foreclose good-faith consideration of the preservation of the Century and Consumers Buildings.

The three alternatives that GSA proposes to evaluate in the EIS consist of (A) Demolition, (B) Viable Adaptive Reuse, and (C) No Action (which would result in the continued vacancy and demolition by neglect of the affected buildings). Unfortunately, Alternative B, the only ostensibly preservation-oriented alternative, discourages or prevents the consideration of reasonable preservation and rehabilitation options. Alternative B requires that any adaptive reuse proposal be subject to fifteen conditions, including:

2. Occupancy/Use: Properties shall not be used for short-term or long-term residential or lodging, places of worship, or medical treatment, services, or research. No use that requires access to outdoor areas is permitted.

6. Occupants and users of the buildings shall have no sight lines into the Dirksen Courthouse, the Dirksen Courthouse ramp, or the Quincy Court properties owned by GSA.

14. All construction documents and specifications for any renovation, rehabilitation, modification, or construction of any portion of the building (interior or exterior) will be subject to review and approval by federal law enforcement agencies.

Combined, these and the additional conditions constitute a crippling disincentive to the preservation and rehabilitation of the Century and Consumers Buildings.

Condition 2 is perhaps the most striking restriction. In 2017, the GSA was poised to enter into an agreement with the City of Chicago and a private real estate developer that would have resulted in the adaptive reuse of the Century and Consumers Buildings as housing. That project regrettably did not occur but it provided GSA with clear notice that housing is an economically viable and contextually appropriate adaptive reuse for these buildings. To then explicitly exclude that use from consideration creates the appearance of a purposeful effort to prevent the adaptive reuse of these buildings. Particularly in the current environment of a citywide (indeed, nationwide) housing shortage, and at a time when a substantial amount of excess office space in Chicago's Loop is rapidly being converted into housing, the reuse of these buildings as housing should not be foreclosed. The other prohibited uses in Condition 2 are even more arbitrary and unwarranted. There is no rational basis offered for prohibiting "places of worship, or medical treatment, services, or research." Indeed, several of these uses would be less intensive than residential use.

Condition 6 is similarly unreasonable and arbitrary. Its requirement that no "occupants and users" of the affected buildings have sightlines "into the Dirksen Courthouse, the Dirksen Courthouse ramp, or the Quincy Court properties owned by GSA" ignores the larger physical context of the Dirksen Federal Building. The Dirksen Federal Building is surrounded by numerous buildings of a similar or greater scale than the Century and Consumers buildings, and that have innumerable sightlines "into the Dirksen Courthouse, the Dirksen Courthouse ramp, or the Quincy Court properties owned by GSA." Even if all of the sightlines from the Century and Consumers Buildings were eliminated, the Dirksen Federal Building, as well as the Courthouse ramp and the Quincy Court would thus remain visually accessible through innumerable sightlines from other privately owned buildings in the immediate vicinity. (Indeed, if the Century and Consumers Buildings were demolished, visual access to these properties would be increased.) We understand how a qualified security expert tasked with identifying security issues solely related to the Century and Consumers Buildings could arrive at this condition as a recommendation, but it ignores the larger context of the Dirksen Federal Building's security to the extreme detriment of any potential adaptive reuse. This condition would require substantial alterations to the Century and Consumers Buildings that would disincentivize adaptive reuse, and would severely degrade the quality of experience within those buildings.

Condition 14 is also problematic due to the burden that it would place on any adaptive reuse. Condition 14 requires that any alterations to the buildings be "subject to review and approval by federal law enforcement," (emphasis added), and that no building alterations may be undertaken without advance approval by GSA. In contrast to review and approval by historic preservation staff, which is governed by objective, well-known criteria and professional expertise, approval by federal law enforcement could be withheld for arbitrary and even undisclosed reasons. These conditions would also paralyze potential end users because of their unlimited time frames; prior to upgrading something like a kitchen within the building, ten years after the initial rehabilitation, a complicated series of federal approvals, with unknown criteria and potentially lengthy timelines, would have to be secured.

In total, the conditions imposed by GSA on Alternative B represent an unreasonable foreclosure on the potential preservation and adaptive reuse of the Century and Consumers Buildings.

III. The GSA should develop two additional alternatives that enable the preservation of the Century and Consumers Buildings.

The National Trust requests that the following two additional alternatives be developed:

- 1) An alternative that allows for the adaptive reuse of the Century and Consumers Buildings as housing. While this alternative could include substantial security requirements, it should strike a balance between security and creating a reasonable opportunity for the Century and Consumers Buildings to be adaptively reused.
- 2) An alternative that provides security for the Dirksen Federal Building via internal measures and modest alterations to the Century and Consumers Buildings. Given that demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings would not eliminate all sightlines into the Dirksen Federal Building, this alternative could potentially provide a more comprehensive security solution. Even if this alternative is not ultimately preferred, its exploration could identify opportunities for some security measures to be implemented within Dirksen Federal Building instead of at the Century and Consumers Buildings.

Without those additional alternatives, the currently proposed alternatives fail to reasonably consider the preservation of affected historic resources.

IV. The GSA's past use of eminent domain to take ownership of these historic buildings and present use of security concerns to justify their potential demolition are troubling public policy precedents.

The National Trust is opposed to the use of eminent domain for the purpose of demolishing designated historic buildings unless there is a clear justification and a lack of viable alternatives. In this case, the GSA used eminent domain in 2005 to take control of the Century and Consumers Buildings for the stated purpose of improving security for the adjacent Dirksen Federal Building. Since taking control of these important historic buildings, the GSA has allowed them to remain vacant and they have fallen into disrepair. Past attempts at working with the private sector towards adaptive reuse have not moved forward, and GSA is now pursuing their potential demolition with public funds in hand already allocated for demolition.

This sequence of events raises troubling public policy questions. Is GSA empowered to use eminent domain to take control of any building in the vicinity of a federal courthouse anywhere in America in the name of security? Is GSA likewise empowered to demolish any building from which a security threat could possibly emerge, for that sole reason? In an age when long-range firearms are commercially available, how far does the GSA's authority extend to prohibit sightlines to federal property? These are significant public policy questions that could have significant national implications for American cities, and they are inseparable from this project's review.

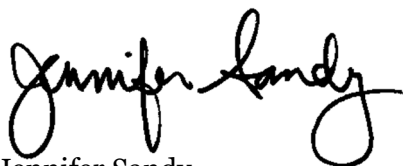

The National Trust is fully supportive of providing the best possible security for federal employees, and especially those who do the extraordinarily hard work of serving in our criminal justice system. However, the authority of the federal government to reach into American cities, seize property, and tear down important historic buildings in the name of security should not be limitless. At a minimum, federal law requires that other reasonable alternatives be thoroughly evaluated. To that end, we reiterate our above request for additional alternatives to be developed and earnestly considered.

We thank you very much for your consideration of our comments and look forward to continuing to participate in this consultation.

Sincerely,

Hello Ward and Reid,

Thank you Ward for your official submission of written comments and those of Adam Natenshon of your staff. As a part of this process to assess the effects of proposed demolition and our investigation of alternatives to demolition, all public comments, concerns and suggestions are being heard by GSA's project team, our leadership and our federal partners at the U.S. District Court and the Federal protection agencies.

GSA has discussed the proposed demolition of the 202 through 220 S. State Street properties with our liaison to the Advisory Council, Laura Lavernia, who participated in the Nov 10th scoping meeting. We have not yet sent a formal invitation for the ACHP to participate in consultation. GSA's plan, as noted at the scoping meeting, is to send invitations to consult to all parties including the ACHP, after the close of this comment period which was December 12, 2022. Those invitations to consult are scheduled to go out via email this week. We are looking to hold the first consulting parties meeting in mid to late January. Those details will be included in the invitation to consult. GSA wanted the opportunity to get initial comments from the public prior to initiating consultation with all potential parties. This approach allows us to learn of additional consulting parties whose interests we may not have been aware of previously.

Regarding the documents you mention in your email below, our GSA team is creating a website which will be operational in January to share the scoping summary document along with the facade repair report on the site. This website will also allow us to more effectively share documents with consulting parties and the public as the consultation process moves forward.

Ward, as always, please feel free to reach out to me directly with any thoughts or concerns regarding this process. I am always more than happy to discuss things with you.

Thank you,
Regina

Hello Ward,

Our team is creating a website which I will have operational in January to share the scoping summary document. I will include the facade repair report on the site.

In regards to the ACHP outreach, we have a specific GSA Liaison with that agency and have been in communication with them, including as early as sending an invitation on November 2nd to the public scoping meeting to initiate this effort, which was confirmed as received.

Also, we were notified that Mr. Reid Nelson, Director of the Federal Agency Programs of the ACHP—The Advisory Council of Historic Preservation, was apparently unaware of the GSA proceeding with a Public Scoping Meeting or the beginnings of a Section 106 meetings and the issues with the Century and Consumers Buildings, until an outreach was made less than two weeks ago, by one of our partners in preservation.

Please outreach to Reid Nelson and his associates at ACHP at 202-517-0200 and RNelson@ACHP.gov

Dear Regina and All,

We so appreciate your message and outreach to all of us and to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation in Washington, D.C. Thank you!

As you know, we were all alarmed at the Public Scoping Meeting, to hear that other agencies in Washington, D.C., were not aware of the issues and the public notice of this hearing surrounding the two-story historic Century Building, along with the 21-story historic Consumers Building, both located on the block of South State Street in Downtown Chicago. These historic early Chicago skyscrapers were built by Holabird & Roche and Jenney, Mundie and Jensen, and both firms are highly notable for their work and well-known on the world stage.

These buildings are "Contributing Structures" and so very important to the "Loop Retail National Register District," the State Street Streetwall, and Chicago's architectural legacy. Unfortunately it appears they have not been fully recognized and appreciated by the GSA, as the buildings have remained vacant and appearing somewhat derelict over most of the past 17 years. That's really a public embarrassment on our eyes, especially when so many other historic buildings—some by the same architectural firm—have been fully revised, restored, and once again contributing buildings to Chicago's built environment and tax rolls.

It appears at times from our perspective, that the buildings have been undermined, and that frankly many buildings have languished under the long-term ownership of GSA. Certainly we can collectively all agree. After all, it was about eight years ago that a group of us were called to a meeting at the Federal Center when options for demolition for one, two or more buildings to be demolished on the 200 block of South State Street, between Adams, Quincy and even potentially extending to Jackson Boulevard. I believe that you and Bob Thiel conducted that presentation on behalf of the GSA.

Architect, Ralph Johnson of Perkins & Will, and I, along with others were shocked by that GSA presentation that perhaps the Century or Consumers Buildings or both—and perhaps even the Benson Rixon Street architect Alfred Alschuler as well), were all under consideration for demolition by the GSA. The implications of Mies van der Rohe's Chicago Federal Center, also a masterpiece, which would also be adversely undermined by the proposed demolition and removal of the Century and Consumers Buildings as well as also discussed and presented by many of us in the audience.

