BACKGROUND

The Code of Federal Regulations set forth at 26 C.F.R. Parts 1 and 602 provide rules to ensure qualified transportation fringe benefits provided to employees are excludable from gross income. These final regulations reflect changes to the law made by the Energy Policy Act of 1992, the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997, and the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century of 1998. The final regulations affect employers offering qualified transportation fringe benefits and employees who receive these benefits.

INSTRUCTIONS

The "Transportation Equity Act of the 21st Century (TEA-21) Benefit Program" is a provision of the Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C. 132), permitting an employer to pay for an employee's cost of commuting to work, in other than a single occupancy vehicle. Employees do not report this as income for tax purposes. The TEA-21 benefit program is considered a "qualified transportation" fringe benefit and is offered to employees as a pretax payroll deduction. The benefit is designed to improve air quality, reduce traffic congestion and conserve energy by encouraging employees to commute by transit or vanpool.

The purpose of this form is to provide the necessary data to qualify for the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st century, 1998, Public Law Number 105-178. An employee's decision to receive the transportation fringe benefit will not affect the employee's basic rate of pay, which is the rate of pay fixed by law or by administrative action, 5 C.F.R. § 550.103.