It was thoroughly expressed by almost everyone in attendance at the meeting that such action by the GSA was really an unacceptable solution by our government. It led to outreach by both the GSA, many in the architecture and preservation community, and at Preservation Chicago, to find other solutions. In the benchmarks and restrictions for possible reuse by the GSA, there were a limited amount of interested parties, and then when solid reuse proposals came in and achieved all of the strict requirements, they were ultimately rejected.

In subsequent meetings on the Chicago Federal Center and concerning both architectural and security measures and adaptations to the Dirksen Courthouse Building East Plaza (including the proposed use of clear ballistic glass panels in some areas to replace the existing tall metal security fencing), a large group of architects and preservationists were reassured that both the Century and Consumers Buildings were in danger of demolition. This meeting was also led by Bob Thiel, and these questions were specifically asked by Landmarks Illinois and Preservation Chicago, with solid reassurances that demolition was not a threat. Since that time, we've now learned otherwise, with the recent $52 million-dollar congressional taxpayer earmark to demolish the 200 block of South State Street, between Adams and Quincy.

Despite being a Preservation Chicago – "Chicago 7 Most Endangered Building" in 2011, 2013 and with occasional communications with GSA, there was no outreach to members of Chicago's preservation community, or even to the City of Chicago's, Department of Planning and Development and its Historic Preservation Division. This was also unfortunate as well, as members of Chicago's preservation community outreach to inform City officials and the general public of this $52-million-dollar-earmark.

So just wanting to make sure that notice is received and that these agencies are aware of the tremor

We are hoping for good preservation outcomes for the Century and Consumers Buildings, and we hoping for the GSA to assist in these pursuits and keep the public promise made 17-years ago to maintain, restore and find a use for these buildings, within the GSA or with another acceptable ent

Thank you!

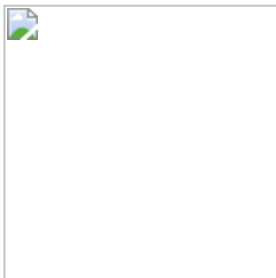

Sincerely,
Ward Miller

Attached please find our Preservation Chicago letter in response to the first Public Scoping Meeting Federal Section 106 Hearing for the Century and Consumers Buildings, located at 202 and 220 S. Street in Chicago.

As you know, we find these structures critically important to Chicago's architectural legacy, "The Lo National Register Historic District" and the State Street Streetwall, and both located on one of Chicago's most famous and important thoroughfares, in the heart of the City's Loop and Central Business District.

We therefore, highly encourage the preservation, restoration and reuse of these two seminal buildings and two legacy architectural firms, recognized on the world stage for their buildings and contributions to architecture.

Please confirm receipt of our letter and we look forward to assisting the GSA and other parties toward a good preservation solution for the Century and Consumers Buildings. Thank You!

Re: Public Scoping Meeting/Section 106 Hearings for the Century and Consumers Buildings and the 200 Block of South State Street, Chicago, along with the formal request to be a Consulting Party on behalf of Preservation Chicago, to the Federal Section 106 process.

Dear Mr. Mulligan, Members of the GSA, Judiciary Committee, Officials and General Public,

We at Preservation Chicago unequivocally support the preservation of two highly historic and seminal early Chicago skyscraper structures of four buildings, located on the 200 block of South State Street in Downtown Chicago.

These two structures are known as the Century and Consumers Buildings and are located at 202 and 220 S. State Street, in the heart of the Chicago Loop. Both buildings are “Contributing Structures,” and a vital part of the “Loop Retail National Register District,” in addition to their significance to the State Street Streetwall and Chicago’s architectural legacy. Both buildings anchor important corner intersections at State Street and Adams Street and Quincy Court and State Street—one of Chicago’s most prominent streets, in the heart of one of America’s most important, vital and architecturally significant cities. The impact and potential loss of these buildings and this historic block, would be tremendous.

In 2011, 2013 and 2022, the Century and Consumers Buildings were both nominated as one of our “Chicago 7 Most Endangered” buildings and sites, by our organization, Preservation Chicago. The nomination received tremendous public interest and media coverage, each time it was chosen as a Chicago 7. Limited discussions with the GSA’s Chicago office followed in each instance prior to 2022, but with little resolution towards addressing repairs and entertaining reuse suggestions and solutions.

At the July 7, 2022 and September 8, 2022, hearings of Commission on Chicago Landmarks, a public presentation was made by the City of Chicago’s, Department of Planning and Development, on both the Century and Consumers Buildings. These public hearing were held to determine if the two structures would fit the strict criterion for consideration of a Chicago Landmark Designation. It was determined that both buildings could indeed be considered for a Landmark Designation, by the City of Chicago, which could also potentially honor and protect these structures from disfigurement and destruction. This, while also providing a great history in context to the work of some of the greatest architectural firms of the late 19th and early 20th century. These hearings and presentation of research and findings, before the Commission on Chicago Landmarks, further established the importance of the Century and Consumers Buildings, and also their critical relationship to Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's design of the Chicago Federal Center.

The proposed demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings with a $52 million dollar earmark to destroy them, will have a profound and a detrimental adverse impact on State Street, and the Loop Retail National Register District.

Avoidance, repair and a restoration program should be instituted with minimal impact. This proposed demolition will also adversely impact and potentially undermine the 1872-Post Chicago Fire-era Berghoff Restaurant buildings—a Chicago institution, one of the Loop's oldest structures and remaining restaurant institutions. This proposed demolition action will also severely impact Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's vision of the Chicago Federal Center, one of the most recognized of his projects in our City and nation—a masterpiece recognized in the world of architecture and design, and one of his largest commissions.

Such action would result in numerous adverse impacts and repercussions, undermine and perhaps even clouding Chicago's great architectural legacy, while also perhaps acknowledging in perpetuity, the poor stewardship of the GSA of their properties. Such action as a demolition of these historic buildings would appear short-sided to many and be a potential huge public embarrassment, extending from Washington, DC to Chicago and across the nation. We need to find better and positive alternatives to demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings, and this will require every agency and the collective assistance and help of all parties in this effort.

History of the Century and Consumers Buildings and their importance on the world stage:

The 16-story Century Building of 1913, was designed by John Root Jr. of the architectural firm of Holabird & Roche and the 20-story Consumers Building, by the firm of Jenney, Mundie & Jensen in 1915. Both represent Chicago's important role in the development of "skeleton construction," conceived by Jenney's firm, as architect William LeBaron Jenney, of the firm of Jenney, Mundie & Jensen, is considered the "Father of the Skyscraper." These two structures are considered the last of Chicago's early tall skyscrapers to be constructed, before the advent of World War I, and along with others of this significant period, represent the culmination of the Chicago School of Architecture.

The technologies employed in the Century and Consumers Buildings and those prior, including the introduction of metal/steel framed construction, placed Chicago on the world stage of architecture. And the buildings known as "The Chicago Commercial Style" and "The Chicago School of Architecture," are still employed in modern skyscrapers of the world's many tall buildings and superstructures. This legacy of the Chicago School of Architecture continues to this day, and the buildings of these early years also greatly influenced Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, architect of the Chicago Federal Center, and what is sometimes referred to a "The Second Chicago School" and the "International Style." Additional information on the importance of the Century and Consumers Buildings was shared with GSA officials in the past and can also be found on-line, along with historic images at www.PreservationChicago.org, under our "2022 Chicago 7 Most Endangered."

The potential threat of demolition of these two important structures would greatly undermine Chicago's architectural legacy, along with our City's and Nation's commitment to preservation and the appreciation of these building types. It would set Chicago's dedication to preservation and protection of its most important legacy structures, back more than 50 years—a half a century. It would be a repeat the painful loss of such buildings as the Garrick/Schiller Building, the Chicago Stock Exchange and the Republic Building, which once was located across State Street from the Century Building and by architects Holabird & Roche, as well as others, whose demolition in the 1960s and 1970s, are a continuing painful loss and embarrassment to our City-- even decades later. These historic legacy buildings should not be squandered.

Each of these two early Chicago skyscraper buildings has great potential to be shining examples of Chicago's architectural legacy on the world's stage. Jan C.K. Anderson of US/ICOMOS, has assured us that the demolition of these two legacy buildings would completely undermine Chicago's chance of becoming a UNESCO World Heritage Site for its "Early Chicago Skyscrapers," or early tall buildings. Many of these early Chicago School of Architecture structures employ a metal frame, in order to allow for taller, more streamlined buildings, free of immense and heavy masonry walls, while offering more opportunities for engaging additional sunlight and fresh air in the age before the adoption of electricity and modern HVAC systems. This was a highly revolutionary and innovative method of construction, occurring and attributed to Chicago's ingenuity, in the last half of the 19th century and the first decades of the 20th century. We need the GSA and Federal Government to help support the preservation and reuse of these two structures and "do the right thing".

The potential loss of these historic skyscrapers and the UNESCO World Heritage Nomination, would be a tremendous opportunity lost for Chicago, its architectural and heritage tourism. This could represent potentially ten-of-millions of tourists and their dollars spent on hotels, restaurants and the support of our City's institutions and businesses.

So, the potential impact is substantial, and now is the time to reengage these buildings, restore them to their full beauty, which is evident in so many historical images. We've done such magnificent restorations in Chicago in the past, which have been the source of so many visitors to our City from around the world, which continue the story of Chicago's role in world architecture. From the Reliance Building, to the Marquette Building, Monadnock Building, Rookery, Auditorium Building/Roosevelt University, Carson, Pirie, Scott, Manhattan Building, Old Colony, Fisher Building and the list goes on. The Century and Consumers Buildings can also enjoy a renaissance as part of this Chicago legacy, if only the GSA and associated agencies and parties can come together to help to fund, what has continued to languish and deteriorate under their ownership and care over the past 17 years.

Past Promises, Inaction and Neglect:

For far too long, the GSA over the past 17 years has let these important buildings languish, with their original promise to restore and reengage these structures for Federal offices and Federal agencies unfulfilled. Time and time again that promise has been broken and unfulfilled, without appearing to address many of the substantial recommendations of the building reports that their own hired consultants have recommended. This includes the recommendation of such basics as caulking the terra cotta and exterior walls and windows, which to our understanding has not been performed since the 2015 engineering reports were completed and issued. It appears that we have a case of potential "demolition by neglect," which is illegal by City ordinance in Chicago. It's a disappointment and embarrassment to our nation, that these important Chicago School buildings, have been allowed to languish. Certainly, we can do better.

The determination that these buildings are a threat to the Chicago Federal Center is perhaps misjudged and somewhat random or arbitrary, as this determination does not account for the close proximity of other many nearby structures of approximately the same distance. This perceived random perception of potential threat could also extend to other nearby structures in the future, including the Citadel Building, completed after September 11th, 2001 and in 2003, the Chicago Landmark Marquette Building (1895), the Chicago Landmark Monadnock Building (1891) and other iconic and historic structures along Jackson Boulevard, Adams Street, Dearborn Street and State Street.

Where does one hold the line and consider a safe distance in an age of new technologies, drones and other devices? It would appear that the historic Century and Consumers Buildings would actually be "a shield" toward any perceived threats to the Dirksen Courthouse, as with the buildings lost, it would perhaps open a new vista and unprotected flank from State Street and many other vantage points. The need to demolish the buildings appears flawed and short-sided in so many ways.

The Century and Consumers Buildings and the Chicago Federal Center; Works of Art and Architecture:

In addition to the Century and Consumers Buildings being considered part of the Chicago School of Architecture, also known as the Chicago Commercial Style, and great works of art and architecture in their own right, the potential impact of their loss is also potentially disastrous to the design of the Chicago Federal Center by architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe.

Mies van der Rohe placed his three-building complex of the Chicago Federal Center in context to the built environment of the Loop and the buildings near the site. Mies had great admiration for the buildings of the Chicago School of Architecture. To further acknowledge this, his Federal Center Plaza opens to Holabird & Roche's Marquette Building on the north, the east façade of Kluczynski Federal Building, aligns with the eastern façade of the Monadnock Building by both Burnham & Root, and its southern addition by Holabird & Roche, along Dearborn Street. Of course, the same firm, Holabird & Roche, also designed the Century Building, which is under threat by the GSA's proposal to demolish structures near the Chicago Federal Center.

The principal and main entry to the Dirksen Courthouse Building of the Chicago Federal Center, by architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, was designed to be from State Street, via Quincy Court and into a small courtyard, and then into the courthouse building. Framing this main entry on State Street and Quincy was the Consumers Building by Jenney, Mundie & Jensen, currently under threat of demolition of the north side of Quincy Court. Also, the Art Deco/Art Moderne, Benson & Rixon Store, on the south side of Quincy Court, by noted architect, Alfred Alschuler, whose exterior principal façade should be restored, from a prior remodeling for a McDonald's fast-food restaurant.

Unfortunately, the once grand principal entry to the Dirksen Federal Center, marked by a freestanding monumental and monolithic granite stone plaque has been mostly obscured from the public, along with the beautifully-proportioned Mies van der Rohe east entry plaza to the Dirksen Courthouse. Both have been made inaccessible to most of the general public, serving as an alley, security buffer and parking lot, (when there's also a secured underground parking lot under the Chicago Federal Center) and this is a tremendously insensitive.

Quincy Court has essentially become a back alley for a security checkpoint, deliveries, and a surface parking lot, where once there was an inviting open public plaza. While security is recognized as a priority, the conversion of a main pedestrian entry and tree-lined plaza, by one of the greatest recognized architects of the 20th Century, to a surface parking lot and an overly secured zone is almost unfathomable. This insensitivity to the design of the Chicago Federal Center and the treatment of the important buildings that frame this grand entry has been severely compromised and represents an undermining of a great portion of the Chicago Federal Center.

Precedent and Impacts for the Century and Consumers Buildings in both Chicago and Across the Nation :

The ill-advised plan to simply eliminate and demolish what is perceived as the problem Century and Consumers Buildings is not a sensible, prudent or an acceptable idea to many members of the public or the taxpayers. The general public and members of the architecture and preservation communities were promised two restored Chicago School Buildings, cojoined by a new building that was to span between them. Such a plan would have given the GSA and Federal agencies the larger floor areas needed to compare with larger and newer structures.

The buildings were highlighted in the media at the time of their purchase by the GSA, as much needed office space, but that was and remains an unfulfilled promise. Over the past 17 years of GSA ownership, many other historic structures in the area have been revisioned, restored and reused. We are of the opinion that the GSA needs to reexamine its demolition plans, and fulfill its promise to the citizens of Chicago and the nation.

Demolition is not the answer, nor is a park or tiny plaza to fill the proposed vacant site, if the historic structures are demolished. That idea has failed in numerous instances on State Street and in the Loop with nearby Pritzker Park at State Street and Van Buren, just a few short blocks south of the Century and Consumers Buildings. Of course another prominent examples is the notorious Block 37, which was a 20-year eyesore on State Street, Washington, Randolph and Dearborn Streets.

Many successful projects along State Street, have embraced restoration of Chicago's legacy architecture, from Sullivan Center in the former Carson, Pirie, Scott Store, to the DePaul University Center, formerly the Goldblatt's/Davis/Rothschild Store, located nearby and the many former office and retail buildings repurposed.

The decision to potentially "sweep away" any problem buildings or structures that are not liked or appreciated by the GSA, may also set a dangerous precedent. This would be the case in not only in Downtown Chicago and for other landmark-quality buildings and our designated Chicago Landmarks, but perhaps across the nation. Such action would potentially be considered an act of unimageable consequences for our cities, our historic structures and our built environment. It has the potential to bring about enormous consequences and create a further divide among some of our nation's institutions.

Publicity and Impact of the Potential Demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings:

The recent Congressional earmark of $52 million dollars to destroy and demolish two historic Chicago School skyscraper buildings has generated much adverse publicity for the GSA and the associated agencies. Clearly, the GSA underestimated the general public's concern for these structures and the significance of this action, with the tremendous public and media response.

A Change.org petition started by Preservation Chicago to measure and estimate the public's concern, when the media reports of the $52 million dollar earmark to demolish the Century and Consumers Buildings was started. This was in response to so many individuals and citizens wanting to express their opinions on the proposed demolition of these wonderful buildings and at taxpayer expense. The Change.org petition resulted in over 32,000 signatures in support of preservation and a Chicago Landmark designation of the two structures—the Century and Consumers Buildings, from the Chicagoland area and extending across the nation.

A separate media story from London on "The B1M" on the story and potential demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings has generated over a million views worldwide, since its initial debut in summer of 2023, capturing close to half-a-million in its first few weeks. We at Preservation Chicago are of the opinion that this indicates incredible support for the preservation and restoration of these buildings, extending from across the nation and world. The impact of the potential demolition and loss of the Century and Consumers Buildings, would adversely and perhaps profoundly impact the GSA and Chicago, and every effort should be made to consider alternative options for avoidance and minimalization through a restoration and reuse program.

Security:

Security is a very understandable priority and many of us realize the challenges. However, these formerly occupied structures—four in total, which have been mostly mothballed, in which the GSA purchased, took off the tax rolls and left vacant, appears more of a potential threat, than what was lost by the acquisition of the structures.

Deliveries to the Berghoff Restaurant, which is perhaps also undermined by this proposal, is a much-loved institution continues through Quincy Court and an agreement, but those delivery and refuse trucks may be more impactful and perhaps more of a potential security breach than a solid reuse plan for the Century and Consumers Buildings.

We are of the opinion that with a correct reuse of the Consumers Building—the closest of the two historic structures, along with the Century Building, that all sorts of good synergies and outcomes can occur. A plan to embrace, restore and reuse these two historic early skyscrapers, and engage some recognized portions and storefront of the 212 S. State/"Robertos" Building, could be beneficial and being about a more highly secured area and zone around the Chicago Federal Center.

Potential Alternatives and Solutions:

Among potential solutions is for the GSA to restore and reuse these buildings for Federal agencies. Ironically, the FBI's headquarters on Roosevelt Road was constructed at about the same time the GSA was acquiring the Century and Consumers Building. This appeared to be a major expansion of Federal agencies in Chicago. However, the FBI could have easily moved into the Century and Consumers Buildings, especially with a "bridge building" to connect them. The decision was made to move elsewhere.

In the past there have been Requests for Proposals (RFPs) and equal, for a trade of services for these buildings, as well as plans developed and presented for a residential reuse. One of those residential reuse projects involved efforts by Preservation Chicago, after assurances were made that such plans could proceed. Much planning went into those proposals and then at what appeared to be the last minute, they were rejected for security reasons. So, there's been a sort of a "goal post," or threshold, which appears to keep moving. This has a tendency to relay mixed messages, which can appear to undermine these historic structures, by the GSA and related agencies, toward a demolition outcome.

There's a plan which has been underway to consider the Century and Consumers Buildings as a Collaborative Archives Center-CCAC. This new innovative concept and idea could bring about reuses to these buildings and resolve many issues and security concerns. The vision is that any windows or openings of concern could be blocked or sealed from the inside on the principal elevations, or from the outside on non-principal elevations—or the backside of the buildings. Further documents and studies need to be conducted, along with evaluations, but security would be of the highest priority. Such an archive could house collections from across the county, including Federal and municipal documents and to date, we have a variety of Religious Orders that are interested in bringing their collections to Chicago and making it a national center. However, we want this to be a collaborative archive, research center and with vetted and secured access, with reservations for visitors and scholars. Our university base of institutions in Chicago could be a magnet for such a reuse vision.

In closing, we at Preservation Chicago appreciate the opportunity to continue to share our candid and straight-forward views on the potential action and $52 million dollar taxpayer expenditure to propose the demolition of two amazing historic early Chicago School Buildings. We are of the opinion that the $52 million dollar expenditure could be wisely spent to restore and revision these buildings, rather than both harm two works of art and architecture, in addition to harming Mies van der Rohe's legacy Chicago Federal Center. We have the support of many people that wish these buildings to remain and be restored, given Chicago Landmark Status and repurposed, by the GSA or others. We at Preservation Chicago are here to help and assist, as needed and want to be your partners in envisioning better options than demolition.

Let's encourage a partnership with the GSA, to continue ownership of the exterior terra cotta structures, while engaging in a revisioning of these important and historic Chicago School structures, with the larger community and arrive at a preservation-sensitive outcome.

We a Preservation Chicago would also request to be part of the upcoming Public Scoping meetings and discussions, as well as a "Consulting Party in the Federal Section 106 Hearings.

Thank you for your consideration of these ideas and suggestions and we continue to be available to discuss preservation options and visions for the 200 block of South State Street in Downtown Chicago.

Sincerely,

Ward Miller

Dear Mr. Mulligan,

RE: EIS Public Scoping Meeting, November 10, 2022,
Concerning 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street, including Century and Consumers Buildings

The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC) asks to be a consulting party in the process as an organization with demonstrated interest in the undertaking or the affected historic properties.

Please add us to the email distribution for the EIS.

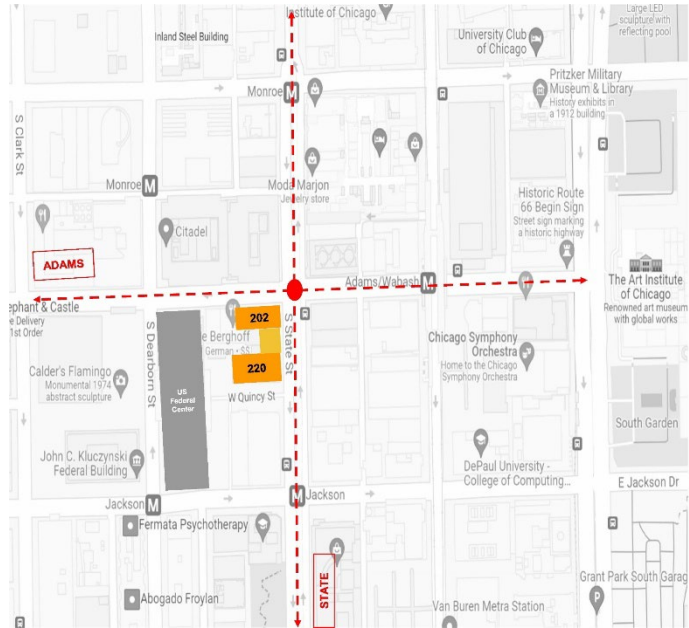

General Services Administration (GSA), Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) - Purpose: To address the future of the four buildings at 202, 208-212, 214, and 220 South State Street adjacent to the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse in downtown Chicago, Illinois. These four buildings are in the Loop Retail Historic District listing in the National Register of Historic Places. Two of the buildings, the Century Building at 202 South State Street and the Consumers building at 220 South State Street are contributing elements to the historic district.

*This statement and supporting documents are also to be part of these buildings review in accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) Section 106 process and (36 CFR 800.2).

IMPACTS to be noted and addressed in the EIS:

Members of Board of Directors for the CCAC spoke at the public hearing on November 10, 2022, to include Malachy McCarthy, Holly Fiedler, and Ward Miller. The CCAC would note that additional impact considerations relevant to Chicago Architectural History were emailed by Preservation Chicago as well as historians Rolf Achilles and Kevin Harrington.

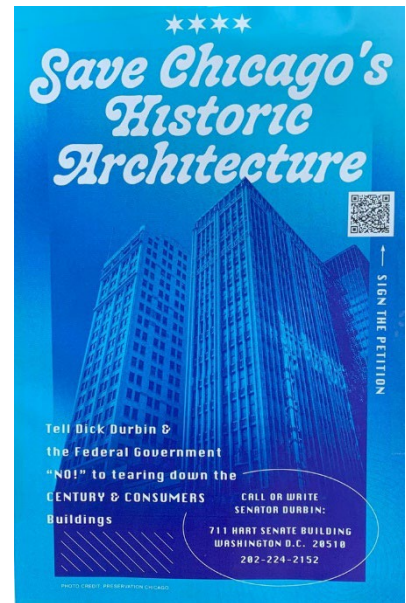

The Century and Consumers buildings are part of Chicago's architectural legacy. Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, designed the Chicago Federal Center, including the Dirksen Courthouse with the built environment in mind, this included the Century and Consumers built by his predecessors. In relation to these buildings are two features which contribute to the original and ongoing importance of the State Street and Quincy Court original entrance area. First is the Sol LeWitt public art wall piece facing the Dirksen entrance on Quincy that the GSA commissioned. The blank wall facing the Dirksen Building was thought a suitable place for a large art piece, and Sol LeWitt was the chosen artist. Officially located at 10 W. Jackson, the work is titled Lines in Four Directions and dates from 1976. It is hardly ever noticed now because of the re-configuration of the State Street and Quincy Court entrance. Secondly, at ground level between the Dirksen Building and Century Building stand a couple of tan brick and steel I-beam walls hiding utility equipment. These walls are superbly proportioned to the perfectly spaced mortar and bricks in the Mies style of the 1960s to 1990s. These are the only such walls in the Loop and are totally unknown because of the security complexities that protect them.

In 2017, leading members of Chicago's architecture and preservation community united to nominate nine "Early Chicago Skyscrapers," in downtown Chicago to become a UNESCO World Heritage site. The list originally included additional important buildings for this esteemed honor, but lacking owner consent, were passed over for inclusion in this initial grouping. It noted at the time of the nomination that additional buildings would likely be added in the future, including a number of Chicago School of Architecture/Chicago Commercial Style buildings. The Century and Consumers Buildings are strong candidates to include in the "Early Chicago Skyscrapers" UNESCO World Heritage site in the future. Jan C.K. Anderson of US/ICOMOS informed Preservation Chicago that the potential demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings would almost certainly disqualify Chicago from achieving the distinguished honor, joining historic structures on the world stage. The potential loss of the "Early Chicago Skyscrapers" as a UNESCO World Heritage site would result in the loss of tens-of-thousands of heritage tourists and millions of dollars to the Chicago and region's economy each year. This would be a tremendous and unfortunate loss on so many levels to include future economic potential for the city through tourism and potential revitalization projects through historic and cultural avenues.

Demolition of these buildings would be a dis-service to the history of Chicago Architecture, loss to the downtown economy, and future positive endeavors. Other public impacts statements offered November 10th included environmental impacts and landfill issues related to the potential demolition of these buildings.

The community has expressed concern which is evidenced in extensive media coverage. There have been at least twenty-five articles published concerning these buildings within this year alone. A Change.org petition which has garnered over 23,250 signatures and a ten-minute B1M video produced in London, England by B1M, released July 13th which has been viewed by over 1,112,030 individuals. (See the below list of Attachments for accumulated media links.) Locally, an independent group interested in Chicago architecture has also been posting notices throughout the city encouraging the public to write letters to Senator Dick Durbin and sign the Change.org petitions. (See image on the right.)

ALTERNATIVE to be noted in the EIS: Chicago Collaborative Archive Center - CCAC

The CCAC is offering a vision for a positive alternative that would restore the existing buildings and meet the federal security needs.

Collaborative archives are a way to efficiently combine historical collections. Several groups and individuals have been discussing the development of an innovative multi-faceted archival center in downtown Chicago since the summer of 2020. These Include: Preservation Chicago, Archival Resources for Catholic Collections, Dominican University's Mary Nona McGreal Center, and religious archivists from several congregations. The Century and Consumers Buildings have been vacant for about two decades due to their proximity to the Dirksen Federal Court building. Proposals for residential use or commercial development of this site has been prohibited due to the need of maintaining a secure perimeter for the federal complex. The four buildings (202-220 S. State St.) would serve the purpose of an archival center very well and meet the security needs for the courthouse. Ward Miller, Director of Preservation Chicago has discussed the matter with the City of Chicago, and they appear to be receptive to developing these buildings into an archives center. The Franciscan Central Archive and Order of Franciscan Minor – 6 USA Provinces are two archival groups interested in being part members of this collaborative archive. The CCAC vision is to develop this property into an archive center open to all. December 10, 2021 was the initial discussion with presentations for interested parties.

The CCAC Board of Directors consists of Ward Miller, Director of Preservation Chicago; Malachy McCarthy, past Province Archivist of the Claretian Missionaries Archives United States-Canada, and Coordinator of the Archival Resources for Catholic Collections (ARCC); Christopher Allison, Director of the Mary Nona McGreal Center for Dominican Studies at Dominican University; Sister Mary Navarre OP, Director of Archives of the Dominican Sisters of Grand Rapids; and Holly Fiedler, Archivist for the Sisters of St. Francis of Penance and Christian Charity Sacred Heart

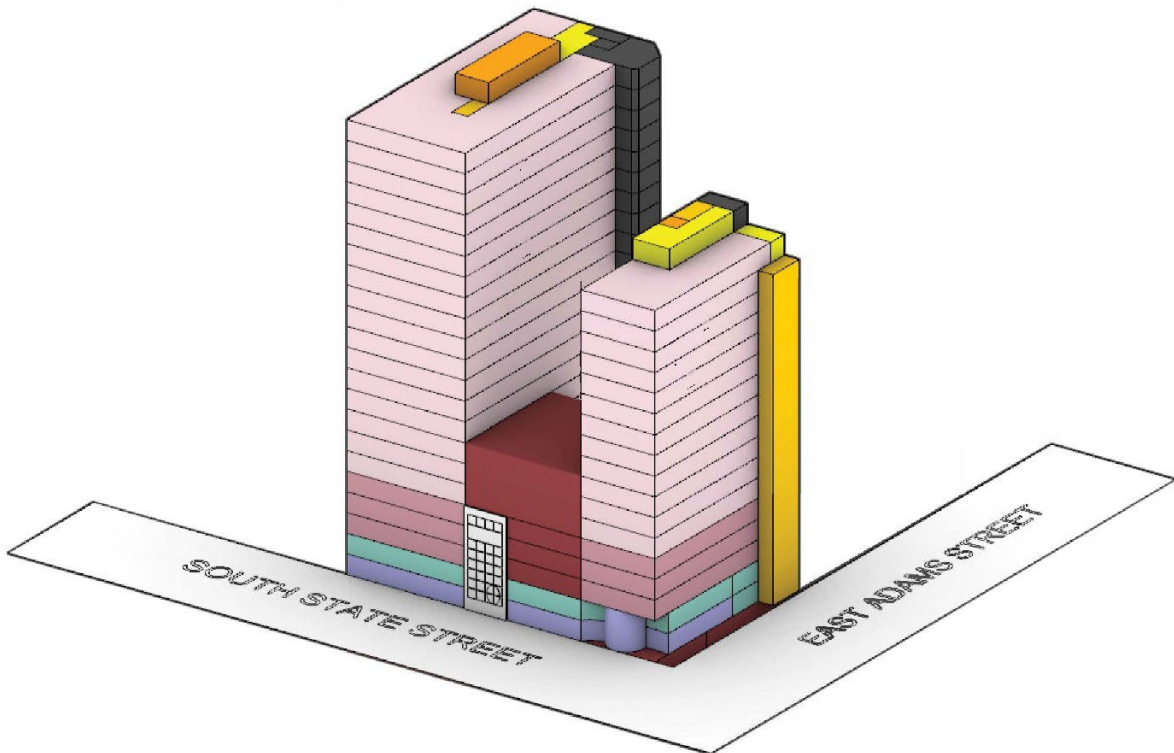

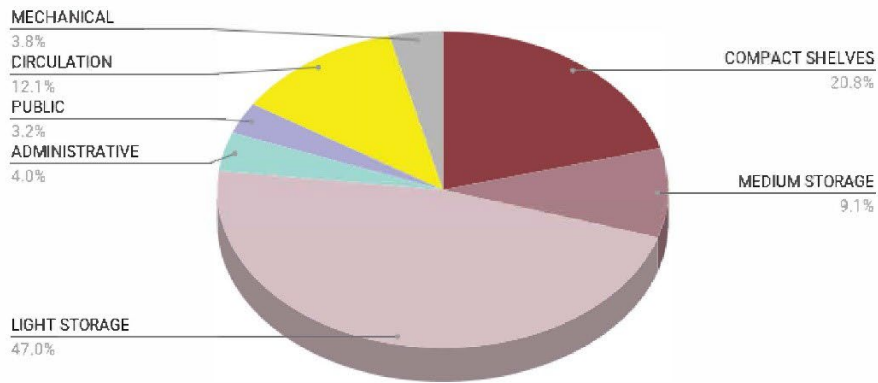

Community and member of the Franciscan Central Archive (FCA) Working Group. The CCAC is incorporated as a nonprofit through the State of Illinois and in the process of filing the 501(c)3, drafting bylaws, as well business and strategic plans.

The CCAC mission statement: The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC) is an organization committed to identify and purchase building(s) to create a collaborative archive in the Chicago area. The CACC Board would be responsible for managing, ensuring integrity, and safeguarding the operation in perpetuity. This shared archival facility creates an economy of scale, professional interaction, and central repository for scholars. The urgency of this critical need is underscored by the closure and/or merger of many religious communities and other associations.

The CCAC is proposing a national archive center that would employ archival standards to preserve unique and irreplaceable collections. Structurally, archival storage would be assigned the largest area of the buildings. Requiring limited light and 24-hour climate-control, it is desired for storage to have a closed environment. This allows for the west walls facing the Federal Center to be sealed as necessary. Any windows of concern from the Quincy Court elevation façade could be sealed from the interior. This would retain the look and appearance of the buildings, especially the Consumers Building, from the street. In addition to the religious archives being proposed, the CCAC is reaching out to civic archive centers who may have a need for space in these remarkable buildings.

Similar to the GSA, security is of the highest concerns to the members of the CCAC partnership whose collections contain unique and irreplaceable documents. We believe that a limited vetted staff, perhaps 20 to 30 people would be at the site and coordinate a central reading room for the structure. Each visitor would make a reservation, pass security checks, and be escorted up to individually locked floors and collections, via elevator. The CCAC buildings would require multi-layer access control, security personnel, surveillance security systems, scaled zones of security throughout the buildings, security policies, incident response plan, as well as limited staff with board approval and security clearances. The CCAC is committed to work with the GSA to find the best possible security for the site. We would also welcome the GSA as a partner and, if desired, the GSA could have a security center located in the base of the Consumers Building, perhaps occupying much of the first floor fronting Quincy Court. This would help to ensure that both the collections as well as the nearby Chicago Federal Center are secure at all times.

The CCAC has been taking steps to understand what would be necessary to preserve and transform these buildings into an archive center. Over the winter and spring, the CCAC has held meetings with architects, engineers, and interested parties. Meg Kindelin, President of Johnson Lasky Kindelin, JKL Architects has been an active participant and cheerleader of this vision. Her company has the most current and accurate plans of the Century and Consumers' Building (202 and 220 S. State Street) and have been working with the GSA, over the past several years. Of note, one of their more recent clients has been the University of Illinois for their rare book collections and archives. She introduced the CCAC to engineers that have expertise with historic buildings within Chicago and have spoken to the CCAC of possible factors and concerns.

With a project such as this, it is important to mention some of the advocacy efforts of the CCAC that have occurred over this year. Ward Miller has had multiple conversations and emails with state and city officials. Mary Navarre, OP spoke at her Leadership Conference of Women Religious (LCWR) Region VII meeting of the CCAC developments. Malachy McCarthy and Chris Allison held conversations with interested parties at the 12th Triennial Conference on the History of Women Religious at the end of June. July 20th, Malachy McCarthy spoke to Dominican communities. He also has had discussions with Sister Sue Durkin, OSU, of the WRAC (Women Religious Archive

Collaborative, Cleveland, Ohio) and Hilton Foundation as well as with Sister Ginger Downey, OLVM, of the HARC (Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's College, Indiana). This has led to shared presentations, and publication of an article for the Society of American Archivists (SAA) Outlook concerning collaborative archives. All members of the CCAC have given various presentations and held meetings over the year. (See the below list of Attachments for SAA Outlook article and related press materials.)

The members of the CCAC would solicit initial funds towards the endeavor as well as partners and investors. CCAC will also be securing funds from foundations through grants, this will include the Hilton and Lily Foundations. In 2023, the CCAC intends to apply for a planning grant which could include business and strategic planning, assessment of how to assist moving collections to the center, assisting communities and collaboratives in jeopardy, and creation of a website. A second grant for implementation would help facilitate the creation of an endowment, hiring a firm to create a communications plan and initiate a capital campaign. Shortly following this the CCAC will initiate a development department that can continue programming, fundraising, etc.

It is also worth noting that the CCAC has made contact with a foundation which has an associated archive needing a new home with local roots to Chicago and would also be a future investor. This is very exciting and the CCAC would be fortunate to have this archive be part of its collaborative repository.

The CCAC has met with a tax attorney to discuss the Century and Consumers buildings (202 and 220 S. State St.) and how historic tax credits work at both the federal and state as well as with 501(c)3 nonprofit. This attorney has experience with past projects, including with JLK Architects, the state historic preservation office, and GSA, etc. The Century and Consumers buildings would qualify for federal historic tax credits. It is believed that this attorney would be an asset in this endeavor and partner well with JLK Architects.

In the beginning of 2022, the CCAC became aware of a federal infrastructure bill, passed by Congress in March 2022, which include $52 million for the demolition of the Century and Consumers buildings.

March 9, 2022, Preservation Chicago announced the Century and Consumers buildings as their top candidate for the Chicago Seven Most Endangered Buildings. These buildings have been part of Preservation Chicago's most endangered list since 2011.

March 29, 2022, the City of Chicago, Department of Planning and Development, Program Committee of the Commission on Chicago Landmarks held a virtual meeting to receive requests for Chicago Landmark designations. Ward Miller, Director of Preservation Chicago and member of the CCAC Working Group, presented the Century and Consumers buildings (202 and 220 S. State St.) for consideration. Malachy McCarthy, Coordinator of the ARCC and member of the CCAC Working Group, as well as Holly Fiedler, member of the FCA and CCAC, spoke in support for the Chicago Landmark designation.

March 31, 2022, Landmarks Illinois, Preservation Chicago, and the National Trust for Historic Preservation sent a joint letter to federal administration calling on the agency to preserve the buildings. Communications have been sent back and forth with the inclusion of other constituents.

April 20, 2022, Landmarks Illinois announced the Century and Consumers building as their 2022 most endangered in Illinois.

May 4, 2022, the CCAC sent an email to Regina Nally and Robert Theel of the GSA, Subject: 202 and 220 S. State St. – Century and Consumers Buildings, concerning the proposed vision of the CCAC. This started correspondence between the GSA and CCAC.

May 18, 2022, the CCAC held a press conference in Chicago. Malachy McCarthy gave introductions and spoke on religious archives, as well as consolidated and collaborative archives. Ward Miller spoke on the history and importance of the buildings and steps being taken by Preservation Chicago and others to save the buildings. Meg Kindelin, President of Johnson Lasky Kindelin (JKL) Architects spoke of her review of the buildings and potential use plans. Holly Fiedler presented the Franciscan Central Archive (FCA) Initiative as example of a religious archive endeavor and benefits seen to be part of the CCAC. Chris Allison spoke of the urgency of religious communities to find an archival repository for their collections as they reach completion of their congregation within the next few years. All agree that this is most feasible through a collaborative archive center. (See the below list of Attachments for links related to the press conference.)

July 7, 2022, the Commission on Chicago Landmarks held a meeting. The above mentioned spoke in support of preliminary landmark status for the buildings. Evidence was submitted to Chicago Landmarks in support of the Century and Consumers buildings. It can be found by following this link for the Commission on Chicago Landmarks, July Comments:

https://www.chicago.gov/city/en/depts/dcd/supp_info/landmarks_commission.html

In ongoing correspondence with the GSA, the CCAC sent an email and mailed hardcopy to Regina Nally and Robert Theel of the GSA on July 18, 2022. In that letter the CCAC asked to be part of upcoming meetings concerning the buildings, our desire to participate for formal consideration, and reaffirmed our commitment to work with the GSA.

September 8, 2022, Chicago Landmarks recommended both buildings for preliminary landmark status. A presentation on the buildings was given and it was recommended that a report and/or statement be created.

The CCAC has had further communications with GSA, federal and local officials. The result of which have been two previous meetings at the Dirksen U. S. Courthouse with federal representatives, members of the CCAC, as well as Joe Mulligan on September 12 and October 25, 2022. These meetings discussed the security, integrity, and historic value of the buildings; perceived and preferred limitations on the buildings; viable options and partners; as well as the CCAC vision to use the buildings for an archival center. The need for updated structural engineering evaluation and reports of the buildings is needed. Access to the buildings for evaluations is necessary. Both these meetings have had related conversation and correspondence of value to this process.

The CCAC was able to review two reports of 202 and 220 S. State St. concerning the terracotta facades, dated February 23, 2022. Each report had a section dedicated to Temporary Stabilization Repairs, that primarily involved removal of some terracotta, installation of temporary mesh, use of joint sealant and/or mortar as well as plywood. Each report also included extensive Recommendations for repairs. However, there was no supporting evidence of making these repairs. Did any of these repairs occur? If so, what were they and are there reports of such?

The CCAC stresses that it is vital that access to the buildings be made possible and that updated structural evaluations be performed and reports be written. It was indicated in the September meeting with Joseph Mulligan that this should be possible and paid for by the GSA. The CCAC would ask to be kept apprised of this progress, be allowed to have access to the buildings, and informed when the structural evaluation will be performed and receive a copy of the reports upon completion.

It is recognized that Congress has appropriated funds for demolition * for all four buildings. According to the GSA [Notice-PBS2-22-06; Docket No. 2022-0002, Sequence No.26], “The funds appropriated by Congress are available only for demolition, securing the site, and landscaping the vacant site following demolition. The proposed action includes protection of adjacent properties during demolition, securing the vacant site of the demolished buildings and landscaping of the vacant site following demolition.” Joseph Mulligan had indicated to members of the CCAC that those funds could also be used in the alternative vision for the archives center as any exterior or interior demolition prior to restoration or construction.

*We ask that the language for the appropriated funds be altered to also include “and/or restoration” for all four buildings. It is indicated under National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) Procedures, Environmental Impact Statements (39 CFR 775.11) that “Proposals for Legislation” are possible.

The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC) thanks you and the GSA for their considerable review of these four buildings, 202-220 South State Street, and asks to be a consulting party in the process as an organization with demonstrated interest in the undertaking or the affected historic properties. We look forward to future discussions.

CCAC

Chicago Collaborative Archive Center

Preservation Chicago, Dominican University, and members of the Archival Resources for Religious Collections are exploring a sustainable multi-repository archive center in the downtown South Loop. The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC) would house collections from various groups providing preservation in perpetuity. The CCAC would have a Board of Directors and operate under a 501(c)(3). At the moment, the CCAC has interest from the following archival groups:

- Franciscan Central Archives
- Order of Franciscan Minor, 6 USA provinces
- McGreal Center for Dominican Historical Studies

These two remarkable buildings, the 16-story Century Building by Holabird & Roche (1915) and the 22-story Consumers Building by Jenney, Mundie & Jensen (1913), were once principally occupied by small businesses, attorney offices and showrooms. Due to their proximity to the courthouse and courtrooms in the adjacent federal courthouse, the General Services Administration (GSA) exercised its power of eminent domain in 2005 to take control of these State Street buildings based on increased security fears following the events of September 11, 2001. Since that acquisition by the GSA, the buildings have been stable but slowly deteriorating due to deferred maintenance and vacancy.

Both Preservation Chicago and Landmarks Illinois listed the buildings on their most endangered lists in 2022 and in previous years. The federal government has budgeted a $52 million expenditure in the Federal Infrastructure Bill, currently before Congress, specifically for the demolition of the Century and Consumers Buildings. The decades-long advocacy efforts to save these significant buildings is therefore reaching a critical stage. “We are building great momentum on a plan for reuse for these extraordinary buildings,” said Ward Miller, Executive Director of Preservation Chicago. “Our challenge now is to stop the federal wheels of demolition motion and steer toward a viable reuse.”

The CCAC is proposing a national archive center that would employ archival standards to preserve unique and irreplaceable collections. Structurally, archival storage would be assigned the largest area of the buildings. Requiring limited light and a 24-hour climate-controlled environment, it is desired for storage to have a closed environment. This allows for the west walls facing the Federal Center to be sealed from the interior-side of the structures. This would retain the look and appearance of the buildings, especially the Consumers Building, from the street. The collaborative is also encouraging the GSA/Federal Government to partner on this effort, perhaps by continuing to own the exterior skin: walls, terra cotta, and windows of the buildings. Such a plan would allow the GSA to exercise total control of the perimeter and the windows, including those that need to be permanently blocked from the interior side on principal elevations. In addition to the religious archives being proposed, the collaborative is reaching out to civic archive centers who may have a need for space in these remarkable buildings.

This vision has been brought together by the CCAC as well as Ward Miller, Executive Director of Preservation Chicago; JLK Architects, a Chicago woman-owned architectural firm led by Meg Kindelin that has collaborated with the GSA; and Thornton Tomasetti, a structural engineering firm with extensive experience in adaptive reuse projects of historic skyscrapers with this type of age and construction. Together we have had multiple meetings to review and discuss architectural and structural possibilities.

The goal would be to have the archive center operational within 5 years. Costs are a challenge. The CCAC would apply for a planning grant which could include business and strategic planning, assessment of how to assist moving collections to the center, assisting communities and collaboratives in jeopardy, and creation of a website. Then CCAC would apply for an implementation grant to help facilitate the creation of an endowment, as well as hiring a firm to create a communications plan and capital campaign. The CCAC would be taking advantage of federal tax credits.

“There is strength in a collaborative archive. The value of the individual collections within such a repository are increased by the presence of the others,” said Holly Fiedler, Province Archivist, Sisters of St. Francis, Sacred Heart Province. “There are certainly many challenges in making this vision a reality, but we are taking actionable steps forward to achieve the ultimate goal.”

The various archives that would use this building would share staffing and leasing costs. Security would be paramount in this endeavor. The Center would have less than 30 employees and visitors would require reservations. The buildings would require multi-layer access control, surveillance security systems, and scaled zones of security throughout with each floor being locked and secured. There is proposed a central research room, perhaps on the first or second floor. The security team would be at the base entry to the building.

Classrooms, lecture hall, and exhibit space would be on the lower levels, face State and Adams Streets with fixed hours, and have appropriate security monitoring. Possible commercial space could be in the Century building, facing State and Adams Streets, and be on the ground floor with fixed hours of operation.

“A collaborative archive of this proposed size is rare in the country,” said Christopher Allison, a historian and Director of the McGreal Center at Dominican University. “It would become a major hub for archive-based research, and would consolidate precious sources in one space.” Allison also said that it would add to the rich educational resources of the Loop. “Our Graduate School of Information Studies could be a productive presence in the building, providing not only classes but also hands-on internships and employment for future professionals.” There are multiple other universities within the downtown area who would find value in the CCAC through research, program development, and other opportunities.

“As members of the collaborative keep exploring this archives option, we are even more convinced this is the best solution – both for the city and these buildings,” said Malachy McCarthy, Province Archivist for the Claretian Missionaries Archives USA-Canada. “It fulfills the security needs of the central government, and it could be a home for historic archive collections with no place to go.”

The creation of a collaborative archive in the heart of downtown enhances Chicago’s reputation as a learning and resource center. The Society of American Archivists and the American Library Association are headquartered in Chicago. The city’s academic institutions and the welcoming of outside scholars have made Chicago one of the most documented cities in the United States. The CCAC provides the city and region a unique opportunity to create a new research center model where scholars could find a multiplicity of collections in one block, with a short elevator ride the only barrier in the broadening of our understanding of the world.

THREE COLLABORATIONS IN CATHOLIC RELIGIOUS ARCHIVES

Sr. Ginger Downey, The Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's; Sr. Susan Durkin, Women Religious Archives Collaborative; and Malachy McCarthy, Claretian Missionaries USA Canada

Collaborative archives—the practice of several institutions working together to build a repository—provides a means to efficiently support several archival collections, foster professional interaction among archivists, develop a shared set of services, access climate-controlled storage areas, and numerous other benefits to which a solo archives might not have access.

The advantages are immense, and the practice is gaining momentum, perhaps nowhere more so than in the religious realm. Catholic communities and religious orders especially have experienced an increase in the creation of new community archives. Collaboration among repositories is an obvious choice as many of these collections have not been professionally managed. The stories in these archives—primary source documentation on immigrants in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries; rural, urban, and working-class experiences; and the development of educational, medical, and charitable institutions—represent “hidden” collections that can shed light on the varied service of these communities and provide scholars with valuable resources.

Here are three significant and exciting initiatives underway in the religious archives community.

The Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's

Catholic congregations face many difficult issues, a significant one being the decline and aging of their membership. This in turn raises the issue of the continued care of their congregational archives. In spring 2018, the Sisters of the Holy Cross in Notre Dame, Indiana, invited archivists and members of leadership from congregations in the Midwest to imagine possible ways that they could care for their archives into the future. The Heritage and Research Center at Saint Mary's (HARC) was the fruit of this dreaming.

HARC is a collaboration of nine congregations working to build one repository to house all their archives. This ensures that after a congregation is no longer able to provide for its archives, there will be archivists to care for it in perpetuity and provide access to those wishing to use the archives for research. In addition, HARC will create an exhibit space to share the history of each congregation. This space will be interactive, with transitional exhibits curated around themes and different aspects of the lives of women religious. The nine congregations are initially supporting this endeavor through endowments, grants, and other funding sources to ensure sustainability. This exciting project will preserve not only the stories of these congregations, but also the broader story of women religious in the United States and beyond.

Women Religious Archives Collaborative

The 2018 Boston Conference entitled “Envisioning the Future of Catholic Religious Archives” inspired twelve congregations of various charisms to form the Women Religious Archives Collaborative (WRAC) in Ohio. WRAC continues to seek out interested congregations to join the collaborative and plans to expand its space to accommodate additional congregations and current and future collection development.

WRAC is in the process of vetting a location for the facility in Northeast Ohio. As a tax-exempt corporation, WRAC has elected a board of directors and appointed an executive director. Several committees have also formed, comprised of religious and lay members with expertise in fund development, communications, design and construction planning, and programming, and each participating congregation has appointed a liaison to the project. WRAC's lead archivist is working with an archivists committee to assess collections and provide support and additional expertise to congregations.

WRAC seeks to provide space for congregational collections and to process and preserve these collections. The collaborative will employ professional archival staff and welcome interns to work with collections. WRAC is beginning work on the legal agreements with congregations and on the policies and procedures for its facility, which will include storage space and display areas for artifacts and a large, dynamic space for presentations and programs.

As congregations have limited resources, WRAC seeks to make the space affordable. Participating congregations have provided initial fundraising support and will include endowment support as a part of their congregational legacy planning. WRAC will utilize grant funding and initiate a capital campaign to construct and endow the space in perpetuity.

The Chicago Collaborative Archive Center

Once again building upon the influential 2018 “Envisioning the Future of Catholic Religious Archives” conference, a group of archivists established the Chicago Collaborative Archive Center (CCAC). Unlike HARC and WRAC, CCAC welcomes archives from male and female

Christian: How can archivists develop their visual literacy to better appraise, describe, and provide access to born-digital design records? What other skill sets do archivists need to successfully manage born-digital design records?

Leventhal: Our profession will need to develop digital visual literacy in addition to visual literacy. The former requires a more explicit acknowledgment of and familiarity with tools, the technical functionality of digital tools, and communication of design intent, as well as the expected visual experience. Digital visual literacy requires an awareness of the modern design process and changes in practice and, often, an understanding of the broader economic and technological conditions to contextualize the climate in which the work was being done. For example, a recession could decrease architectural projects, resulting in practitioners not updating their software suite for several years as a costs-saving measure. Or software developed in a related discipline like animation might be adopted by designers making simulated walkthroughs of a proposed design.

Christian: You've contributed both to an SAA book and American Archivist articles. What advice do you have for anyone wishing to write for SAA?

Leventhal: If you see a gap in the literature, do not wait for an invitation. Please write about that missing conversation. Don't be deterred by the timeline from initial draft to publication, which often helps to make the final product better. Ask all the questions you have. It can be an intimidating to get started, but not knowing part of the process shouldn't be the reason to stop helpful observations or innovations from being shared in these publications. ■ congregations, various denominations, and secular and nonreligious archives. Also different from other efforts, the CCAC merges urban historic preservation with archives. The CCAC Working Group envisions its physical center to be managed by a board. Besides offering a shared space in a secure site, CCAC hopes that its center can provide other dedicated services, such as a digitization facility, an oversize storage area for artwork and other archival materials, a conservation center, an exhibit space, an auditorium, and street-level businesses enhancing the CCAC's mission. It would be a one-stop shop where congregational members could have specialized tasks done at a reduced rate with the same services offered to the general public at a higher fee to generate revenue and help sustain CCAC.

Assisted by the executive director of Preservation Chicago, CCAC is searching for suitable properties and is considering a building in the downtown area adjacent to several university and college campuses, which would facilitate interaction with academic institutions, and near a variety of transportation hubs, which would provide easy staff and user access. The building would be renovated to comply with archival standards for climate-controlled storage.

CCAC is still very much in its formative stage. The Working Group is in the process of filing Articles of Incorporation as a nonprofit with the State of Illinois, then will file for 501(c)(3) status. Members are also in discussions to form a Board of Directors and draft bylaws. Implementation grants, capital campaign, and future endowments will be paramount to CCAC's success. Regardless

if this specific physical site proceeds, the CCAC Working Group is committed to establishing some type of collaborative archives within Chicago.

Starting with a Clear Plan

All three of these initiatives face the challenge of long-term sustainability, not just for the many collections they house but for the collaborative itself. It is imperative that a collaborative archives has a strong board to manage the facility and a clear development program to implement immediately. In addition to managing each collective's current collections, the board must be ready to grow to take on the completed collections from additional community archives.

Another initial challenge is for the collaborative archives to establish a minimum level of archival processing. This will allow the collaborative to understand incoming collections and to improve the collection's description and access. Each of these centers needs to develop clear policies outlining the responsibilities of all parties. For example, will a new collection be managed by its own archival staff, or will the center establish a team of professionals to manage the collection?

With these considerations in mind, collaborative archives offer an innovative approach for organizations and communities with uncertain futures. By merging archival collections, small- and medium-size archives can obtain services that might otherwise be out of reach. Combining the efforts of participating members and a board to oversee, fund, and protect the collaborative, professional archivists can manage collections, employ shared IT professionals, initiate archival cloud storage, and launch a communal content management system. A shared website with portals to digitized collections and finding aids encourages researchers to access these valuable collections more readily. Ultimately, the benefits of collaboration mean that the stories and service of these small religious orders and communities—much of which has shaped our broader national history—will be preserved for future generations. ■

Joseph Mulligan
U.S. General Services Administration

Dear Mr. Mulligan:

I'm submitting this letter both as a resident of downtown Chicago and as a board member of Friends of Downtown. The proposed demolition of the historic buildings at 202 and 220 South State Street is concerning to me and some of my fellow board members for several reasons.

First, preserving Chicago's history is important, and these properties are a significant part of that history. The Century and Consumers Buildings were constructed in 1915 and 1913, respectively. They have architectural significance, both because of the renowned firms that designed them and because of the Chicago School style they represent.

Second, these two buildings are a prominent part of Chicago's Loop Retail Historic District, which is on the National Register of Historic Places. Demolishing them would be a great loss and create a marked hole in this important section of State Street.

Third, while $52 Million dollars has been earmarked for the demolition of these two properties, along with the properties between them, this is a poor use of our federal tax dollars. Instead of demolishing historic structures and leaving nothing but a vacant lot, both these buildings and the nearby existing federal buildings could be improved, in order to alleviate security concerns.

Finally, a major demolition in this densely developed urban area would have negative environmental impacts. While Chicago has been no stranger to new construction in the name of economic development, the leveling of these historic properties is not in anyone's interest, in part because of the demolition's negative impact on the surrounding environment.

The Century Building and the Consumers Building should be preserved, and, if possible, repurposed, as government office space, as archival storage (such as the proposed Chicago Archive Center), or with some other creative use. The adaptive reuse of these two historic properties would be ideal, and the Century and Consumers Buildings should be maintained and not allowed to further deteriorate, until such adaptive reuse occurs.

Thank you for your consideration of these comments.

Sincerely,
Dora J. Moore

These buildings are historically and estetically significant to the neighborhood where they stand. Removing them would cost as much as simply renovating and the government have never put forward a valid reason to remove them. Vague allusions to security when countless other government buildings exist throughout the city and other cities are obscure. These buildings should stay! The lack of meaningful community input and transparency in this process is embarrassing. These buildings should stay! Sent from my iPhone

Re: Scoping Comments on the Four Buildings at 202, 208–212, 214 and 220 South State Street Project, City of Chicago, Cook County, Illinois

Dear Mr. Mulligan:

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has reviewed the November 1, 2022, Notice of Intent (NOI) To Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) and Initiate Section 106 Consultation for the project referenced above. Our comments are provided pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), the Council on Environmental Quality's NEPA Implementing Regulations (40 CFR Parts 1500-1508), and Section 309 of the Clean Air Act. The U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) is the lead agency under NEPA.

The project area includes four buildings on South State Street between Adams Street and Jackson Boulevard, adjacent to the Dirksen Federal Courthouse in Chicago's South Loop, downtown Chicago. Buildings reside in the Loop Retail Historic District listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Two of the four buildings, the Century Building (202 State Street) and the Consumers Building (220 South State Street) are identified as contributing structures to the historic district. The NOI states that the project purpose is to (1) address the potential security vulnerabilities associated with the buildings, (2) respond to the passing of the 2022 Consolidated Appropriations Act, which calls for the demolition of these buildings, and (3) effectively manage federal property. Enclosed please find EPA's detailed scoping comments, with recommendations on (1) the project description, purpose, need, and range of alternatives, (2) hazardous materials releases during demolition, (3) air quality, (4) children's health and safety, (5) historic preservation and tribal resources, (6) noise and vibrations, (7) environmental justice and community impacts, and (8) climate change.

Thank you for the opportunity to review this project. The National Archives and Records Administration and the Office of Management and Budget have mandated that Federal agencies transition business processes and recordkeeping to fully electronic environments. Please help achieve this goal by refraining from mailing paper materials to EPA. When the Draft EIS becomes available, please send an electronic copy to Jen Tyler, the lead reviewer for this project, at tyler.jennifer@epa.gov. Ms. Tyler is available at (312) 886-6394 if you wish to discuss EPA's comments.

Project Description, Purpose, Need, and Alternatives

Disclosing the project's purpose and need, and thereby allowing commenters to understand the root need that the project seeks to fulfill, may allow commenters to recommend additional feasible action alternatives.

Recommendations for the Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS):

- Describe all elements of the proposed project and alternatives. For any proposed demolition, describe methods that would be employed and logistics of removing materials from the site. Describe plans for the site after demolition is complete (i.e., what would be left on the properties, what would the appearance be from State Street, etc.). Consider the potential for lag time prior to redevelopment.
- Include a Purpose and Need Statement that meets the requirements of the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for Implementing NEPA (40 CFR § 1502.13). Ensure that the Purpose and Need Statement is broad enough to allow for a reasonable range of alternatives.
- Evaluate all reasonable alternatives, in line with the CEQ NEPA Regulations (40 CFR § 1502.14).
- Describe how the proposed project aligns with local and regional plans and policies.
- Discuss whether National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) Section 110 applies to the project. If so, describe how GSA will meet the requirements of Section 110.

Construction and Demolition Debris and Building Materials

Best practices in demolishing buildings prevents the spread of dust and potentially hazardous materials, such as lead and asbestos, that were historically used in buildings. Demolishing buildings also presents opportunities for reuse and recycling of materials, which benefits the environment and preserves valuable landfill capacity.

Recommendations for the DEIS:

- Recycle construction and demolition debris to the greatest extent feasible.
- Discuss applicable practices from EPA's Sustainable Management of Construction and Demolition Materials webpage.¹ Best practices may also be applicable from EPA's Large-Scale Residential Demolition webpage.² Use these resources to help: (1) identify environmentally-sensitive activities associated with building removal and (2) develop contract language for bid packages with specific technical requirements to improve environmental results from demolition.
- Use recycled materials to replace raw materials for infrastructure components to the extent feasible. Consider use of recycled materials in pavement applications and to replace carbon-intensive Portland Cement in concrete. In some circumstances, on-site asphalt can also be re-used.

Air Quality

Construction activity would release air emissions from equipment engines, truck engines, and earthwork activity. In 2002, EPA classified diesel emissions as a likely human carcinogen, and in 2012 the International Agency for Research on Cancer concluded that diesel exhaust is carcinogenic to humans. Diesel exhaust can also worsen heart and lung disease, especially in vulnerable populations, such as children and elderly people.

Recommendations for the DEIS:

- Discuss existing air quality conditions in the project area and disclose air quality impacts that could result from this project.
- Discuss whether the project area can be enclosed (e.g., with tarps) to capture dust and debris when demolishing the building.
- Require construction contractors to use best practices. Options include: (1) requiring specific idling time limits for construction trucks and heavy equipment, (2) locating construction equipment and staging zones away from fresh air intakes to buildings, and (3) soliciting bids that require zero-emission technologies or advanced emission control systems. Commit to applicable recommendations in the enclosed Construction Emissions Control Checklist.

Children's Health

Executive Order 13045 on children's health and safety directs each federal agency to make it a high priority to identify and assess environmental health and safety risks that may disproportionately affect children and ensure that policies, programs, activities, and standards address these risks.

Recommendations for the DEIS:

Prior to construction, require a construction traffic management plan to ensure that trucks hauling materials and heavy machinery avoid areas where children congregate along the route to and from the project area, when possible. Route construction truck traffic away from schools, daycare facilities, and parks when possible, and use crossing guards when such areas cannot be avoided. In addition to air quality benefits, careful routing may protect children from vehicle-pedestrian accidents.

NHPA and Tribal Resources

The NOI explains, "NHPA and NEPA are independent statutes, yet may be executed concurrently to optimize efficiencies, transparency, and accountability to better understand the effects to the human, natural, and cultural environment." EPA appreciates GSA's efforts to align processes and recognizes the benefits of doing so.

Recommendations for the DEIS:

- Describe GSA's approach to fulfilling NHPA Section 106 requirements. Document coordination and input received from the State Historic Preservation Officer and Tribes with ancestral ties to the land. Explain how GSA has and will continue to address input provided by the SHPO and Tribal representatives.
- Assess options for documenting historic building information prior to demolition.

- Commit to consult with Tribes with ancestral ties prior to any demolition.
- If buildings are demolished, describe the process for (1) addressing inadvertent discoveries (e.g., Tribal remains, artifacts, other culturally or historically sensitive items) and (2) complying with the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act.

Noise and Vibration

If GSA selects an alternative that includes demolition, then there would be noise and vibration impacts from the project. EPA’s website discusses health effects associated with noise. “Problems related to noise include stress related illnesses, high blood pressure, speech interference, hearing loss, sleep disruption, and lost productivity...[R]esearch has shown that exposure to constant or high levels of noise can cause countless adverse health effects.”³

Recommendations for the DEIS:

- Identify noise and vibration sensitive receptors in the project area. Include residences, cultural and religious gathering spots, schools, day care centers, senior housing, community centers, medical facilities, and offices, among other. Assess how the project would impact such receptors.
- Disclose and compare noise and vibration impacts at specific noise sensitive locations for all project alternatives.
- If needed, consider measures to reduce or mitigate noise and vibration. This may include use of alternative equipment or limiting time windows when certain equipment may be used.

Environmental Justice (EJ) and Community Engagement

To promote environmental justice, Executive Order 12898 requires Federal agencies to identify and address disproportionately high and adverse impacts of all programs, policies, and activities on low income and/or minority populations. EPA encourages the use of EJScreen⁴ for EJ scoping efforts. EPA’s nationally consistent EJ screening and mapping tool is a useful first step in highlighting locations that may be candidates for further analysis. The tool can help identify potential community vulnerabilities by calculating EJ Indexes and displaying other environmental and socioeconomic information in color-coded maps and standard data reports (e.g., pollution sources, health disparities, critical service gaps, climate change data). EJScreen can also help focus environmental justice outreach efforts by identifying potential language barriers, meeting locations, tribal lands and indigenous areas, and lack of broadband access. For purposes of NEPA review, EPA considers a project to be in an area of potential EJ concern when the area shows one or more of the twelve EJ Indexes at or above the 80th percentile in the nation and/or state. However, scores under the 80th percentile should not be interpreted to mean there are definitively no EJ concerns present.

While EJScreen provides access to high-resolution environmental and demographic data, it does not provide information on every potential community vulnerability that may be relevant. The tool’s standard data report should not be considered a substitute for conducting a full EJ analysis, and scoping efforts using the tool should be supplemented with additional data and local knowledge. Also, in recognition of the inherent uncertainties with screening level data and to help address instances when the presence of EJ populations may be diluted (e.g., in large project areas or in rural locations), EPA recommends assessing each block group within the project area individually and adding an appropriate buffer around the project area. Please see the EJScreen Technical Documentation⁵ for a discussion of these and other issues.

Recommendations for the DEIS:

- Identify the presence of low-income and/or minority communities within the project area that could experience environmental impacts from the proposed project. Disclose demographic information. For initial screening, use EPA's EJScreen mapping tool. Use census-tract-level information to initially help locate communities with EJ concerns.
- Describe past activities and future plans to engage minority populations, low-income populations, and the surrounding community in the environmental review and planning phase, and, if the project commences, during demolition.
- Evaluate the impacts of this proposal on low-income and/or minority communities and sensitive receptors (e.g., children, people with asthma, etc.).
- Compare project impacts on low-income and minority populations with an appropriate reference community to determine whether there may be disproportionate impacts. Consider risk of exposure to hazardous/toxic materials associated with the proposed demolition and noise impacts.
- In conducting the EJ analysis, utilize resources such as the *Promising Practices Report*⁶ and the *Community Guide to EJ and NEPA Methods*⁷ to appropriately engage in meaningful, targeted, community outreach, analyze impacts, and advance environmental justice through NEPA implementation.
- Identify measures to (1) ensure meaningful community engagement, (2) minimize adverse community impacts, and (3) avoid disproportionate impacts to communities with EJ concerns.
- Consider cumulative environmental impacts to minority populations, low-income populations, and indigenous peoples in the project area within the environmental justice analysis and disclose GSA's conclusions.
- Include GSA's analysis and conclusion regarding whether the Proposed Action or any action alternatives may have disproportionately high and adverse impacts on low income or minority communities, as specified in CEQ's Environmental Justice Guidance.⁸
- Describe measures that GSA would take to avoid, minimize, or mitigate impacts any disproportionate impacts to communities with EJ concerns and impacts to other sensitive populations.

Greenhouse Gas Reduction (GHG) and Climate Change

tackling climate change presents.” The U.S. Global Change Research Program’s National Climate Assessment provides data and scenarios that may be helpful in assessing trends in temperature, precipitation, and frequency and severity of storm events.⁹ The proposed project would release GHG emissions during construction from trucks hauling materials, workers’ vehicles, and operation of construction equipment. It is important for the DEIS to fully quantify and disclose emissions from the proposed action.

In addition, estimates of the social cost of greenhouse gases (SC-GHG¹⁰) are informative for assessing the impacts of GHG emissions. SC-GHG estimates monetize the societal value of changes in GHG emissions from actions that have small, or marginal, impacts on cumulative global emissions. Estimates of the social cost of carbon (SC-CO₂) and other greenhouse gases (e.g., social cost of methane (SC-CH₄)) have been used for over a decade in Federal government analyses. Quantification of anticipated GHG releases and associated SC-GHG comparisons among all alternatives (including the No Action Alternative) within the DEIS could inform project decision-making and provide support for implementing all practicable measures to minimize GHG emissions.

Recommendations for the DEIS:

Emissions & SC-GHG Disclosure and Analysis

- Quantify reasonably foreseeable direct (e.g., construction) and indirect (off-site material hauling and disposal) GHG emissions.
- Use SC-GHG estimates to consider the climate damages from net changes in direct and indirect emissions of CO₂ and other GHGs from the proposed project. To do so, EPA recommends a breakdown of estimated net GHG emission changes by individual gas, rather than relying on CO₂-equivalent (CO₂e) estimates, and then monetize the climate impacts associated with each GHG using the corresponding social cost estimate (i.e., monetize CH₄ emissions changes expected to occur with the social cost of methane (SC-CH₄) estimate for emissions).¹¹ When applying SC-GHG estimates, just as with tools to quantify emissions, disclose the assumptions (e.g., discount rates) and uncertainties associated with such analysis and the need for updates over time to reflect evolving science and economics of climate impacts.
- Compare GHG emissions and SC-GHG across alternatives to inform project decision-making.

Resilience and Adaptation

- Describe changing climate conditions (i.e., temperatures and frequency and severity of storm events) and assess how such changes could impact the proposed project and

⁹ Information on changing climate conditions is available through the National Climate Assessment at: <http://nca2018.globalchange.gov>

¹¹ Transforming gases into CO₂e using Global Warming Potential (GWP) metrics, and then multiplying the CO₂e tons by the SC-CO₂, is not as accurate as a direct calculation of the social costs of non-CO₂ GHGs. This is because GHGs differ not just in their potential to absorb infrared radiation over a given time frame, but also in the temporal pathway of their impact on radiative forcing and in their impacts on physical endpoints other than temperature change, both of which are relevant for estimating their social cost but not reflected in the GWP. See the Interagency Working Group on Social Cost of Greenhouse Gases’ February 2021 Technical Support Document: Social Cost of Carbon, Methane, and Nitrous Oxide Interim Estimates under Executive Order 13990 for more discussion and the range of annual SC-CO₂, SC-CH₄, and SC-N₂O estimates currently used in Federal benefit-costs analyses.

- the environmental impacts of the proposed project and alternatives. Consider increases in frequency and severity of storm events, flooding, and periods of high heat.
- Describe climate resilience and adaption considerations for (1) construction plans; (2) emergency planning; (3) stormwater management; and (5) maintenance and monitoring of the site post demolition.

Reduction and Mitigation

- Identify practices GSA could take to reduce and mitigate GHG emissions; include commitments in the DEIS and in permit conditions, if applicable. Consider practices in the enclosed Construction Emission Control Checklist.

Public Outreach & Implementation of Mitigation

We encourage GSA to keep the surrounding community informed of protective measures that construction contractors will be required to follow.

Recommendations for the DEIS:

List all applicable measures (such as specific time restrictions for construction vehicle idling and noise generation, among others) on a bulletin, and post the bulletin at easily visible locations within and adjacent to the project area. Include a contact name and telephone number for people to call if they have questions or observe protective measures not being followed. We also recommend prominently posting such information on GSA's website and at nearby community buildings.

ENCLOSURE 2: CONSTRUCTION EMISSION CONTROL CHECKLIST

Diesel emissions and fugitive dust from project construction may pose environmental and human health risks and should be minimized. In 2002, EPA classified diesel emissions as a likely human carcinogen, and in 2012 the International Agency for Research on Cancer concluded that diesel exhaust is carcinogenic to humans. Acute exposures can lead to other health problems, such as eye and nose irritation, headaches, nausea, asthma, and other respiratory system issues. Longer term exposure may worsen heart and lung disease.¹² We recommend GSA consider the following protective measures and commit to applicable measures in the DEIS.

Mobile and Stationary Source Diesel Controls

Purchase or solicit bids that require the use of vehicles that are equipped with zero-emission technologies or the most advanced emission control systems available. Commit to the best available emissions control technologies for project equipment in order to meet the following standards.

- On-Highway Vehicles: On-highway vehicles should meet, or exceed, the EPA exhaust emissions standards for model year 2010 and newer heavy-duty, on-highway compression-ignition engines (e.g., long-haul trucks, refuse haulers, shuttle buses, etc.).¹³
- Non-road Vehicles and Equipment: Non-road vehicles and equipment should meet, or exceed, the EPA Tier 4 exhaust emissions standards for heavy-duty, non-road compression-ignition engines (e.g., construction equipment, non-road trucks, etc.).¹⁴
- Locomotives: Locomotives servicing infrastructure sites should meet, or exceed, the EPA Tier 4 exhaust emissions standards for line-haul and switch locomotive engines where possible.
- Marine Vessels: Marine vessels hauling materials for infrastructure projects should meet, or exceed, the latest EPA exhaust emissions standards for marine compression-ignition engines (e.g., Tier 4 for Category 1 & 2 vessels, and Tier 3 for Category 3 vessels).¹⁵
- Low Emission Equipment Exemptions: The equipment specifications outlined above should be met unless: 1) a piece of specialized equipment is not available for purchase or lease within the United States; or 2) the relevant project contractor has been awarded funds to retrofit existing equipment, or purchase/lease new equipment, but the funds are not yet available.

Consider requiring the following best practices through the construction contracting or oversight process:

- Establish and enforce a clear anti-idling policy for the construction site.
- Use onsite renewable electricity generation and/or grid-based electricity rather than diesel-powered generators or other equipment.
- Use electric starting aids such as block heaters with older vehicles to warm the engine.
- Regularly maintain diesel engines to keep exhaust emissions low. Follow the manufacturer's recommended maintenance schedule and procedures. Smoke color can signal the need for maintenance (e.g., blue/black smoke indicates that an engine requires servicing or tuning).

¹² Carcinogenicity of diesel-engine and gasoline-engine exhausts and some nitroarenes. The Lancet. June 15, 2012

¹³ <http://www.epa.gov/otaq/standards/heavy-duty/hdci-exhaust.htm>

¹⁴ <https://www.epa.gov/emission-standards-reference-guide/epa-emission-standards-nonroad-engines-and-vehicles>

¹⁵ <https://www.epa.gov/emission-standards-reference-guide/all-epa-emission-standards>

- Where possible, retrofit older-tier or Tier 0 nonroad engines with an exhaust filtration device before it enters the construction site to capture diesel particulate matter.
- Replace the engines of older vehicles and/or equipment with diesel- or alternatively-fueled engines certified to meet newer, more stringent emissions standards (e.g., plug-in hybrid-electric vehicles, battery-electric vehicles, fuel cell electric vehicles, advanced technology locomotives, etc.), or with zero emissions electric systems. Retire older vehicles, given the significant contribution of vehicle emissions to the poor air quality conditions. Implement programs to encourage the voluntary removal from use and the marketplace of pre-2010 model year on-highway vehicles (e.g., scrappage rebates) and replace them with newer vehicles that meet or exceed the latest EPA exhaust emissions standards, or with zero emissions electric vehicles and/or equipment.

Fugitive Dust Source Controls

- Stabilize open storage piles and disturbed areas by covering and/or applying water or chemical/organic dust palliative, where appropriate. This applies to both inactive and active sites, during workdays, weekends, holidays, and windy conditions.
- Install wind fencing and phase grading operations where appropriate, and operate water trucks for stabilization of surfaces under windy conditions.
- When hauling material and operating non-earthmoving equipment, prevent spillage and limit speeds to 15 miles per hour (mph). Limit speed of earth-moving equipment to 10 mph.

Occupational Health

- Reduce exposure through work practices and training, such as maintaining filtration devices and training diesel-equipment operators to perform routine inspections.
- Position the exhaust pipe so that diesel fumes are directed away from the operator and nearby workers, reducing the fume concentration to which personnel are exposed.
- Use enclosed, climate-controlled cabs pressurized and equipped with high-efficiency particulate air (HEPA) filters to reduce the operators' exposure to diesel fumes. Pressurization ensures that air moves from inside to outside. HEPA filters ensure that any incoming air is filtered first.
- Use respirators, which are only an interim measure to control exposure to diesel emissions. In most cases, an N95 respirator is adequate. Workers must be trained and fit-tested before they wear respirators. Depending on the type of work being conducted, and if oil is present, concentrations of particulates present will determine the efficiency and type of mask and respirator. Personnel familiar with the selection, care, and use of respirators must perform the fit testing. Respirators must bear a NIOSH approval number.
